Edwin Markham's Birthday.

Eleven Lines of Shakespeare.

We Need Two Billions More.

Out Goes Our Gold.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

YESTERDAY the San Francisco Examiner celebrated the eightieth birthday of Edwin Markham, whose poem "The Man With the Hoe," first published in the Examiner, thirty-three years ago, has been read all over the world and translated into 50 languages.

New York celebrated the birthday, which actually occurred on Saturday, at a gathering in Carnegie Hall last night. Edwin Markham, "from the height of eighty years," issues another poem, sympathizing with human misery, and denouncing injustice.

Such protest will be heard a thousand years hence, and the thoughtless will think they do no good. But the sum total of sincere protests and appeals represents such civilization and justice as we have.

CONCERNING the immediate success of his poem Mr. Markham tells the San Francisco Examiner:

"I am grateful to the Examiner for launching my poem, 'The Man With the Hoe,' and as my friends prepare to celebrate my eightieth birthday, my mind naturally goes back to California, where I spent my boyhood.

"I was all ready for the event of seeing the original copy of Millet's painting because Arthur Brisbane's father had introduced me to a great social problem, first, in the gospels of Jesus; second, in and through Victor Hugo's 'The Man Who Laughed,' and third, in the radical 'Social Pages' of Fourier. These books moulded my mind and I still look back to them as the three most powerful volumes ever given to man."

THE NEW Shakespeare Theater at Stratford was opened with much praise for Americans that helped build it.

Mr. Baldwin said: "Welcome home" to American visitors; the Prince of Wales, his speech broadcast in America, thanked Americans, on behalf of England, for their share in the building. All that helped to honor the greatest genius ever born on earth deserve the world's thanks.

BUT IF Shakespeare had gathered his ashes together and appeared at the gathering, he would have been puzzled by the talk about America, and would probably have said, "Let us talk about England," and then read, from his own Richard Second:

This royal throne of kings, this sceptr'ed isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise;
This fortress built by Nature for herself,
Against infection and the hand of war;
This happy breed of men, this little world;
This precious stone set in the silver sea,
Which serves it in the office of a wall,
Or as a moat defensive to a house,
Against the envy of less happier lands—
This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England.

SHAKESPEARE was all for England, for "this blessed plot," where he was born and that was part of his greatness that transcends the greatness of all others. If you should wake him and say, "A great nation has fallen," he would ask, "Is it England?" and if you replied no, he would return to peaceful sleep again.

To be great, you must feel deeply, love and hate intensely. The so-called internationalist should remember that.

Young people seeking to improve their style might study these 11 lines from Shakespeare. Not a word too many or too few, always the right word, and a magnificent climax of power in the last line.

THE LATE Joseph Pulitzer, who really worked, learned English as a grown man and used the language admirably, used to take a German translation of Shakespeare, translate into his own English, then compare that with Shakespeare's original. Humiliating, but useful.

Take any authentic page of Shakespeare, study his use of language, as spontaneous with him as song in a bird, learn by heart the lines you have just read, recite and see how much meaning you can give to them. Do the same with a thousand other lines of Shakespeare, and you will be on the way to knowing something about the English language.

IT IS ANNOUNCED that the House economy committee has arranged to cut $263,000,000 from government expense. And, with that, the government will still have a deficit of two and a half billions. The economies seem to be modest.

Senator Borah has told this writer that it would be possible to cut five hundred millions from government expense. Why not try his plan?

OUR "SUFFERING friends in Europe," to whom we were sending food, men and money, a little while ago, continue drawing on our gold supply. They took more than $37,000,-

HOW CONVICT ESCAPED

HOW DONALD DOANE TODAY ESCAPED CENTRAL STATION

How Convict Doane, 26, St. Louis, today climbed through the second of two windows from which he had sawed the bars, leaped to the garage roof, entered a... er window that permitted him to walk unmolested out into Water street. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

SAWS WAY FREE FROM CELL

Donald Doane, 26, St. Louis convict, sawed his way out of Central Police Station today. After sawing loose the bars of his cell and the bars of a window, he jumped 25 feet to the roof of the station garage, climbed through another window into the station balcony and sped out the water street doors.

All this after Police Operator William Sloan said he had sounded a warning. Sloan, in the washroom above the cells, told Sergt. John Hooper he heard noises which sounded like sawing.

But Hooper reported an immediate investigation failed to reveal undue activity.

An hour later Doane was absent.

Doane was arrested Saturday when he tried to pawn a watch in a Liberty avenue shop. Police said the watch had been stolen from the home of J. A. Brickley at 308 Neville street, Shadyside.

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh ordered an immediate investigation.

Records showed that Doane, sentenced to seven years for robbery, had escaped from the Massachusetts Penitentiary last July.

Paymaster Faints, Injured by Auto

Harry W. Minnemeyer, 50, city paymaster, fainted today as he waited for a street car at Diamond and Grant streets and fell against the rear fender of a passing auto. Suffering bruises, Minnemeyer was rushed to Mercy Hospital. The motorist, Harry Soles, 25, of 2131 Duquesne avenue, McKeesport, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving, but the police report indicated he was not at fault.

TROLLEY WAGE CUT REJECTED

MASSIE CASE SURPRISE HINTED

Prosecution Indicates New Testimony on Murder; Doctor to Be Recalled

By JAMES ADAM
International News Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 25.—Surprising and hitherto unrevealed testimony concerning the death of Joseph Kahahawai may bring the state's case against the four Americans accused of his "honor slaying" to a close, Prosecutor John C. Kelley hinted today.

Dr. Joseph Catton, state alienist, had been expected to close the prosecution by testifying that Lieut. Thomas H. Massie was sane when the fatal shot was fired, but Kelley intimated that he may recall Dr. Robert B. Faus to the stand for further questioning.

PERFORMED AUTOPSY

Dr. Faus, who also estified that in his opinion Lieut. Massie was normal, performed the autopsy on Kahahawai and had previously testified as to the location of the bulleet that caused his death.

What Dr. Fauls' testimony woul be, andhow it would bear on the case against Lieut. Massie, Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, and two navalenlisted men, Kelley refused to reveal.

Meanwhile, Clarence Darrow is preparing the address he will make to the mixed jury of married men for the defense of the four Americans.

His appeal will be the one great final effort in a long and brilliant career, it is believed here.

CASE NEARS JURY

Both the prosecutor and Darrow, leader of the defense of the four Americans, believe the case will go into the hands of the jury late tomorrow or early Wednesday.

Out at the Pearl Harbor navy base, where the defendants spent Sunday, they and Mrs. Massie were hopeful of an acquittal.

The lieutenant received a message from his mother at Winchester, Ky., to keep up his spirit, not to worry and that she is pray-

M'GOVERN WARNS ON FRAUD

Commissioner May Ask State Troopers to Watch Polls; Davis Victory Likely

By MARK SHIELDS

Chairman Charles C. McGovern, of the County Board, in charge of election machinery at tomorrow's primary, today warned all factions that the election laws would be rigidly enforced, and pledged "there shall be no tampering with the returns, once the will of the electorate has been expressed."

McGovern, follower of Gov. Pinchot, and supporting the Independent ticket of Gen. Smedley Butler for the United States Senate, Ralph Flinn for Auditor General, and Judge Joseph Stadtfeld for the Superior Court, declared that while the "primary issue of tomorrow's election is the clear-cut choice between exponents of the corrupt gang politics of the Philadelphia Vare organization and Independent representatives of the people," it is of more importance that the election be honestly conducted.

RECALLS CHARGES

Recalling past experiences of the Commissioner's office, where the election machinery for years has been in the hands of the organization, resulting in charges that results had been tampered with after return sheets reached the county building, McGovern said:

"In Allegheny County for the first time the election machinery belongs unqualifiedly to the people."

Information has been obtained of the padding of registration lists, McGovern said, adding a warning that the effort of any individual or faction to profit by this would be punished. He hinted state police might be summoned, as in the last two elections, if necessary, though troopers will not be posted in the Courthouse at the service of the Registration Commission, as they were last fall.

SEE DAVIS VICTORY

Each side was claiming victory in both Allegheny County and the state. Impartial observers predict that Davis will defeat Butler handily in the state; that Frank Baldwin, of Butler County, will be elected Auditor General over Flinn, that Davis will carry Allegheny County by approxi-

Schooley, Burgoyne Due in City Today

Roy D. Schooley, discharged City Treasurer, under indictment for irregularities in office, is coming home today from the Ford Hospital in Detroit, says a Detroit news dispatch. He was described as "very much better" after a relapse resulting from burns suffered in his home here. He is reported accompanied by his former aide, Arthur G. Burgoyne, also under indictment.

Pirates and Cubs Game Is Postponed

CHICAGO, April 25.—The game between the Pirates and Cubs, scheduled here today, was postponed because of cold weather.

Cold weather held the attendance down to 6,000 as the Bruins beat the Bucs, 12-3, in the opener of their series yesterday, and the breezes still were too cool for good baseball today.

Norma Talmadge Won't Seek Divorce

PARIS, April 25.—(INS.)—Norma Talmadge, American screen star, arrived in France aboard the Europa today and immediately announced she had "changed her mind" and abandoned her intention of seeking a divorce from Joseph M. Schenck, her film-producer husband.

Stimson Recovers, Remains in Geneva

GENEVA, April 25.—(AP.)—The slight illness of Henry L. Stimson, the American Secretary of State, was so improved today he decided to remain in Geneva instead of going to the mountains for a short rest as his physicians had advised.

Limitation of Credit Crushing Spirit of U. S.

By B. C. FORBES

NOT ONLY EMPLOYMENT, industry, wealth, enterprise, savings are being daily destroyed, but the very spirit of the American people is being crushed, discouraged—in many instances enraged.

Why?

Because, for one reason, there is not available enough of man-made TOKENS of wealth, not enough of our artificial MEDIUM OF EXCHANGE, not enough gold and silver and properly-secured paper money (WHICH ARE BUT MARKERS OR COUNTERS) in active circulation, not enough of that INTANGIBLE BUT ESSENTIAL THING CALLED CREDIT.

It is NOT that we do not possess an adequate amount of ACTUAL wealth, ACTUAL property, ACTUAL assets.

This is the fundamental plight, the well-nigh irremediable plight of some nations, of even many nations.

It is NOT America's plight. Ours is not fundamental, not irremediable.

Ours is superficial, artificial. Ours IS remediable.

* * *

JOHN SMITH still owns his home—but let him try to turn a modest part of it into MOBILE "wealth," into man-made tokens of wealth, into our MEDIUM OF EXCHANGE, into USABLE money!

Farmer Jones still owns his farm—but let him try to turn a modest part of it into money, into employable currency of any kind!

Millions still own the self-same bonds and stocks they have owned for several years, they are still partners in the self-same (often greatly improved) factories, railroads, mines, stores, oil properties, utilities. But let them try to turn them into employable currency and they are offered next to nothing, a despicable fraction of the savings they invested in them.

* * *

NO; THE NATION'S homes have neither deteriorated nor disappeared, the nation's industrial and utility and mercantile and transportation properties have neither deteriorated nor disappeared, the nation's abundant supply of materials and commodities has neither deteriorated nor disappeared.

We have all the tangible possessions, all the true wealth, we ever had—more so!

* * *

WHAT, THEN, do we lack?

Why are 40,000,000 or more men, women and children the direct victims of unemployment, and almost every family in the land afflicted by depression?

We lack FAITH in America and its future—we lack it because we have lost it by reason of the unconscionable things which have been happening.

We are suffering today largely because of acute scarcity, not of genuine, actual, tangible wealth, but of the counters, the tokens we employ for the EXCHANGING of wealth and of that mystic lifeblood of trade and industry and commerce that we have named "credit."

* * *

TWO OBJECTIVES, therefore, must be achieved.

We must restore faith in America and its future.

But to accomplish that, we must FIRST provide an ample supply of monetary tokens and of credit.

* * *

WITHOUT FOR a moment countenancing any thought of abandoning the gold standard, this latter can and should be done without one hour's avoidable delay by EAGER co-operation among the administration, Congress, the Federal Reserve Board and banks, national banks, state banks, investment houses, international bankers, supplemented by WHOLE-HEARTED backing by capitalists, industrial leaders, insurance companies, investors, investment trusts—indeed, by ALL capable of grasping the urgency of the need for stemming the descent into still deeper depths of social distress and ugly discontent.

COUNCILMEN GET REPORT ON PARLEY

Company Plans Greater Reduction If 10 Per Cent Proposal Meets Failure

Employes of the Pittsburgh Railways Company through their wage committee have rejected the company's proposal for a 10 per cent wage cut, effective Sunday midnight when the present wage agreement expires, it was revealed in City Council today.

Charles A. Finley, chairman of the Traction Conference Board, presented a letter to Council, in which he outlined the status of the wage dispute between the 2,200 motormen, conductors and other employes. It read:

"The wage committee (of the employes) said it did not see its way clear to take back to the employes the suggestion of a 10 per cent reduction."

WARNED BY COMPANY

The company, it previously was announced, had asked the men to accept a "voluntary" 10 per cent reduction, declaring if it was not accepted, a 15 per cent cut would be ordered.

The Traction Conference Board, Finley's letter said, held two meetings with the wage committee of the employes and officials of the company and found the factions had been conferring daily for 10 days, "resulting in a tentative agreement on practically all questions involved except those pertaining to wages."

The letter also disclosed the Traction Conference Board has suggested to the company it prepare a supplementary budget for 1932 "more nearly adjusted to adverse conditions." It also stated that the company's indicated deficit for 1932 approximated $4,000,000.

KEFER TO LAYOFFS

Although representatives of the Street Railways Employes' Union refused to make any statements, it was understood the men had informed the company they "already had made a decided contribution to the reduction of costs" by submission to extension of one-man car operation and lay-offs of employes.

It also was understood the men's present attitude was to continue operation of the street cars after Sunday midnight, temporarily, at least, while attempts to reach an agreement would be continued.

Leaders of the workers did intimate, however, one of their national officials may come to Pittsburgh this week in an effort to speed a settlement.

GRILL COUPLE ON LINDY NOTE

TRENTON, N. J., April 25.—(INS.)—Investigators from the headquarters of the New Jersey state police are en route to Downington Pa., to participate in the questioning of a man and a woman held there in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping investigation, Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf announced in his official bulletin today.

The couple, Miss Edith Crebbe, 26, a nurse, of Detroit, Mich., and Albert Lacher, of Germantown, Pa., were found living at a tourist camp.

Their arrest came about when Miss Crebbe mailed a letter to Col. Lindbergh. Suspicion was first directed towards her when she offered an unidentified person $5 to address a letter to the noted aviator. Later she mailed the letter, holding it with her handkerchief as she deposited it in the post-office. In it, police said, she gave Col. Lindbergh detailed instructions of how he could communicate with her.

Amateur detective work by the Rev. G. Paul Musselman, rector of St. James Protestant Episcopal Church, was really the cause of the arrest of the pair, Chief Glisson admitted.

MacDonald's Sight Unharmed by Trip

GENEVA, April 25.—(AP.)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, underwent an examination for his eyes last night and it showed that no further deterioration of his sight has occurred since he left London, an official statement issued here today said.

Greece Abandons Gold Standard

ATHENS, Greece, April 25.—(AP.)—The cabinet voted today to abandon the gold standard.

FEAR 4 TOWNS HIT BY TORNADO

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 25.—(AP.)—Four towns of Shelby County, Tenn., were reported struck by a tornado today. Communication lines were torn down and it was impossible to estimate the extent of the damage immediately.

First reports said Millington, Rosemark, Kerrville and possibly other towns were in the path of the twister and there were a number of persons injured. Airplanes rushed physicians from Memphis and all ambulance crews in the city were pressed into service.

Authorities are checking reports that several persons were killed at Rosemark.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., April 25.—(AP.)—A windstorm that approached proportions of a tornado, accompanied by severe lightning, torrential rains and hail, swept through a haf dozen or more Southern Kentucky counties today. One man was injured in Warren County, another was shocked by lightning in Adair County and heavy damage was caused.

Durant Urges Revival Of Dowry Custom

NEW YORK, April 25.—(INS.)—Revival of the old custom of dowries as an aid to successful marriages was urged today by Dr. Will Durant, author. He declared it would help make woman again an economic asset in the home, which alone would restore "health to the institution of marriage."

Ban on Tips Brings Strike of Caddies

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—(AP.)—Disgruntled golfers toted their own bags or went home without playing while 200 caddies of the exclusive Philmont Club struck yesterday in protest again orders forbidding them to accept tips.

Fall Kills Woman Setting Clock Ahead

CHICAGO, April 25.—(AP.)—Daylight saving time has cost a human life. Mrs. Anna Larson climbed a stepladder to set her clock ahead. The ladder collapsed and she was killed.

Stricken in Pulpit, Noted Pastor Dies

DES MOINES, Ia., April 25.—(AP.)—Dr. Charles S. Medbury, 67, dean of the Des Moines ministry and a national figure, collapsed in his pulpit yesterday and died a moment later of heart trouble.

STORM STEALS LIGHT SAVING

The elements observed the first work-day of daylight saving this morning by enshrouding downtown Pittsburgh in inky darkness.

Myriads of lights gleamed from skyscraper windows while motorists used their headlights in weaving their way through the gloom.

A sudden shift of wind from east to west carrying smoke back over the city, combined with lowlying thunuder clouds to cause the sudden pall, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said.

Thundershowers, here and throughout the Ohio Valley were welcomed today as bringing relief from the dry weather of the last few weeks that was retarding vegetation and causing numerous brush fires in outlying districts.

Beaver Trolley Men Accept Pay Slash

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., April 25.—Forty-seven union employes of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction Company today voluntarily accepted a 10 per cent wage reduction in a one-year agreement which will become effective May 1.

The railway company has no connection with the Beaver Valley Traction Company, a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, which also is conferring on a new wage scale.

'STOP ROOSEVELT' FOES PIN FAITH IN TOMORROW'S VOTE

LOOK TO SMITH TO HALT DRIVE OF GOVERNOR

Dry Issue Dominates Race Of G. O. P. Candidates for Senate in Pennsylvania

WASHINGTON, April 25—(AP.)—A climatic decision which may virtually clinch the Democratic presidential nomination for Franklin D. Roosevelt or may cast tremendous odds against him impends in tomorrow's Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries.

In these two states the Stop Roosevelt forces, never back so far — have concentrated their strength behind Alfred E. Smith in a stupendous effort to halt the New York Governor's triumphant piling up of pledged convention votes. The struggle resting with the voters today is square cut. At stake, far more important than the 115 votes in the bag, is the moral effect on political leaders and voters in the twenty states which yet have to choose their candidates.

DIVISION FORECAST

The result, however, may be less definite than that. On the basis of the decisive summary of pending of opinion, partisan and neutral, appears to split a division the votes of the state: Massachusetts throwing the bulk of its to Smith, Pennsylvania giving majority of its delegates to Roosevelt.

Without the [illegible] accompanying the Democratic campaign the Republicans during this week will elect 264 more delegates in 13 states practically every one of whose votes is assured to President Hoover's column, which already counts 248. To the contrary, the nomination is his now.

In place of presidential candidates, issues are taking the Republican spotlight, particularly prohibition. Confused agitation for a referendum plank in the party platform has been bobbing up in the comments of party leaders. Furthermore, the Pennsylvania Republican primary also tomorrow will be marked by the fight of Smedley D. Butler, the fiery marine who, on an ardent dry, to wrest senatorial nomination from the incumbent James J. Davis, who swung to a wet position at the opening of his campaign.

Dry Issue to Front In Pennsylvania Primary

PHILADELPHIA, April 25 — (AP.)—The tumult of the Pennsylvania primary campaign will resolve itself tomorrow into the scratching of voters' pencils.

The country is most interested in the contest in which the least din has been raised—the struggle between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith for this state's 76 votes at the Democratic National Convention.

The Republican senatorial battle between Senator James J. Davis and Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, which supplies a wet-dry test and bitter inter-faction fights for lesser posts have been waged to a rumble like thunder.

As for the Republican delegates, there has been no campaign. There are contests in a couple of districts, but virtually all the 75 emissaries to Chicago will be friendly to President Hoover and controlled by the organization of William S. Vare.

TEST FOR PINCHOT

The Davis-Butler race also provides a test of strength between the organization and the independents headed by Gov. Pinchot.

Other contests are colorful, too. In the Fifteenth Congressional District Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, the Governor's wife, has battled to unseat Congressman Louis T. McFadden, who sprang into prominence and lost his patronage privileges with an attack on President Hoover in connection with the moratorium and foreign debts.

In Philadelphia former Mayor Harry A. Mackey, manager of Vare's senatorial campaign in 1926, is running for the Assembly, with Vare backing the other fellow—Howard M. Long.

Dry Favors Poll If Saloon Is Banned

WASHINGTON, April 25 — (AP.)—Charles M. Hay, of St. Louis, dry Democratic candidate for the Senate from Missouri in 1928, today said he would favor resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment if Congress at the same time prescribed a suitable alternative safeguarding against return of the saloon or unregulated liquor traffic.

In a speech before the National Woman's Democratic Club, Hay, who is seeking the senatorial nomination again this year, reaffirmed his dry stand, but said it must be realized that the success of any policy depends upon its support by public opinion.

HITLER'S GAINS FAIL TO PERIL GOVERNMENT

Nazis Unable to Achieve Clear-Cut Majority in Most of State Elections

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service.

BERLIN, April 25—Despite the huge gains made by Adolf Hitler and his National Socialist following in the Diet elections, the federal government was declared in no immediate danger today.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening remains head of the Reich with the Hitlerites forced to depend upon support of the Centrists to control the state parliaments where they gained heavily in yesterday's polling.

The Hitlerites failed to achieve a clear-cut majority in any of the states where elections were held except Anhalt, which is comparatively unimportant owing to the fact it sends only a single delegate to the Reichsrath, or Federal Council which holds power of dissolution over the Reichstag.

Indications were that an extreme right government, although not a pure Hitlerite regime, would be formed in Prussia, key state of the republic, where the Nazis gained 156 seats for a total of 162. The new Prussian government will have tacit support of the Centrists.

National Socialist and Centrist leaders issued statements stressing their readiness to form coalitions with any party of "good will." The Nazis significantly stated they "harbor no mean spirit of revenge," indicating they consider yesterday's election results as conclusive proof of their swift ascendancy to federal power.

It was believed the Centrists would state conditions under which they would co-operate with the Nazis, fully aware that the Hitlerite flood cannot be stemmed except through their participation in the government.

Communist leaders announced they would continue their policy of refusing to co-operate in any coalition.

THREE FATAL CLASHES

Considering the excitement which accompanied the voting, election day was quiet. Three deaths were reported as clashes occurred throughout Prussia, Bavaria, Wurtemberg, Hamburg and Anhalt, the five provinces in which the voting took place.

Prince August Wilhelm, son of the ex-kaiser, was one of the Fascists elected to the Prussian diet.

FIVE SENATORS WILL STEER 'BEAR' QUIZ

Steering Committee Named; May Employ Steur as Counsel; Gray Rapped

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Creation of a steering committee to employ special counsel, hire investigators and determine all matters of procedure in the Senate's investigation of speculation on the New York Stock Exchange was authorized today by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

The steering committee, to be composed of five Senators named by Senator Norbeck (Rep.) of South Dakota, chairman, will have broad powers to direct the trend of the inquiry.

The question of subpenaing John J. Raskob, William F. Kenny, Fred J. Fisher, W. C. Durant and other prominent traders, will be decided by this committee. It will hold its first session tomorrow.

INQUIRY ADJOURNS

Pending adoption of a program by the policy group, the investigation was adjourned until Wednesday.

The steering committee was created at an executive session of the committee, which lasted an hour and a half. Afterward it was rumored some members of the committee had expressed great dissatisfaction with William A. Gray, of Philadelphia, who served as special counsel for one week. It was reported Gray would be displaced by a more prominent New York attorney familiar with market transactions.

The name of Max Steuer, of New York, has been mentioned as a possible successor to Gray. Samuel Untermyer, the famous New York attorney, has been favored by other members of the committee, but his recent employment in the Ivar Kreuger case may prevent his selection. Other Senators wish to retain Gray, recommended for the post by Supreme Court Justice Owen D. Roberts.

QUIZ MAKES PROGRESS

Norbeck declared that the inquiry "made progress today and to date." He said:

"We will have a meeting of the steering committee by tomorrow at the latest and map out a program of procedure."

The committee's action meant the inquiry will be expanded to include the operations that built up the bull market of 1929 as well as the short-selling activities of recent months. Norbeck insisted the inquiry would be neither diverted nor limited. He said:

"We're going to find out everything we can about the stock market."

HINT MASSIE SURPRISE

ing for him.

Darrow, confident of acquittal, also made it clear he will fight against a possible mistrial through a demand for clear instructions by Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis.

Darrow said today:

"There can be only one verdict in this case—and that is 'not guilty.' Any other outcome of the trial would be, in my opinion, a gross miscarriage of justice."

CLAIM MASSIE INSANE

The defense case is that Lieut. Massie was insane when the Hawaiian was killed as he sat in the home of Mrs. Fortescue and assertedly confessed he was one of the five natives who kidnaped and attacked Mrs. Massie. It simplifies Darrow's claim of justification—the "unwritten law"—woven through the testimony of the young wife of the officer of her terrible experience.

Conflicting opinions of Lieut. Massie's mental state at the time of the killing have been placed before the jurors.

Testifying for the defense, Dr. Thomas J. Orbison and Dr. Edward H. Williams, noted psychiatrists, declared the officer's condition was one of a long-gathering tension that caused amnesia just before the "honor slaying" and for some hours afterward.

On the other hand, Dr. Paul Bowers and Dr. Robert B. Faus, as expert rebuttal witnesses for the state, attempted to refute this contention.

There is much speculation on what effect Mrs. Massie's spirited defiance of Kelley had on the jury—when she tore up, as a "confidential communication between patient and physician," on the witness stand, the paper stating the result of a psychopathic test she underwent at the University of Hawaii.

The prosecutor believes it did not go well with the jurors, but Darrow and other defense attorneys are convinced they approved her action.

Mrs. Fortescue Sells Cottage Furniture

HONOLULU, T. H., April 25 (INS)—Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, co-defendant in the "honor slaying" trial, today sold to a Honolulu newspaperman the furniture in her bungalow where Joseph Kahahawai was shot to death.

Accused Attacker On Honolulu Payroll

HONOLULU, April 25—Ben Ahakuelo, co-defendant with Joe Kahahawai and three other natives on a charge of kidnaping and brutally attacking Mrs. Thomas H. Massie, is now a municipal employe.

It was disclosed today that the native is on the city payroll as an emergency laborer in Alamoana Park, close to the scene of the attack upon the young wife.

Since the jury disagreed, Ahakuelo and the three other surviving natives have been at liberty on nominal bond.

20 GOVERNORS MEET IN VA.

RICHMOND, Va., April 25 (AP.)—Chief executives from more than a score of states assembled today in the Virginia Capitol at the start of the twenty-fourth conference of governors.

They arrived in the old hall of the House of Delegates to be welcomed by Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia, host to the conference, and to make their response through Gov. James Rolph, Jr., of California, their designated spokesman.

The Middle West and South were represented on the brief speaking program which was followed by the governors' departure to visit historic shrines at Charlottesville and nearby.

RELIEF NEEDS TOLD WOMEN

All available relief funds in city and county will be exhausted by July 11 unless the Family-Help-Family appeal is 100 per cent successful, Maj. Philip Mathews, of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, warned today. Maj. Mathews was a speaker at a luncheon of the women's division of the family plan in the William Penn Hotel, after which the women launched a countywide canvas.

Speakers at the meeting were Dr. Stuart Nye Hutchison, Mrs. F. C. Irish and Leo G. Griffith.

Tomorrow noon the four men's divisions in the appeal will hold another report meeting, the first since Friday. Up to date the men have reported funds sufficient to care for 3,631 families.

Relief Funds Low, Catholics Reveal

CINCINNATI, O., April 25—(AP.)—Catholic relief funds are almost exhausted and those dependent upon them will have to look to public agencies to bear a greater part of the relief burden, it was stated here today by James F. Murphy, Detroit, president of the National Conference of Catholic Charities.

Murphy's statement was issued following a meeting of the executive committee of the conference, attended by representatives of Catholic relief agencies throughout the country.

TRADE REFORM BILLS READY

WASHINGTON, April 25—(INS)—A program of financial and trade reform was being evolved today by Democratic leaders of the House, as its economy committee completed its task of devising ways of reducing government expenditures.

The plan of Democratic leaders embraces banking and tariff legislation.

The Democratic tariff bill, which has passed both bodies, will be brought before the House on Wednesday for acceptance of Senate amendments.

The measure provides for the calling of an international conference to study means of reducing tariff barriers and furthering trade, and strips the President of his power to make tariff changes under the flexible provisions of the present law.

Two bills embracing the financial program have already been reported by the House Banking Committee.

They include the Goldsborough bill directing the Federal Reserve Board to stabilize the purchasing power of the dollar and restore prices to the average commodity price level between 1921 and 1929, and the Steagall bill setting up a guaranty of bank deposits plan.

OIL AND COAL TARIFFS VOTED

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP.)—In a series of rapid fire ballots, the Senate Finance Committee today disposed of the tariff issue in the revenue bill by voting import taxes on oil, coal and copper and rejecting levies on forest products.

The provisions in the House bill for an import tax of 1 cent a gallon on oil and $2 a ton on coal were retained. An import levy on copper—the rate to be decided later—was added.

All votes were close. The attempt to remove the oil tax from the bill lost on a tie vote, 9 to 9. The lumber duties were rejected, 10 to 8.

000 in March, and this government, official and financial, continues to let them draw, showing all the keen intelligence of the Antarctic penguin, which stands with eyes wide open, looking at the sailor, while the sailor knocks it on the head.

WHY NOT invite foreign governments to draw all the gold belonging to them in this country and thereafter prohibit gold exports under any pretext, those holding American obligations with principal or interest payable in gold to collect here, without the right to export the metal.

Our British friends have prepared a budget, omitting any provision for paying debts to us. Other European countries, Italy and France, think that an excellent idea. Why not take measures to protect ourselves?

WET SENATORS, including some Republicans, want President Hoover to approve a sort of wet plank in the Republican 1932 platform. It would be a thin, little plank, simply expressing approval of a plan to let the people vote on prohibition.

However, other Republicans will say:

"The dry vote is ours. We know it, we are sure of it. Any Democrat nominated will have to call himself some kind of a wet. Why risk votes that are now safe and sure?"

It is not likely that the Republican platform will do more than skip over prohibition, as lightly as possible, like a cat crossing a wet sidewalk.

SLAIN GIRL NOT HYMIE WITNESS

Identity of the slain woman found in the Pymatuning Swamp near Linesville remained a mystery today after Deputy Coroner R. V. Peterson, of Linesville, announced the body was not that of Betty Gray, missing witness against "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin in the murder of William Potter, former councilman of Cleveland.

Peterson said the body, found last week, was that of a blonde and had no fillings in the teeth to correspond with the description of Miss Gray.

State police said the body answered in some respects the description of an Erie waitress, missing six months.

Miss Gray disappeared several months ago, after repudiating her testimony that sent Martin to the Ohio State Penitentiary, to serve a life term. Recently he was granted a new trial.

Atlanta Publisher Named to Senate

ATLANTA, Ga., April 25.—(AP.)—Maj. John S. Cohen, 62, president and editor of the Atlanta Journal, today was appointed United States Senator by Gov. Richard B. Russell, Jr., to succeed the late William J. Harris.

He will serve until the general election in November selects a successor for the remainder of the Harris term, which expires in March, 1937. Gov. Russell will be a candidate in November.

Widow of Man Slain By Dry Gets $5,000

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP.)—Payment of $5,000 to Senelma Wirkkula, of Big Falls, Minn., whose husband, Henry Wirkkula was shot to death by Emmett J. White, United States border patrolman on suspicion that the Wirkkula automobile contained liquor, was approved today by the Senate.

Pennsylvania Second In Auto Revenues

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP.)—Second in the number of motor vehicles registered in 1931, Pennsylvania was second in the amount collected for licenses. New York led the list with $41,887,611. Pennsylvania collected $31,607,172. Only one other state, Michigan, received as much as $20,000,000.

BANISH FEAR, MILLS URGES

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—A reinvigorated credit structure and a "restoration of national confidence" were called for today by Secretary Mills as "twin weapons which must be forged to turn back the forces of destruction."

The Treasury chief, addressing the annual luncheon of the Associated Press at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, told the officers of the news-gathering organization that "the wave of fear and the tide of deflation has to be turned back." He said:

"The only way that I know to bring adequate relief to the people of the United States is to set in motion forces that will make economic recovery possible."

As one of these forces, Mills outlined controlled credit expansion, amply safeguarded by the Federal Reserve system.

Burns Kill Wife, Aged Rescuer Hurt

Coraopolis Girl Student Found in Milwaukee

A happy reunion tonight will bring to a close a nine-day search for Lillian White, 15-year-old Coraopolis High School honor student, who disappeared April 14, from the home of her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. White, civic leaders, after a low mark in geometry kept her name off the school honor roll.

Mr. White left yesterday for Milwaukee, where the Travelers' Aid Bureau notified him they had found the daughter and will return with her to his home in Coraopolis tonight, according to Mrs. White.

Lillian made only one mention of her disappointment at being kept off the honor roll, Mrs. White said and gave no hint she was leaving. Mrs. White explained:

"Lillian was a very good student. For the past two years she had always been on the honor roll and, it seems, her heart was set on keeping her record good this year. We believe that the disappointment wore on her nerves."

Taxicab Stolen, Wrecked, Policeman Suspended

Wagonman John McCullough, 30, of 1 Brewery street, was arrested early today and later suspended pending a Police Trial Board hearing after, police said, he had threatened a cab driver with a revolver and then stole and wrecked the cab after the chauffeur fled.

H. L. Lantenschlager, 28, of 922 Kennebec street, driver of the cab, came to Central Police Station shortly after 9 a. m., carrying McCullough's revolver.

He told police McCullough, in uniform, had entered his cab at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station and ordered he be driven around town. At Fifth avenue and McMasters way, Lantenschlager said, the cab was stopped by traffic and when he tried to explain this to his passenger, McCullough shoved his service revolver in his back and said:

"Get out of here, I tell you!"

Instead, the driver said, he wrested the gun from the policeman and fled. As he did so, McCullough climbed into the driving compartment and started away. Lantenschlager told police.

The driver had barely finished his story, when in walked McCullough, under arrest.

The two officers who accompanied him said they had arrested him on a suspicious person charge when the cab which he was driving skidded and struck a telegraph pole at Water and Short street, two blocks from the station.

LANCASTER FREED AFTER THIRD ARREST IN SUICIDE AND PLOT

FLIER RELEASED IN PROBE OF SMUGGLING

Mrs. Keith Miller Held Innocent in Mysterious Shooting of Companion

MIAMI, Fla., April 25.—(AP.)—Capt. W. N. Lancaster, in custody three times since Thursday as a result of the fatal shooting of his room mate, Haden Clarke, 26, and a federal agents' inquiry into an alleged smuggling project, was free again today.

He was arrested by federal officers Saturday night upon his release from jail in connection with the Clarke case, but was freed after several hours' questioning. He was taken back to the county jail shortly after midnight and questioned through the day before his release last night.

Mrs. Jessie M. Keith Miller, Australian aviatrix and Clarke's fiancee, was exonerated Saturday of blame in the shooting and released.

SMUGGLING PLOT

Federal agents said Lancaster was questioned about an alleged conspiracy to smuggle narcotics from Mexico into the United States at Nogales, Ariz., but expressed their conviction that he was not a party to such a conspiracy.

Lancaster told the federal officers he was under contract to fly for a concern which, he learned after signing the contract, planned to smuggle Chinese aliens and their gold from Mexico into the United States by a plane-boat route.

Lancaster said he withdrew from the contract as soon as he learned the nature of it.

PROBE TO CONTINUE

Lancaster and Mrs. Keith Miller were arrested after they reported to police that Clarke, who was writing the Australian woman flier's life story, had shot himself in the bedroom he and Lancaster occupied in Mrs. Keith Miller's home.

They were questioned by State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne. Both were released.

Hawthorne said last night, however, he planned to continue his investigation. Upon releasing Mrs. Keith Miller, Hawthorne expressed conviction that she had no knowledge which might assist him in his attempt to learn whether Clarke took his own life, as two notes found beside his bed indicated, or whether he was killed as a result of what Hawthorne said he believed was a love triangle between the two men and Mrs. Keith Miller.

INQUEST DELAYED

Both the woman flier and Lancaster will be witnesses at an inquest into Clarke's death, originally set for today, but postponed pending further investigation of the shooting.

It also was indicated that Peggy Brown, who told Hawthorne Saturday that she and not Mrs. Keith Miller was Clarke's fiancee, will be a witness.

Mrs. Ida Clarke, mother of the dead man, quoted Capt. Lancaster as coming to her on his release from custody and saying:

"Mrs. Clarke, I want to look you straight in the eye and tell you I did not kill your son."

Earhart 'Giro Mark Broken by Yancey

BURBANK, Cal., April 25.—(AP.)—Having reached what he said was an unofficial altitude record for an autogiro plane, Capt. Lewis Yancey, New York to Rome flier, said today he planned to go aloft again within the next few days in an effort to establish an official record.

Capt. Yancey reported yesterday he climbed 19,200 feet. The former record, though unofficial, was held by Amelia Earhart Putnam, at 18,500 feet.

2,500 N. Y. Barbers Strike Over Wages

BANDITS SLUG, BIND WOMAN

Armed bandits held up the Pleasant Hill Country Club near the County Airport, and the Fountain Farm Roadhouse, at Allison Park, last night and early today, and escaped with cash and jewelry valued at nearly $4,000 after beating and choking a woman.

Pearl Slagle, 55, owner of the Fountain Farm roadhouse, told county detectives she was slugged when she attempted to keep the holdup men out of the place.

Mrs. Slagle said she was dragged to her bedroom. There, while one of the bandits tied a towel around her throat, his companions ransacked the room, uncovering $400 in cash and set diamonds valued at $3,000 hidden in the bed.

A few minutes after the last of scores of guests at the Pleasant Hill Country Club had departed, three bandits entered the resort and escaped with $400 after lining up seven employes, including a girl hostess. Miss Ida Wilson, of Wilson. William Green, proprietor, reporting the holdup to county detectives, said two of the bandits wore masks.

Austrian Fascists Score Huge Gains

VIENNA, April 25.—(INS.)—Fascists scored tremendous gains in yesterday's Austrian municipal elections, final returns showed today.

In Vienna the Socialists retained power, although the Fascists obtained 15 diet seats, whereas they previously had none. Similar gains were noted elsewhere.

S. Africa Captive Linked To Donnelly Kidnaping

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, April 25.—(INS.)—Police announced today that an American arrested here at the request of New York authorities as a "dangerous character" had been identified as Martin Depew, sought for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Nell Donnelly, wealthy Kansas City clothing manufacturer.

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—Photographs of Martin Depew, wanted by Kansas City authorities on a charge of kidnaping Mrs. Nell Donnelly, wealthy garment manufacturer, were identified today by several members of the crew of the freighter City of New York as being likenesses of "John M. Long," an engine-wiper, who deserted the ship at Durban, South Africa, March 27.

Long was arrested last Friday, at Johannesburg, at the request of the Attorney General of Missouri. When the City of New York docked in Brooklyn today James R. Page, of Kansas City, Jackson County prosecutor was on the pier, where he had doggedly paced up and down in a cold wind for more than three hours.

Depew was a steam shovel operator and was charged with kidnaping Mrs. Donnelly, later released without payment of $75,000 ransom demanded.

Three men and a woman, Depew's wife, are under arrest, charged with complicity in the abduction.

'KIN TO CZAR' EXPOSED AS STOWAWAY

'Grand Duke' Feted on Liner Held at Port; Shared Dog's Kennel to Sleep

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Michael Romanoff, who says he is "a relative to the late czar," will be "at home" every afternoon this week at Ellis Island, where he is staying temporarily as a guest of the government.

Romanoff just arrived on the Ile de France after a delightful trip, during which he was made much of by the first-class passengers, who believed him to be the Russian Grand Duke Michael.

SLEPT IN KENNEL

It was not until two days ago that he was revealed as a stowaway who had been sleeping at night in a very superior dog kennel, which also housed a dog owned by Mrs. G. W. Curtis, of Chicago. Mrs. Curtis didn't know about it.

Meals? That was easy. There always was a buffet lunch in the smoking room, there always were afternoon teas on the upper deck and there always were beautiful ladies asking him to dinner. He changed his clothes on the upper deck in the shadow of a lifeboat and spent money only in the barber shop.

Investigation showed the immaculate cuffs which peered from under his evening dress sleeves were made of ship stationery, but in his pocket was found $140.

BOAST EXPOSES HOAX

He was finally revealed as a stowaway as a result of an acquaintance he struck up with Edward A. Cudahy, Chicago packer. Romanoff told Cudahy he was a great friend of Capt. J. Blancart, commander of the liner. Cudahy mentioned this "friendship," and the captain ordered a checkup.

TOSCANINI BACK TO AID JOBLESS

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—Arturo Toscanini, conductor of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society, arrived today on the liner Ile de France to conduct a concert Friday at Carnegie Hall for the benefit of unemployed musicians.

He plans to return to Europe on the same ship, sailing Saturday. He said:

"I come to help the unemployed musicians and to offer them my sympathy and co-operation."

The maestro, who had been suffering from neuritis, said that his health now is "perfect" after a long rest at the little village of Piazzi, near Sienna. He said he hoped to have some new scores when he returns next October for eight weeks with the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society.

Order New Operator For Roosevelt Hotel

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, in Federal Court, today authorized the Commonwealth Trust Company, receiver for the General Forbes Hotel Company, to enter into a contract with the American Hotels Corporation, for operation of the Roosevelt Hotel. Prior to and since the receivership, December 3, 1929, the hotel has been under management of L. Fred Kloor.

'Kiki' Roberts Invites Clark to See Dance

MARION (KIKI) ROBERTS . . . SHE'S INVITING THE DIRECTOR

Girl in Diamond's Romance Performs Before Censors

Recovering from an abscess operation performed last Saturday on her right hip, Marion (Kiki) Roberts, former Ziegfeld Follies beauty and sweetheart of the late Jack (Legs) Diamond, sat on the edge of her bed in the William Penn Hotel today and penned an invitation to Public Safety Director James M. Clark to see her act, which opened at the Academy Theater at a Sunday midnight show.

"Kiki" made her bow to the Pittsburgh public early today under the watchful eye of Clark's censors. Whether the presentation displeased them as did "Lysistrata" and "Mourning Becomes Electra" was not made known. The "show went on" without interference.

Kiki said:

"Why I don't do anything I shouldn't. I simply do a dance made up of all the dance steps I have done in the several New York productions in which I have appeared. I don't even sing."

A more serious Kiki than the carefree girl who appeared in Pittsburgh three years ago in Ziegfeld's "Whoopee" greeted newspapermen. She didn't want to talk about "Legs" Diamond, requesting:

"Let's not talk about Jack. He was a wonderful man or I wouldn't have been associated with him. He was simply misunderstood."

Pleased with the success she is having on her present tour, which ends in six weeks, Kiki is anxious to "get a chance in the movies on my own merits."

Asked if she intended to marry, she said:

"What normal girl doesn't? Of course I will when the right man comes along."

TRADE LEADER FIGHTS BONUS

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(INS.)—Business is drifting in a fog of political uncertainty, only the passage of a tax act and avoidance of unwise experiments will serve to lift the fog, James A. Emery, representing the National Association of Manufacturers, told the House Ways and Means Committee today in opposing immediate payment of the World War veterans bonus.

He said enlarging the currency would do no good, because he claimed, there is in circulation now one-fifth more currency than during the boom period, while one-fourth less business is being transacted.

In answer to questions Emery admitted a large part of the responsibility for the current loss of confidence could be laid to stock speculation.

Boy, Aged 13, Kills Father, Shoots Two

GILBERT, Ariz., April 25.—(AP.)—Robert Merrell, 13, was sought today by officers on the story of his mother that he slew his father, R. W. Merrell, former mayor here, and wounded a brother and herself.

The mother said the youth arose from his bed last night, grabbed a pistol and, after the shooting, rode away on his pony. She was unable to give any reason for his act.

KREUGER'S N. Y. PENTHOUSE FOR RENT

Woman Only Occupant of Elaborate Suite; Friend in Paris Unaware of Suicide

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The Park avenue penthouse retreat of Ivar Kreuger, the dead Swedish match king, who gambled with life and love and gold, was for rent today.

With its floors and walls covered with priceless rugs and tapestries, paintings and etchings, the penthouse apartment was one of many in the joy capitals of the world which the late match king maintained.

The sole occupant of the nine-room apartment now is a beautiful woman, about 30, believed to have been the housekeeper for Kreuger. For six years this woman has lived there and has been seen only when she went walking along Park avenue with a blueblooded collie dog.

Kreuger, when in New York, would visit the lavishly-furnished penthouse. He always came on foot.

FRENCH WOMAN ILL

PARIS, April 25.—(INS.)—A mysterious French woman, with auburn hair, blue eyes and a Mona Lisa smile, whose life intertwined with that of the late Ivar Kreuger for a decade, lay seriously ill in a hospital on the Riviera today.

She still does not know that the millionaire Swedish industrialist who was her protector for more than 10 years is dead.

Stricken by worry over the financial crisis which cut short the strange life of the man whose business adventures and love affairs have startled the world, the woman, known only as "Mme. B," was seriously ill in a Paris hospital at the time of his suicide. She was taken to the Riviera lest the stories that were on every tongue reach her ears.

WOMAN LOSES BEQUEST

STOCKHOLM, April 25.—(AP.)—A romance of many years' standing with the late Ivar Kreuger, the Swedish match king, was hinted at by Mrs. Ingeborg Eberth, Stockholm society woman, who was bequeathed 500,000 kroner (currently about $93,000) in Kreuger's will.

The sum will not be available since the suicide and subsequent investigation into the financier's affairs showed no cash among his assets.

The woman described the financier, whose business methods have been questioned since his death, as a "fine, noble man."

Asked if she was "the woman" in Kreuger's life, she replied:

"If I answer that question it will be telegraphed all over the world. I will only say that he willed me the most."

Jilted Dope Addict Sought in Murders

NEW YORK, April 25.—(INS.)—A drug addict, infuriated by an unreturned love for Mrs. Josephina Nadel Tillotson Brinker, Jr., was sought by police today in connection with the double murder of Edward P. Brinker, Jr., and Rose Welk in an empty lot at Williston Park, Long Island.

District Attorney Edwards said it was possible the crime, which was marked by extraordinary ferocity, easily could have been the work of a single man whose strength was heightened to supernormal proportions by the effects of narcotics.

'SHYSTER' QUIZ SECRECY HELD HARMFUL

Hiding of Names Declared To Reflect on Reputable Lawyers; Action Is Near

Secrecy in withholding the names of attorneys against whom a court order has been issued to start disbarment action for "ambulance chasing" and "shyster" tactics today was cited as reflecting upon the standing of thousands of reputable members of the Allegheny County Bar Association.

The action expected to be started this week was ordered Saturday by the Court of Common Pleas following study of a partial report made by a bar association committee after several months' investigation. No names would be given by the probers, but it was understood 12 lawyers were named.

Practices of "ambulance chasing" attorneys and their runners were believed to have been easily uncovered. The Bar Association committee was known to have checked correspondence files of hospitals during its probe. These same files today revealed a cessation of activities by the questionable attorneys during the months when the probe was being conducted.

GET DAMAGE CASES

Despite precautions of hospitals to prevent "ambulance chasers" from visiting patients, the continual repetition of the same attorneys' names on correspondence shows they are able to obtain damage suits through the use of runners, either from accident victims or their families.

One patient is on record in the Allegheny General Hospital as having signed a power of attorney for four different lawyers. A nurse found one attorney attempting to visit the patient. His claim of holding a power of attorney caused an investigation. The patient admitted signing four papers.

One attorney's correspondence with this hospital equaled approximately 60 per cent of all letters received from lawyers seeking records of accident cases. A stereotyped form of letter is found in each case from this attorney. Yet, all attorneys appear to follow the same style. They hold as a bait for the hospital authorities the trouble of preparing information for them and a promise to see that all expenses will be paid immediately a settlement is arranged. Here is the usual letter from the attorney holding the record number of cases. After briefly citing he had been retained, it read:

"If the hospital will be kind enough to send me a report as to the injuries sustained by (patient's name) and your bill when he is ready to be discharged from the hospital, I will see that the said bill is paid when the case is terminated."

HUMOR FOR HOSPITAL

A humorous note was found in some of this attorney's letters. Evidently believing the hospital had become accustomed to the usual promise about payment, the letters would only cite the case, ending with:

"Send me his bill and a report of the injuries sustained by (patient's name) and the statement, etc."

A case where an attorney attempted to keep more than his share of the settlement is now being pressed by the hospital. This case was not before the local committee, since the attorney in question is a member of the Washington County Bar Association. Hospital authorities said this practice was not the general habit with attorneys.

The attorney handled a claim for parents of a minor injured in an accident. The casualty company, in making settlement, issued a check for $108.50 to the hospital and one for $175 to the attending physician, both being in full settlement. Photostatic copies of the canceled checks show the attorney crossed out the payee names and indorsed his clients' names, by his own. He then forwarded his personal check to the hospital for $75, asking it be accepted as full payment, since so little was obtained by the clients. The physician received a similar check for $150 with the same explanation. An investigation revealed the clients were unaware of the situation.

Writer Ill Over Reports Of Romance With Garbo

BERLIN, April 25.—(Universal.)—Fear of losing his friendship with Greta Garbo yesterday sent Wilhelm Soerensen, socially prominent Swedish writer, to bed with a nervous breakdown, plus a slight attack of gripp.

Friends of Soerensen ascribed his breakdown to excitement caused by reports he is to marry the Swedish screen star. Soerensen denied the report with an equivocal:

"You never can tell what life will bring in the future."

At the same time he asked his and Miss Garbo's public to interest themselves in other matters, declaring that persistence of the marriage reports "may ruin a good friendship."

Soerensen came to Berlin with Prince Sigvard, who introduced him to Miss Garbo in 1928. He said he was in Germany to finish translating a book he has written about Hollywood.

His illness forced postponement of a trip to Starnberg and Munich, where he intended finishing his translation.

Gov. Arthur James Vare, candidate for the Superior Court.

STADTFELD INDORSED

A lawyers' committee of statewide complexion is recommending for election only Stadfeld and Judge Robert Gawthrop, ignoring Judge William M. Parker now on the Superior Court, the candidate of both the Republican and Independent. Three nominations are to be made to the Superior Court.

In legislative districts of the county candidates of both the Independent and Organization slates as well as aspirants on neither ticket were making last-minute efforts to whip support. Endeavors were continuing to bring about withdrawals in behalf of candidates who seemed to be in a stronger vote position. No alterations in either Independent or Regular slates were expected, though in both camps there were intimations that composite harmony did not exist and many followers in both groups were dissatisfied with the preference of leaders.

Democrats were having their own troubles in a three-cornered primary campaign centering around delegates to the national convention and control of the party machinery in Allegheny County. A slate of 18 delegates favorable to Gov. Roosevelt of New York is opposed by an equal number of candidates who were urged in Chicago unofficially not to run in results loyal to the leadership of Al Smith.

ALLIANCE WITH GUFFEY

David L. Lawrence, county chairman seeking re-election is aligned with former National Committeeman Joseph F. Guffey in the Roosevelt movement. Charles A. Jones, directing the Independent [illegible] who in addition to the [illegible] candidates are backing Magnum Mc-Donald for [illegible] man.

Mrs. Carrie M. Respect Policemen, Alderman Urges

EVANSTON, Ill., April 25 (AP).—The [illegible] flatfoot "cops" and [illegible] epithets applied to policemen are very distasteful to the [illegible] sensibilities of the citizens, Alderman James, who believes public and policemen should be more friendly, suggested that [illegible] speak of its officers with more respect.

Free Fuel Keeps City's Beach Clean

HOQUIAM, Wash., Grays Harbor County beaches are cleaner than any time since the first white man settled here, according to reports of old-timers here. Scores of automobiles are driven to the seashore daily to return with wood cut from driftlogs cast on the beach, providing fuel for needy families.

DEATH CLAIMS TECKTONIUS

PARIS, April 25.—(INS).—Leo Tecktonius, American-born pianist who attained international fame on the concert stage, was found today penniless and virtually without friends.

He died in a hospital at Neuilly, suburb of Paris, last night a few hours after International News Service discovered him in his apartment with enlargement of the heart.

About Tecktonius as he lay on his death bed in his once-elegant apartment near the Bois de Boulogne was little of that in which he lived only two years ago at the height of his career.

People about him were equally penniless friends not of the old days. They had befriended him as best they were able as he lay dying.

Inventors Pay Honor To Edison, Eastman

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—(AP).—Tribute to the memories of Thomas Alva Edison and George Eastman was paid at a memorial service here yesterday in connection with the National Inventors' Congress. Baldwin Vaile, vice-president of the Patent Law Association, delivered the memorial address, asserting:

"Eastman went into the sunlight and etched the beauties of the shadows and recorded them where all might see. Edison went into the shadows and brought forth light."

N. Y. Urges Sports To Prevent Crime

NEW YORK.—(INS).—Competitive sports for New York boys, to be organized under the direction of the Crime Prevention Bureau of the Police Department, is one solution to the ever-growing problem of youthful crime offered by Commissioner Mulrooney. A citywide interborough tournament is planned, to be staged probably at Yankee Stadium some time before schools reopen in the fall.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING ENDS

With three Officers' Council meetings, the Washington Bi-Centennial Young People's Congress of the Salvation Army closes today in the Army Headquarters Building, 425 Boulevard of the Allies. It opened Friday.

The closing meetings were being conducted by Commissioner John McMillan of New York, in charge of the Eastern Territories of the Salvation Army, and Mrs. McMillan. About 80 visiting officers representing 38 Salvation Army corps in Western Pennsylvania have been attending.

The activities in which the 1,000 former delegates participated concluded yesterday afternoon with a Young People's Council in the headquarters auditorium. Commissioner and Mrs. McMillan were in charge.

A closing feature of the conferences was the awarding of pennants to Junior corps which had increased enrollment by 10 per cent since last October.

Visiting officers took part in an open air service last night at Smithfield and Diamond streets, followed by a Salvation meeting in the auditorium at which Commissioner McMillan spoke.

ANOTHER WEEK OF FOOD SHOW

The second week of the Food Show of the Allegheny County Grocers Association opened today in Motor Square Garden with an attractive entertainment program and food product exhibition.

Household economics classes will be held this afternoon by Miss Ruth Sweat and tonight by Miss Eda Williams and Miss Phoebe Lees. Individual prizes of baskets of fruit and aluminum ware will be awarded during the classes. A cash award will be made to the women's organization having the largest attendance at the school. An electric washing machine and a refrigerator will be awarded to women at the close of the show.

Entry blanks are available for the cake baking contests to be held Wednesday and Thursday. Cash prizes will be given.

Riggs and Moke, popular radio entertainers, will appear tomorrow night in person. Their act will be broadcast over station KQV. Miss Mae Wonn, parachute jumper, will tell how it feels to make the first plunge with a parachute.

BRAWNER AIDED BY ATTORNEYS

G. W. Brawner Jr., burgess of Rosslyn Farms and candidate for the Legislature from the Twelfth District, has been indorsed by a long list of members of the Allegheny County Bar residing in his district. Brawner is not on the slate of either Independents or Regulars but has been making an active campaign.

Representative Max Spann, Fifth District incumbent, has been indorsed for re-election by the Danny Winters Club.

Attorney Jacob Shulgold, one of Spann's leading opponents today informed the Crusaders and the Women's Association Against the Prohibition Amendment that he was for repeal of the Snyder act. In a previous questionnaire of The Sun-Telegraph he so expressed himself as well as for repeal of the blue laws.

Harding's Editor Retires at 68

MARION, O., April 25.—(AP).—Reputed to have been the only editor ever to direct the operation of a newspaper for a President of the United States, George H. Van Fleet of the Marion Star retired today after an editorial career of nearly four decades. He is 68.

For 37 years Van Fleet was connected with the Star, formerly the property of the late President Warren G. Harding and now one of a group of eight Ohio newspapers owned by Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc.

THIEVES LOOT CLEANING SHOP

Police today were seeking burglars who early yesterday stole clothing valued at $700 from the B. C. Cleaning Company, 644 Station street. P. Chicarella, the proprietor, reported the thieves forced their way into the place through a cellar window.

Marie Davis, of 702 Bingham street, reported that burglars who entered her home took a radio valued at $100.

Joseph Slick told police burglars broke into his barber shop at 1202 Sarah street and stole a cash register valued at $50. The register was empty, Slick said.

Glider Pilot Killed In 25-Foot Crash

LOS ANGELES, April 25.—(AP).—Lyle Armstrong, 23, was killed here yesterday when the wings of his glider collapsed at an altitude of 25 feet. The glider was being towed by a motor car.

W. Va. Club Plans Snake Killing Contest

MARLINTON, W. Va., April 25.—(AP).—The Marlinton Rod and Gun Club will follow its varmint killing contest with a snake killing competition between May 1 and July 31. Dr. C. S. Kramer, chairman of the contest committee, said it will be the first snake killing contest ever held in the state. Hawks, kingfisher, mink, water dog, crows and owls will be included in the competition.

Poland Lifts Ban On American Apples

WARSAW, April 25.—(AP).—Polish officials have put an O. K. on the American method of keeping the doctor away: an apple a day. Last fall they put out a prohibitive order against the American fruit. Now they realize what they're missing, so they've modified the order and in due time will be able to bite into a luscious Northern Spy with gusto.

PRESBYTERIAN ELDERS MEET

More than 125 elders of Presbyterian churches of Allegheny County are expected to attend the semi-annual meeting and dinner in Mt. Lebanon Presbyterian Church, Washington and Castle Shannon roads, Mt. Lebanon, at 6:30 o'clock tonight. F. V. Cassell, chairman of the Elders' Association of the Pittsburgh Presbytery, will be in charge of the affair and will be assisted by the executive committee of the association.

The Rev. Victor Rule, formerly of Phoenix, Ariz., and recently installed pastor of Edgewood Presbyterian Church, will be the principal speaker.

Plans will be made for the delegate elders who will attend the general assembly of the Presbyterian Churches of the United States of America in Denver in May. Arrangements will also be discussed for the association as a whole to attend the May meeting of the Presbytery at the Monongahela Presbyterian Church which will celebrate its 100th anniversary, Mr. Cassell announced.

Sound Held That Of Starlight On Radio

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP).—Scientists have broadcast for the first time what they believed was the sound of starlight.

The beam of Venus was picked up from the eyepiece of a telescope by a photoelectric cell, amplified into a microphone and broadcast over a radio network. The sound resembled that of a sustained high note from a violin.

The experiment was conducted in the general science laboratory of New York University by Prof. Albert Sheppard, assisted by Dr. E. E. Free. The principle has been used before, Dr. Sheppard explained, to measure starlight and for other observations.

CONVENTION JOB GIVEN LAPORTE

Formal announcement was made in Washington yesterday of the appointment of Ewing Laporte, Pittsburgh attorney and former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, as executive secretary of the Democratic national convention committee on arrangements.

Laporte, who lives at 5479 Darlington road and has offices in the Union Bank Building, said he has been working on arrangements for the convention, which is to be in Chicago in June, for several months. He said that owing to his connection with the convention arrangements he would take no part in any candidate's campaign for nomination.

During the administration of President Woodrow Wilson, Laporte, as an Assistant Secretary of Treasury, was in charge of war risk insurance. He was at that time 26 years old, the youngest Assistant Treasury Secretary in the nation's history.

MINERS, GUARDS TRADE SHOTS

CADIZ, O., April 25.—(AP.)—Shots were exchanged by National Guardsmen and snipers in the Eastern Ohio bituminous strike zone late yesterday as the state withdrew approximately half of the troops placed on duty during the recent disorders.

Capt. Joseph Parilla, of Youngstown, commanding the 145th Infantry troops at the Tasa mine, six miles east of here, reported that the snipers opened fire on his troops. The soldiers returned the fire, sweeping the ground with machine gun bullets. No one was injured, and the attackers escaped.

TRIADELPHIA, W. Va., April 25.—(AP.)—A terrific dynamite explosion early today wrecked large water tank on a hillside above Triadelphia and sent 30,000 gallons of water swirling down upon sleeping miners and their families. The blast was attributed by police to strike sympathizers.

WELLSBURG, W. Va., April 25.—(AP.)—One hundred striking miners from Avella, Pa., withdrew quietly from collieries today after they were refused permission to stage a demonstration.

James J. Coyne

Is a Candidate to Succeed Himself as

State Senator

IN THE FORTY-THIRD DISTRICT

During his one term in the State House of Representatives and his two terms in the State Senate he has either introduced or supported bills for:

- Increasing the appropriation for mothers' pensions.
- Establishing old-age pensions.
- The Coyne bill whereby the state would take over and maintain 38 miles of thoroughfares in Pittsburgh, thereby saving city taxpayers $304,000 the first year.
- Supported legislation to safeguard the health of citizens, for which he was commended in the official journal of the Allegheny County Medical Society.
- The Coyne bill whereby citizens of modest means, without real estate or personal property holdings, were relieved of the high tax based upon their occupations and were enabled to pay a 50-cent poll tax as a qualification to vote.

And many other measures conducive to the betterment of residents of Pennsylvania and Allegheny County in particular.

A Columnist, Who Can't Afford a Sec'y, Jots a Few Notes to Himself, the Madman

Dear P. Y.—I ordered the aspirin . . . It is being crated today and will be shipped tomorrow aft . . . I also canceled your suite at the hotel . . . You'll have no more use for it . . . But don't let it worry you, there's a lot of people who aren't columnists these days who are talking to themselves . . . Grant Withers called to say that Alice Joyce's photo was right alongside his in that Philly speak . . . Why does Peggy Joyce skate at you that way? . . . Jimmy Durante long-distanced to offer his congrats and tell you he just can't wait until he gets back to Garbo . . . The Manhattan Telephone Directory carries a "copyright" line, so be careful when you quote from it . . . Do you mind if I use some of your aspirin? . . . Morrison Dunn cabled to say not because the Belgrade Illus. Weekly said Velomir Yank's new play was incompetent twaddle, a Judge sentenced the paper's owners to five days in jail . . . I sent copies to Jerry Pearl and John Angelos . . .

There's a big break in that Joan Bennett scandal at the Ross . . . You see the lovely lady carousing in a 30th floor penthouse speak . . . and a few minutes later when the jernt is raided she is taken along with the other guests out of a basement door . . . Maybe the whole thing is worked on elevators . . . Like orchestras . . . Another madame phoned to say that detectives found the supposedly dead Ivar Kreuger to Smyrna by the nuts he smokes . . . It's a special brand that is sold only in Constantinople . . . I asked Emil Coleman about the story and he said he saw it in a gossip sheet from London . . . Pegler Patterson dropped dishes that the reason artists get long hair is not because of poverty but because the barber offends their esthetic sense . . . But there's nothing wrong with Russell . . . Do you mind if I admire him? . . .

Too bad about Eisenstein the Russian director . . . He sailed for Europe today without having had a chance to show his stuff to Stalin and . . . Is the current attack of the Red influence? . . . Walter Warner phoned to say it's possible Saint to tell you that you could use the ocean in front of his house for a swim any time you happen to be in Hollywood . . . I told Jim Warden Lawes had also offered me the hospitality of electric chair at Sing Sing any time I needed a rest . . . Which reminds me that Paul Forrest defines the Hot Seat as a "monument to Franklin's labors and Edison's ingenuity" . . . And that's high-class defining if you ask me . . . But you never ask me! . . . That evening tabber who is always so ready to rib you about his items hints today about the Altar Work of Genie Pursa and Milton Raison . . . You did the same thing three days ago . . . I thought you'd like to know . . .

The phones have a new racket they put on the dawn spots . . . Mr. and Mrs. Smoothie walk in and announce they have been appointed by a club to arrange for its annual blow-out . . . They leave a check for $100 on a Jersey bank . . . And the prop overjoyed at the unexpected business, invites them to remain for dinner . . . Of course the check comes back marked NB No Bank . . . Ask Meyer Horowitz, of the Village Barn—they nicked him for dinners twice in one week . . . I just know that the rat is nowhere mentioned in the St. James version of the Bible . . . Eddie Moran phoned to tell you that the reason people go to the Matinee on Saturday nights is to learn how to hate their favorite movie star . . . Or is that a reflection on the Hollywooing couples? . . . Nick of the Astor called to say he is putting the finishing touches on his script "Three Years A Headwaiter on Broadway" . . . Seems to me that's a long time to be taking insults from the madeaters . . .

Jules Glaenzer, the Cartier man, is in town from the Tahiti . . . Close and complains that all the South Sea dames have bad teeth and large feet . . . Kendall Lee, his wife, is more gorgeous than ever . . . A Mr. Turner of the Chatham Phenix tank to deny that Louis G. Kaufman, Jr., and Dorothy Dilley had Crossed Roads . . . Just his voice and told him would be glad to deny it . . . The money not sent to be deposited never got to the bank . . . The office boy sass he dropped it in a chewing gum slot . . . Wally Sullivan, the saunterer in . . . He said that Anatole Friedland, who is producing the cond version of 56 Million Frenchmen, is opening with 25 Million cutting the thing to the bone . . . Paid my way in to see those alleged naughty pictures on Bway and was glad to get out of the place . . . That say that Mildred Harris Chaplin is being groomed for a sensational burlesque tour . . . She's a deserving gal if ever there was one . . . Can you get Jimmy, the crippled newsie at 52nd St. and Bway, an introduction to Connie Boswell? . . . He says it would be worth ten yrs of his life, poor lad . . .

When Elinor Smith asked Edgar Allen, who is block-aiding on Times Square, to fly over the city with her for the cause tomorrow, he refused . . . "Not me," said Edgar. "I have to be on the ground to collect the money . . . Velma called . . . I thanked Dr. Michel and Bessie Mack, the Capitol exploiter, for you . . . Also Louis Sobol . . . Walter Duke, the tobacco scion, is plague-ing his appen at the Presbyterian Hosp . . . Borrah Minnevitch, with whom you spent those Hot Afternoons in Paree last yr, called . . . He got tired after spelling his name and wouldn't leave message . . . I couldn't get that St. Louis call through to your folks. Sorry . . . I saw P 56 of the May Movie Classic . . . Plays and Players

—By WILLIAM J. LEWIS—

Valaida, versatile performer in "Rhapsody in Black" Lew Leslie production that begins a return engagement in the Alvin tonight, has received several offers for the filming of her novel drum dance for the talking pictures. Leslie says that a number of features of his show will be recorded for the screen after it completes a trans-continental tour, and possibly a trip to Europe. Ethel Waters is the star of "Rhapsody in Black" and Valaida is a featured performer in the all-Negro company that appears in it.

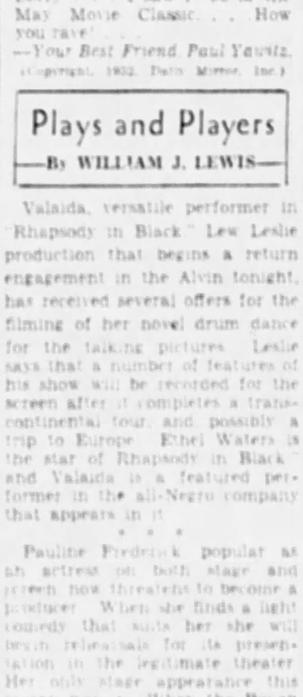
* * *

Pauline Frederick, popular as an actress on both stage and screen now threatens to become a producer. When she finds a light comedy that suits her she will begin rehearsals for its presentation in the legitimate theater. Her only stage appearance this season was in "When the Bough Breaks," which broke quickly. She staged "Housewarming."

* * *

Only two more attractions are in sight for the waning days of the spotty theatrical season that brought many dark days to both the Nixon and Alvin. They are "Hay Fever" booked for the Alvin for the week of May 9 and the Priary Frolic coming to the same theater for one performance May 21. "Hay Fever" will be the concluding play in the Professional Players series.

The Heroine



Irene Dunne is the heroine in "Symphony of Six Million," which Fannie Hurst wrote for the movies and which comes to the Warner Friday.

HOLLYWOOD :-: News and Views About Stage and Screen :-: THE THEATERS

Villain, Man Without a Country

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 25.

If international censors would just agree—that is the cry of Hollywood, which is finding the foreign market very much of a headache these days.

Some of the problems of showing American pictures abroad are aired by Arthur W. Kelley, who heads foreign distribution for United Artists.

In France, says Mr. Kelley, they don't object to sex angles, but crime, brutality, anything gruesome is promptly cut. In Germany, the shears are leveled against any scene that might offend politically. In England, crime and sex are both severely frowned on. Japan also cuts out brutality and watches sex closely. The Spanish speaking nations, to the delight of the producers, don't bother much about censorship.

Marguerite Churchill

There are some things, of course, on which international opinion does coincide. The villain, for instance, is rapidly becoming a man without a country. Every nation objects to claiming him. The British also insist that the stage type of Englishman is an unwelcome type of ridicule.

What with these censorship difficulties, the rate of exchange and the language problem brought on by the talkies, Mr. Kelly admits it's all very complex. But he does believe that the new method of superimposing titles will help a lot.

A superimposed title, in case the term leaves you with a blank feeling, is the old-fashioned silent title cut down to a narrow strip and imposed across the bottom of the image on the screen. In Japan it is a perpendicular strip along the side. This title translates or explains the English dialogue which goes on without interruption.

The method has not been used with much success in France and Germany, says Mr. Kelley, but the Spanish and Oriental audiences take to it heartily. In fact, the Spanish audiences prefer it to Spanish dialogue pictures.

Musicals and melodramas with plenty of action—"One Hour With You" and "Tarzan" for example—are the most popular type of film with foreign audiences, declares the film head. The ordinary society drama with considerable dialogue fares badly.

What will the end be? Mr. Kelley doesn't know. But he has confidence in the ingenuity of Hollywood.

AND SO TO GOSSIP

At one of the gayer beach parties last week, a certain actor dropped his false teeth in the surf and Reed Howe, Richard Tucker and Robbie Robinson spent more than an hour diving for them . . . Elissa Landi is now a neighbor to Will Rogers. Will has given her a key to one of his gates so she can drive in and watch the polo games . . . Russell Gleason took Marguerite Churchill to see Maude Adams the other night and forgot his wallet. They had to borrow 50 cents from Spencer Tracy to get a soda between acts . . . Fox still has no picture scheduled for the two honeymooners, Greta Nissen and Weldon Heyburn . . . Minna Gombel denies she's going to wed that San Diego banker . . . When I asked Bert Wheeler for a gag, he flipped. "If I had any, I'd be topping Woolsey with them" . . . Vaudevillians, however, still consider Ben Bard the best straight man . . . You can believe it or not as you wish, but Lyle Talbot, the new Warner actor, says his real name is Lyle Hollywood . . . Marlene Dietrich helps Josef von Sternberg cut her pictures. He says she has a wonderful sense of rhythm . . . They won't let Dick Arlen smoke or drink in a picture because of the young fans.

Marlene Dietrich

The Barrymore Boys In Sheridan Film

John and Lionel Barrymore are co-starred in "Arsene Lupin," which ends a three-day engagement on the Sheridan Square screen tomorrow night. John is seen as the master gentleman-thief, who keeps the Parisian police on the jump, and Lionel portrays the relentless police officer, who is bound to get his man.

Show Run Ends, Jolson Is in Hollywood

Having closed his run of "Wonder Bar," his successful stage production, Al Jolson is now in Hollywood preparing to start work on his next picture for United Artists release. The story will be an original written by Ben Hecht, playwright and novelist.

Lottery!

Elissa Landi is starred in "The Devil's Lottery," coming Thursday to the Fulton, and the odds are that she'll come out a winner at the finale.

Truck-Driving Romeo In the Harris

Steady Company" came Saturday to top the bill in the Harris. It offers the story of a truck driver, who turns pugilist, and of a girl who thinks her truck-driving Romeo is going to be a great surgeon. Norman Foster and June Clyde have the romantic leads. Zasu Pitts is prominent in the supporting cast. Another film on the Harris bill is "Sin's Payday," featuring Dorothy Revier.

Enright Screen Offers Maurice Chevalier

Maurice Chevalier, the gay Frenchman, opened a three-day engagement in the Enright Saturday in "One Hour With You." Maurice is seen as a young doctor, who is married, and his wife's best friend decides to become his best friend. Jeanette MacDonald and Genevieve Tobin are in the cast. The film is a comedy drama with music.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

BY MARK HELLINGER

SOME YEARS ago, a reporter who is now recognized as one of the best newspapermen in New York was working for a Philadelphia paper. That paper has since passed into the beyond, so I don't imagine the unfolding of this tale will cause any anguish in the city of brotherly quiet.

The fine reporter of today was the nervous cub of other years. He was hired by that Philadelphia sheet at the magnificent salary of $12 a week, and that job meant everything in the world to him at the moment. Every line was important; every item was treated as tenderly as though it were being saved for posterity. It's the sensation every newspaperman gets in his first month in the business; the sensation that makes him remain in the game all his life in a fruitless effort.

One morning, when he arrived in the office, he was summoned before the editor. You can imagine his state of mind as he stood before the great person. Here he was a full-fledged newspaperman with two weeks of experience behind him. Was he going to get the ax at a time when he was going on to bigger and better things?

The editor sat back in his chair.

"I have been watching you closely since you've been here," he asserted, "and I'm willing to tell you that I think you have the right stuff in you. I honestly believe you're going to get somewhere in the newspaper world, and I'm going to help you along whenever possible."

At that moment I don't think the reporter would have changed places with the wealthiest youngster in America. A smile spread all over his map. "Thank you, Mr. Jenks," he chirped. "You don't know how happy you've made me."

Mr. Jenks waved a hand.

"Forget it," he returned, "and let's get down to business. The first thing I'm going to do is turn over to you is the Camden column.

"While this is a Philadelphia paper, you must have realized by this time that we go in very strongly for neighborhood news. The news notes about Camden, N. J., insure our circulation in that city. Were that column to be omitted from the paper or were that space to become dull and uninteresting we would very naturally suffer tremendous losses.

"Thus, you can readily see the responsibility that is being placed upon your shoulders. There may be some who will tell me that you are too young for such a spot, but I am a great believer in youth. The column is yours, my boy. Do with it as you will.

"I give you but one definite order in connection with it. The name of Camden must appear in the headline over the column. Never permit your news notes about Camden to get into the papers without an appropriate head.

"Good luck to you, my boy. I know you're going to make me proud of you. And your salary, of course, will remain the same."

During the two days that followed, the young man almost broke his neck in an effort to get news about Camden. He worked far into the night gathering items about Mrs. Thristlethrock's visit to her grandma in Maine and the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Nimble would entertain the Glutzes over the weekend.

On the third evening, the young man found himself in trouble. Nothing at all of any importance had happened in Camden that day. He dug feverishly into his notes as the deadline approached. But to no avail. No item was strong enough to be placed in the headline.

The youth began to shiver. That headline was all-important. Regardless of what happened, one had to be found. The editor's instructions had been final. If he didn't find one immediately, it would probably cost him his job. He shivered again. It was the chill that comes once in a lifetime.

An item struck his eye. It was that an unidentified man had been killed by a railroad train on the tracks at Atlantic City, N. J. The reporter read the dispatch over and over. But he shook his head sadly. What good could it do him in this predicament?

After all, Atlantic City was many miles from Camden. He had no idea who the dead man might be. What was the use of bothering with that news when the deadline was horribly close?

A brilliant thought suddenly struck the young man. He grabbed his pencil, wrote quickly, sent the copy to the composing room and sat back with a sigh of relief. The next day the paper had its Camden notes. And over them was this headline:

"Train from Camden Kills Man" . . .

AN ACTOR who has been playing the market rather heavily of late sat in Moore's the other night and banged the table.

"I've lost plenty in the market," he cried, "but I'm not the kind of guy who gives up. I'm going to beat the game before I'm through."

Somebody asked him how the market had acted that day. The actor placed a hand in his pocket and drew out a sheet of figures. Attached to it was a railroad time-table.

"I see you've got the figures," I asserted. "But what's the idea of the time-table?"

Before the actor could reply, Mr. Irving Caesar, the song writer, nodded wisely.

"That's okay," murmured Mr. Caesar. "He just carries that around to have a schedule of trains he can throw himself under." . . .

A WELL KNOWN bootlegger, once in the very big money, recently suffered heavy losses in various enterprises. He's not broke by any means, but he did get a terrific slap in the bankroll. All of which caused him to go on a bust that is still the talk of the town.

He went into his favorite speakeasy with three of his henchmen, took the choice table in the corner and began to drink. He drank all through the night and continued right on through the next day. His meals, of course, were served right at the table. His henchmen stayed right with him.

The man finally dozed off with his head against a cushion. He slept that way for a little less than two hours—and he was wideawake again. He slapped the table and the drinking began all over again. Once more they went through the night and all of the next day.

Late in the evening, a friend wandered in and sat himself at the bootlegger's table.

"Hear you're on a merry-go-round, Joe," he said affably. "I've just had a little trouble with my wife and I think I'll join you. Do you mind?"

The bootlegger blinked blearily.

"How long you gonna stay here?" he asked.

The friend shrugged his shoulders.

"Oh," he replied. "I'll stick. I'll sit with you maybe eight, ten, twelve hours."

The bootlegger gave vent to an indignant hiccough.

"You're wasting time," he grunted. "We don't cater to transients!"

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Do Not Accept Jealousy as A Proof of Love

Should the boy friend put on a riot every time Kathie dances with someone else?

And would you marry him if he did—or would you tell him to go roll his hoop?

Kathie herself is beginning to wonder. And I suspect she's beginning to think that maybe, for once hard luck did someone a good turn, for if it hadn't been for one thing and another she and her big boy would be married by now. Whereas, or therefore maybe she can still make a break to freedom.

Anyhow, here's her story. Have you one like it?

"Dear Sally:

"I've been going with Tom for three years now. We have been engaged for one year and we were to have been married last June, but one thing and another kept us from it then.

"And now I feel as if I had lost all desire to get married at all.

"For a while we spent most of our time at home. Then we began going to dances again to break the monotony, but every time we go it's there's a big quarrel, with Tom winning out most of the time.

FINDS FAULT

"There isn't anything I like better than to dance. Tom used to like to go too, but now—Well, do you think there is any harm in going with him dancing with him four or five times and with a few other boys I know, then going home?

"I don't. And these boys are friends of his, too, as well as mine. But always there is always a row when we get home. Either this one 'held me too tight' or that one talked to me too much, or something. It seems as if the only thing that would please him would be to stay at home all the time, and I won't do it.

"I like people and I like a little fun. I can't stand being nagged and quarreled with all the time because I do. I have never flirted or acted in any way that I shouldn't so he has no real excuse to act that way.

"You don't know how much better I feel, just getting all this off my chest. But now, what do you think I should do? Who is right and who is wrong? Should I stand for his acting that way or do I have a right to a little fun without being distrusted and jeered at? The whole thing worries me.

KATHIE."

SHOULD TELL HIM

Worries, you youngster! It should put you in a panic! Life with a lad like that would be one long wrangle-a-rama. For both married women and single girls need fun and friends. And love goes mighty sour mighty soon without its daily ration of laughter.

So sit you down, little sister, and say to that big pout:

"Look here, Thomas: I didn't promise to marry you because I needed a keeper. I said I'd marry you because I thought you were going to be a treat. I thought we'd be happier together than we could be alone; that we'd work better and play more because we were sweethearts. I believed you would understand and trust me just as I wanted to understand and trust you.

But you're not being a treat. You're being a pain in the neck. If you were a perfect stranger I'd consider you a hopeless bore and I wouldn't tolerate you around for a second. Then why should I tolerate you around merely because I dreamed a dream about you which didn't come true? As a matter of fact, I'm not going to. Either you cut out the grouching or there's the door.

Whereupon he'll tell you that you can't love him or you wouldn't talk like that. To which the perfect answer is that he can't love you or he wouldn't act like that. If you've got to accept such actions as proof of love then you can do without his love.

Will that cure him? I suspect it will if you have the gumption to stick by what you say. And if it doesn't cure him, then isn't it better to break now than later?

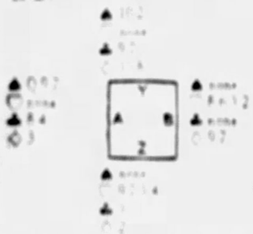
End Play Problems

Problem 6 and its solution is given below.

There is no trump. Y is to lead. What is Y's best lead and what is the best defensive play by A-B?



Y must try to put B in the lead with the second round of diamonds. If this can be accomplished B will have to give Z two heart tricks after which a lead of Z's singleton club through A's K-4 up to Y's 9-7 will yield two added tricks or five tricks total.

B's best play is to decline to be put in the lead with his 9 of diamonds. This will save his side two tricks. B can avoid the trap set for him by playing his 9 upon Y's 10 and his 7 upon Y's 8. If this is done Y will have to lead one of his black suits up to A. Suppose that upon the second lead of diamonds A discards a club, of course both of Y's clubs will be good, and he will win four tricks total, giving the last two tricks to A when Y has to lead spades up to A's tenace in that suit.

In case A discards one spade upon the second round of diamonds it will not matter whether Y leads spades or clubs, as Y must win a total of four tricks. In the first instance A will win two spade tricks and then give Y two club tricks. In the second case Y will win one club trick and one spade trick, giving A one spade trick and one club trick.

Against ordinary defense Y will win five tricks but against perfect defense he can win only four tricks out of the six to be won by all the players.

Problem No. 7

There is no trump. Y is the leader. How many tricks can Y-Z take against the best play of A-B? The answer will appear next week.

Unworthy Too Often Get Aid of Rich, With Gifted Passed by—Fay King

I'M SO INTERESTED IN THOSE WHO ARE DOING THINGS AND I WANT TO HELP WHERE I CAN!
NAW! — HE WOULDN'T BE INTERESTED!
TOO OFTEN THE SYMPATHETIC PATRON IS SURROUNDED BY SELF-APPOINTED AMBASSADORS WHO ARE UNWORTHY OF THE TRUST!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Many American fortunes were founded in humble beginnings.

So that it is not unusual for later generations to be born with the same energy and ambition but now hampered by the wealth which has accumulated.

This gives them a preference and sympathy with persons who are doing things and they seek the companionship of such.

But the unfortunate part of this is that they are too often imposed upon by the unworthys.

Schemers and fawners who are gifted in that gall which can attach them to the generous gain by the financial and social help so willingly bestowed.

While more worthy and gifted persons, too sensitive to push themselves into the favor of those who would help them, never meet or mingle with these earnest patrons.

-:- -:- The Beauty Box -:- -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

It is only when the body is healthy and strong that eyes are at their best. Their beauty depends upon general tip-toppness and their expressions vary with every thought and mood. Sparkling eyes signify an active mentality and a constitution that is in a state of well-being.

Plastic surgery will remove scars, which are destroyed tissue. Girls who tamper with pimples breaking the skin surface when they endeavor to press out the contents of pustules have a good chance of acquiring a pitted complexion which is no slight beauty ill, we'll have them know.

Swollen ankles should be bandaged with unbleached muslin torn into strips three inches wide. If the normal contour does not return in a few days, see the family doc who will ascertain the cause of the swelling. Weak ankles come from pointing toes outward, or wearing spiked heels.

Hints for the Household

A little methylated spirit on a flannel will remove stains from brown shoes.

The centerpiece on the dining table should be low enough for the guests to see each other across the table.

When hanging clothes on the line, put all the same kind together, shirts, sheets, etc. It will save time sorting later on.

Eggs will remain fresh much longer when placed for half a minute in boiling water.

To keep gravy from being lumpy, add a pinch of salt to the flour used for thickening before mixing it with water.

Lamp globes, after they have been washed, should not be wiped with a cloth but be allowed to dry gradually.

Plaster of paris used instead of whiting will keep a doorstep white in wet weather.

Unbeaten white of egg added to cream that is apparently too thin for whipping will aid in making it do so.

Snap the clasps together before putting the garment through the wringer. This will avert crushing and breaking.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Tuberculosis in Children May Exist Unsuspected

There is something in the human heart that makes everybody resent an attack upon the happiness of childhood. We are eager to have the little ones well and joyful. If they are sick and depressed, the zest of life is gone.

Dr. Copeland

But they do get sick. Tuberculosis, for instance, is essentially a disease of youth. It may attack those farther along in life, but not nearly so often as it strikes the young people. I am sorry to say that even babies are not exempt.

Tuberculosis in children is by no means the frankly apparent disease found in adults. In children it is easy to overlook it. Even careful examination of the chest may reveal no abnormal physical signs. It is only when the X-ray is employed and one of the skin tests is given that the case can be positively recognized as tuberculosis.

By far the larger number of children who contract tuberculosis do so by contact with persons suffering from lung trouble. Again and again parents have denied this, and apparently in good faith. They have insisted that the child has never associated with a victim of tuberculosis, yet X-ray examination of members of the household has shown diseased lung in other children of the same family, or possibly in the parents.

Not everyone who is exposed to the infection acquires the disease. Fortunately, there is a certain protective force in the healthy body that makes it able to ward off illness. However, a certain type of chest appears to be particularly suited to the development of tuberculosis. The long, narrow, flat chest is associated with poor methods of breathing.

Good breathing gives wonderful protection because fresh air, bearing quantities of oxygen, is unfriendly to tuberculosis germs. A child living in healthful surroundings, having plenty of sunshine and nourishing food, is likely to be able to resist lung infection.

But the tuberculosis infection of children is not confined to the lungs. A baby under 3 years of age may die from tubercular meningitis, a tubercular involvement of the brain. If infected by milk from diseased cows, it may develop tuberculosis of the bowels.

Older children may appear to have excellent health but yet be easily fatigued. They may have a slight evening rise of temperature, but aside from this show no sign that might cause the parents to suspect lung trouble.

But bear in mind that symtoms apparently so trivial must not be neglected. If there is a suspicion of lung trouble, the child should be given a thorough physical examination. This is not complete when it excludes the throat, as sometimes the tonsils may be the place of entry for the disease. Bad teeth, too, have been accused of permitting the germs to find entry to the system. The mouth should be kept in perfect condition.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Use of Goblets

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me if it is correct to use goblets for water when serving refreshments? I don't mean at a regular meal, like luncheon or dinner, but when serving perhaps ice cream and cake late in the evening. Or is it more correct to use regular water glasses at these times? Please advise when goblets or water glasses should be used, or is their use optional?

READER.

The general distinction between goblets and tumblers, footed or not, is that goblets come more into the formal classification and tumblers are more informal. Then, too, there are different kinds of goblets, some (for instance exquisitely cut crystal ones with tall, formal stems) being strictly formal, while white or tinted ones, say with short stems, being more in the informal classification.

Very short-stemmed goblets and tumblers, footed or not, are appropriate for use in the informal occasions that you name. But it is by no means incorrect to use, for the occasions, goblets, unless they are obviously too formal.

The Greeting

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My friend's boy friend comes to school every day to take her home. She asked me to come with them, but since I had not met the boy, I felt that I shouldn't accompany them. My friend thought that this was very "old-fashioned." Who is right?

2. When a boy meets a girl on the street, who should say "Hello" first?

3. Should you eat the lettuce leaf on which the salad has been placed?

4. Should coffee be served before the dessert? R. E. B.

1. I don't think that this was particularly "old-fashioned;" but I do think that it was rather pointless that you did not accept your friend's invitation, since she apparently wished to have you come with them.

2. The girl.

3. Yes, Ma'am . . . if you like lettuce. And I hope that you do like lettuce, and that you eat it whenever and however it is served!

4. No. First the dessert is served, and then the coffee.

2 GLEE CLUBS PLAN RECITAL

The Westinghouse Glee Club will join with the Geneva College Girls' Glee Club in a recital Saturday night in the Hotel Schenley. Miss Ruth Kuhl and Miss Alice Wylie, of Geneva College, and Charles Pallos and Emerick Simboli, of the Westinghouse Club, will be soloists. A feature of the recital will be a play by five girls and Tom Miller, dramatic reader.

Tom Miller

Two other concerts are also scheduled by the Westinghouse Glee Club this week. Thursday night it will present a recital at Trinity Episcopal Cathedral, Sixth avenue, for the Girls' Friendly Society. Cliff Jones will be soloist. Friday night the club will sing in the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church, where Claude L. Young will be soloist. Arthur C. Crawford is manager of the club and O. W. Grosskopf is director.

SUPPER TO AID HEALTH DRIVE

A George Washington bicentennial family health supper will be held Sunday afternoon, May 1, in the Y. M. and W. H. A. Bellefield avenue. It will be presented under auspices of the women's activities committee of the "Y," in accordance with the National Child Health Day.

Mrs. Louis Reizenstein is general chairman of the event, assisted by Mrs. Edgar I. Hirsh, Mrs. Morris Balter, Mrs. A. Blumenthal, Mrs. I. Osserof, Mrs. Hyman Rogal, Mrs. Bernard Friedman and Miss Miriam Schoenfield. Addresses will be made by Dr. E. G. Kuhlman, of the Falk Clinic, and Sidney Teller, vice president of the Child Health Council.

Dental Society Aids Health Week

The Odontological Society of Western Pennsylvania will cooperate in "Dental Health Week" in Pennsylvania starting May 28, by means of talks before school children and radio broadcasts, it was announced today by Dr. W. Earle Craig, secretary.

P. R. R. Employes Arrange Benefit

An entertainment and dance will be given by the Mutual Beneficial Association of Pennsylvania Railroad Employes in the ballroom of the William Penn Hotel Saturday evening, for the benefit of the railroad's women's aid.

Proceeds of the entertainment will be used in relief work among furloughed railroad employes and their families.

In case of ACCIDENTS you need a TELEPHONE in your home!

. . . you can have one for less than a dime a day!

D. A. R. CHAPTER TO PLANT TREES

MISS GEORGIANA COLLIN — MISS MARY C. JENNINGS

MISS LAURA B. CHILDS — MISS JANICE H. SMITH

Three prominent young Pittsburgh society women and Miss Smith, Syracuse, N. Y., traveler, pictured on a sunny deck as they arrived in New York from tours in Europe. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

And here the last week of April is upon us! And spring with its promise that all sorts of nice things are going to happen is surely here to stay until the arrival of golden summer.

In the social world there's the promise of the approaching "little season," and in the meantime there are two of the most interesting weddings of the season scheduled for the last days of April.

Of course you know I'm referring to the wedding of Betty Bovard and Frank R. Denton on Thursday, and that of Barbara Ewing and Lathrop Stanley Haskins, of New York, on Friday.

With conditions as they are, society women this spring are interested in welfare work as well as purely social affairs, and many will attend the luncheon today in the William Penn for leaders in the women's division of the Harris Family-Help-Family Plan.

* * *

For children and many of their mothers, too, an event of interest will be "The Reluctant Dragon," the third of the Children's Playhouse series, to be given Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Nixon Theater.

Play on Saturday

Among members of the smart set serving as patronesses are Mrs. A. W. Wyckoff, Mrs. James Rea, Mrs. Simon J. Patterson, Mrs. Charles Kellman, Mrs. Wadsworth Dasler, Mrs. John Adams and Mrs. G. D. Dunmire.

Others are Mrs. Charles H. Dougal, Mrs. Thomas Eddy, Mrs. Fred Edmundson, Mrs. John M. Freeman, Mrs. Hester McElhowney Gibson, Mrs. J. Hartwell Hillman, Mrs. William I. Jones, Jr., Mrs. Brooke Jarrett, Mrs. Frederick I. Merrick, Mrs. Charles Mathews, Mrs. A. C. Martin and Mrs. Samuel Marshall, Jr.

* * *

Golf days are drawing nearer and nearer. The Edgewood Country Club women will hold their first luncheon and golf match Friday.

Golf Luncheon

The Allegheny Country Club woman's golf season will open May 10 with Mrs. James M. Schoonmaker, Jr., as chairman of the committee. On Tuesday, May 3, the buffet luncheons at the clubhouse will be started, to be continued each Tuesday through the season.

On Friday, May 6, at 10 o'clock a breakfast at the Pittsburgh Field Club will precede the women's first tournament. Mrs. Karl Warmcastle is chairman.

The Shannopin Country Club women will open its season May 10 with a breakfast.

* * *

Wednesday will bring the opening day at the Pittsburgh Country Club, when a breakfast will precede playing.

* * *

Mrs. W. Glenn McKee, of Walnut street, is at the Ambassador, New York, where she went to meet her parents, the Harry W. Garlands, of Saco, Me., who returned yesterday from Europe.

Cities Give Girl Flier Rousing Welcome

Miss Helen Havener, publicity chairman for the National Council of Women, was in Pittsburgh over the week-end conferring with the club women of the city who are interested in the coming visit of Ruth Nichols, 1931 champion aviatrix. The date for the visit has not yet been set for Miss Nichols is taking some time between her official Chicago visit and her Pittsburgh trip for personal affairs.

Miss Havener spoke of the enthusiastic receptions the flier is receiving on her 3,000-mile flight to collect signatures for the National Council, which, as everyone knows, are being sent by the Postal Telegraph Company to petition foreign governments to send representative women to the World's Fair next year for an international congress of women.

Air squadrons have been meeting Miss Nichols, women pilots have special affairs in her honor, and each western city which she has visited has made a civic event of her arrival, the city fathers turning out to do her honor. Miss Nichols expects to reach Chicago on Wednesday.

Lucille Miller Werner, soprano, accompanied by Miss Grace McMillan, pianist, will give the musical program at tonight's meeting of Dormont-Mt. Lebanon chapter W. C. T. U., to be held in the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Church chapel.

The Rev. Dr. James E. Wagner will speak on "Substitutes for Prohibition," and an informal social hour will close the program.

Miss Rachel Strawbridge Marries Paul du Pont

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 25.—(AP.)—Chicago and eastern society was represented here yesterday for the wedding of Miss Rachel Strawbridge, Philadelphia heiress, to Paul du Pont, internationally known couturier. The marriage took place at Palmetto Shore, Du Pont's Florida home, near here.

Madame Marie du Pont, mother of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Miss Peggy du Pont, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor.

Event to Honor Washington Wednesday

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The committee on conservation and thrift, Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, has invited members of the chapter and their friends to the planting of two trees in observance of the Washington bicentennial on Wednesday at noon at the Highland avenue entrance to Highland Park.

Delegates to the annual state conference in York will be elected by the chapter on Friday afternoon at the regular meeting in the Hotel Schenley. Delegates to the Forty-first Continental Congress, just closed in Washington, will make their reports and there will be tea later.

The benefit minstrel show and dance will be held Wednesday evening in Liederkranz Hall, Curtin avenue, by Review No. 215, Women's Benefit Association.

Penguin Eggs New Delicacy in London

LONDON, April 25.—(AP.)—Penguin eggs are London's newest table delicacy. They come from South Africa and sell for $2 a dozen, but they are twice as big as a hen's egg.

Penguin eggs taste like plover eggs. Epicures say they are nourishing, easily digestible and contain much organic phosphorus.

Grace B. Maxwell Betrothed to Dr. Garver

At a bridge luncheon in their home in the North Side recently, Mr. and Mrs. George Elmer Maxwell announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Grace Barbara Maxwell, to Dr. Hubert Francis Garver, son of Mrs. Gertrude Garver, of Oakland. Miss Maxwell announced her wedding date as June 22.

Covers were laid for 16 guests, and decorations were in pink and green.

* * *

Albert and Kenneth Uptegraf gave a dinner party Thursday evening to mark the birthday of their mother, Mrs. R. C. Uptegraf, of Meade avenue, Bellevue, in the Uptegraf home. Pink roses and carnations decorated the dinner table.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Heller, of North St. Clair street, East End, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Charlotte Heller, to Leo I. Shapiro, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. I. Shapiro, of Stanton avenue, East End. The wedding will be an event of early June.

Ethel Clayton, Keith Separation Sought

LOS ANGELES, April 25.—(AP.)—Ethel Clayton, film actress, has changed her mind. She does not want a divorce from Ian Keith, actor, but separate maintenance.

David Tannebaum, her attorney, today explained the reason for moving to set aside the divorce granted recently to Miss Clayton was in order to file a separate maintenance action. Miss Clayton and Keith have been separated and reconciled numerous times.

Agent Who Trapped Capone Promoted

CHICAGO, April 25.—(AP.)—A promotion was announced today for Eliot Ness, youthful college graduate prohibition agent, who obtained the evidence upon which Al Capone and other gangsters were indicted for liquor law violations.

Ness, who won a reputation as head of a squad of agents known as "untouchables," for their immunity to bribes, has been appointed chief investigator for the federal forces in Chicago.

VOTE FOR THE BOND ISSUE TO PREVENT SUFFERING!

Election Day Tomorrow

At the coming election on Tuesday, April 26, 1932 the voters of the City of Pittsburgh will be called upon to vote for or against a bond issue by the City of Pittsburgh to provide additional funds, if needed, for the assistance of unemployed residents of the City.

The Allegheny County Emergency Association favors this bond issue in order that there may be assurance that funds will be available to carry on the unemployment relief work during the coming fall in case funds from other sources are not made available.

Every possible effort is being made to secure a State appropriation and it is firmly believed that these efforts will end in ultimate success.

However, we dare not risk the suffering that will result if this program for State funds is not successful. The proposed city bond issue will provide a second line defense. The bonds will not be sold, however, unless and until all other sources of funds have been exhausted.

We have urged the inclusion of the bond issue on the primary ballot in order to avoid the great expense of a special election.

We have already been given the assurance of the City authorities that if it becomes necessary to use any or all of the funds derived from this bond issue, these funds will be administered in the same manner as the recent relief appropriations of the City and County are now being handled.

You are therefore urged to vote in favor of the proposed five million dollar bond issue.

CHOOSE ACCESSORIES WITH MUCH CAUTION

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, April 25. — Even when one has selected the ideal suit, dress or coat, there is still the highly important and significant item of such accessories as the hat, gloves, shoes, pocketbook. Many a lovely outfit has been completely spoiled by giving it the wrong type of accessory, just as by the same token many a frock has acquired a new lease on life by being treated to grand and harmonious complementary touches. Give as much thought and careful planning to these things as you do to your clothes and you will discover that the extra care will save you money and add materially to your sartorial success. The hat for morning wear, no matter how gay, colorful and dashing it may be, is not the hat to wear with afternoon things of the more formalized aspect, nor should one carry over the same gloves and handbag. And clothes for general street or informal town wear are absolutely distinct from things for more formal wear, and the accessories created have each and all their own niche in the mode as it travels the clock round.

* * *

SHOWN are two hats that enter quite definitely into the category of hats for wear in town up to luncheon or for general sports wear at a smart resort. Both hats are from Suzanne Talbot. The upper sketch shows a model in white etamine straw, a fine weave resembling panama. The crown is very shallow and rounding, giving, with the mushroom brim, the effect of an inverted bowl. A band of light blue shantung with a fly-away bow high at the side back is the only trimming. The other hat is of white, thin, supple straw, in a loose basket weave. The brim is turned up high at the left side-back, where an upright pheasant quill gives a dashing line. This is an unusually young and dashing model and has been ordered by many of Talbot's clients.

GOVERNORS AIM AT AIR RECORD

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Apr. 25.—(AP.)—Gov. Rolph, of California, and Gov. Balzar, of Nevada, will attempt to break the transcontinental flight record next Saturday, the former said during their stop here en route to the governors' conference at Richmond, Va.

Gov. Rolph, who started flights in 1913, said the flight would be attempted from Washington to San Francisco unless the Department of Commerce objected.

Roscoe Turner, former Alabama flier, who is a colonel on Gov. Rolph's staff, and a lieutenant colonel on Gov. Balzar's staff, will pilot the ship.

Cottrell, Inventor Of Color Press, Dies

WESTERLY, R. I., April 25.—(AP.)—Charles P. Cottrell, 74, inventor, died last night. He gave the printing world the multi-color rotary perfecting press which prints four colors on one side of the paper and two on the other. He also developed the magazine rotary press.

He was president of C. B. Cottrell and Sons Company, manufacturers of presses.

Death of Broker Revealed Suicide

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—(INS.)—The veil of mystery surrounding the shooting of Vance W. Mills, a bond broker, found dead in his apartment here Saturday night was torn aside when police were told that facts were not divulged in order to avoid publicity.

Someone purporting to be a representative of Mrs. Mills said Mills had committed suicide.

ENDS LIFE OVER LOVE OF DANCER

CHICAGO, April 25.—(AP.)—With a farewell note that told of an unrequited love, a man identified by a friend as Howard L. Clark, 49, former pugilist, shot and killed himself yesterday at the door of the apartment of Mrs. Charlotte Krupka, 26.

The note revealed he knew and unsuccessfully courted her as Sally Kane, a dance hall hostess, until he learned she was married. Police expressed belief he intended to harm her also but changed his mind. The note said:

"If this can keep only one young man out of the taxi dance halls, my purpose will be achieved. I met Sally at a dance school. She was in rags then. She told me a pitiful story of needing help. I aided her, as a humanitarian would. Then I discovered that she was married and that her kind were vulturrs."

The note willed what was left of a $500 insurance policy after burial expenses were paid, to a life-long friend, Victor Pierson, of Chicago, who identified the body and said Clark came here from Oil City, Pa., several years ago, fought in the ring and worked as a stenographer for a railroad. He is said to have a brother, Edwin, living in Oil City.

American Jews Plan International Rally

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—Plans for a world Jewish congress in 1933 or 1934 for the defense of Jewish rights and the maintenance of Jewish morale in all countries were approved late yesterday by representatives of more than 100 Jewish organizations meeting under the auspices of the American Jewish Congress.

The American Jewish Congress was authorized in a resolution to invite delegates from various countries to participate in a conference in Geneva in July to develop the international meeting.

Sees Children as Divorce Evil Cure

EVANSTON, Ill., April 25.—(AP.)—The Rt. Rev. Thomas Jenkins, Episcopal bishop of Nevada, says Christian education of the growing children and not attacks upon the courts will help solve the problem of divorce. He made this observation last night while addressing the congregation of St. Luke's Church here, he said he deplored the position in which children were placed by divorce. Bishop Jenkins' home and cathedral are in Reno.

Gandhists Jailed, Delhi Under Guard

DELHI, April 25.—(INS.)—Armored cars carrying government troops today patroled Delhi to prevent further Nationalist demonstrations, while the city's jails were packed to capacity.

Five hundred stubborn Nationalists who evaded police lines to enter the city were arrested Sunday for attempting to hold the All-India Nationalist Congress in defiance of the government's ban. The arrests brought the total for two days at 800.

Fire Engine, Auto Crash, Five Hurt

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 25.—(INS.)—Five persons were recovering from injuries here today as the result of a crash between a fire engine and an automobile yesterday.

As the engine responded to an alarm it collided with a machine driven by Alexander Salata, 24. Fire Chief Harry Cundall, 58; Lawrence Loar, 44; Harry Bainer, 26, and Homer Braneram, 40, were cut and bruised when they were thrown from the fire engine.

Scratch Kills Elkins Heir at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 25.—(INS.)—A scratch sustained when he brushed against a metal fence on the Harvard campus a week ago today caused the death of Bayard Tuckerman Elkins, 20. His father, William M. Elkins, Philadelphia banker, was rushing here by private train when his son died of blood poisoning.

Ripley Returning to Radio; Phil Lord on Air Again From Bowery Tonight

ROBERT L. RIPLEY, a recent visitor to the South Seas and the Orient in search of authentic data, will present programs transmitted by KDKA and WCAE every Wednesday and Friday night at 7:30, beginning May 4.

Mr. Ripley

During his recent trip, Ripley interviewed the Queen of the Fiji Islands, who has ruled about 500 subjects, and a tribe of New Guinea cannibals. He has explored strange regions of geysers, medicinal springs, volcanoes and caves, places where human flesh will eat out of a man's hand. Ripley's itinerary also included Hawaii, Java, Australia, New Zealand, Siam, the Philippine Islands, China, Japan and Manchuria. During his career he has visited 37 countries in his search for unbelievable data.

Running the Kentucky derby for the fourth time before the great track event takes place, Irvin S. Cobb and Grantland Rice discuss the blue-grass classic and its predecessors over WCAE on May 4.

The speakers on the Quaker Hour with Major Deegan, Jimmy Wong and Chief Red Benson and his orchestra, will close out the program season for the summer May 28.

Program Pointers

Glenn Riggs, General of the Morning Parade with Zac Parenteau, staff announcer, tells of programs today:

Mr. Riggs

Col. Stoopnagle and Budd, the dizzy duo appearing in person this week at Loew's Penn Theater, broadcast their regular Monday night chain program from the WJAS studios at 8:45.

A feud between two old-timers over what is believed to be a worthless ledge of ore is dramatized during the Death Valley Days program on KDKA at 8:30.

"Musical Vignettes," a new program combined for the time being, with the recently inaugurated "Midnight Melodies," is started on KQV tonight at 10, featuring Charles Jones, organist; William Silk, tenor and violinist, and Sara Manno, coloratura soprano.

The City of Newark, O., is saluted during the Westinghouse Parade program on KDKA tonight at 6:15. E. Lee Reinsheat, manager of the Newark Chamber of Commerce, is guest speaker.

Features of the Parade of States program on WCAE at 9:30 are songs by J. Alden Edkins, winner of the 1931 national radio auditions, and Elizabeth Lennot, contralto, a salute to the state of Nebraska, written by Bruce Barton, and tributes to the founder of Arbor Day, Sterling Morton, a Nebraskan, and Gen. John J. Pershing.

The Sun-Telegraph primary election returns will be broadcast from the studios of WCAE at intervals from the time the polls close tomorrow night.

Phillips Lord's third visit to the old Tunnel Saloon, once a rendezvous for New York's notorious underworld characters, on WCAE at 10:30, postpones for the second time the opening of Kay Donna's new series of "Do You Remember?" songs over the NBC network.

Fan Fare

When Harriet Lee, NBC singer, had the grip recently, she didn't miss a single broadcast and kept up her rehearsals regularly. . . She had her accompanist go out for a midget piano and continued to learn new songs until her physician ordered her to stop. . . Radio history was made when the two Mills Brothers, singing from New Haven, were picked up by two remote control wires and brought in the panel board at CBS while Victor Young's orchestra played from the studio. The two were blended without a single error and without missing a beat.

Miss Lee

Harriet, Gertrude Berg's 6-year-old daughter, is very much perplexed. . . In real life Mrs. Berg has a husband and two children. . . On the air as Mollie Goldberg she does too. . . Harriet concludes that her mother really has two husbands and four children and can't understand how her mother can really love her when she displays so much affection for her radio daughter. . . Very confusing, Harriet thinks.

Lou Raderman, NBC Gypsies' violinist, recently returned from Cuba where he has been studying the newer Cuban dance music. . . Alice Remsen, contralto on that perfume hour on WJAS tonight at 9:30 made her first stage appearance at the age of 14 at the

Loew's Penn Stars In Nite Club

Olive Sibley, prima donna, well known to Pittsburgh audiences, and Buck and Bubbles, sensational stars of the most recent edition of the "Follies," appearing at Loew's Penn Theater this week, are co-starred in a scintillating program during the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club broadcast tonight at 11 on WCAE. Lois Miller, popular singing organist of the Penn, presents another group of request numbers on the program.

The latest news of the world is flashed to WCAE listeners direct from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms by Louis I. Kaufman, Globe Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph, and Hearst Metrotone News, at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m., and 6:30 p. m.

An unusual program for the kiddies is presented by talented Pittsburgh youngsters during the Sun-Telegraph Family broadcast on WCAE at 4:45.

Those gay little chats of Madelon's on extraordinary things of particular interest to every woman are entertaining and unusual. Her "Reflections of Madelon's Mirror" program is broadcast tomorrow morning from WCAE at 10:30.

Studio Static

There's a place in the radio spotlight for a couple of experts in the gentle art of osculation, so now kiss auditions are in order.

Ray Kelley, sound effects man of the NBC staff, has tried all kinds of artificial methods to reproduce the sound of a kiss, among them being an experiment with the squeak of a rusty hinge and rubbing a cork over a piece of resin-covered glass, but they didn't sound natural. So Kelley continues his search, based on the idea that kisses via radio can be reproduced properly only when two pairs of lips meet.

State Begins Road Oiling Wednesday

The State Highway Department begins its summer schedule of work on Wednesday, starting with the oiling of many old state highways and a large number of the new rural highway system. Several sections are to be oiled on the old highways in Armstrong, Butler, Clarion, Indiana and Jefferson County. The first of the week's detour bulletins will be effective from next Friday.

Tomorrow's Papers!

VOTERS

Tomorrow you will be given the opportunity of voting for or against a bond issue of 2 million dollars and one of 3 million dollars. The funds from both will be spent for unemployment relief through direct aid and work.

When Council was urged to put these bond issues on the ballot it was stated they were only wanted as a back log in case other means of securing funds should fail. The other means mentioned were, first, the testing of the constitutionality of the Talbot Bill, second, the possibility of Governor Pinchot calling a special session of the Legislature, third, the results of the Harris Family-Help-Family Plan.

Since Council agreed to put the bond issues on the ballot, the following has developed:

First, the Talbot Act has been declared constitutional and $1,600,000 has now become available for relief in the County.

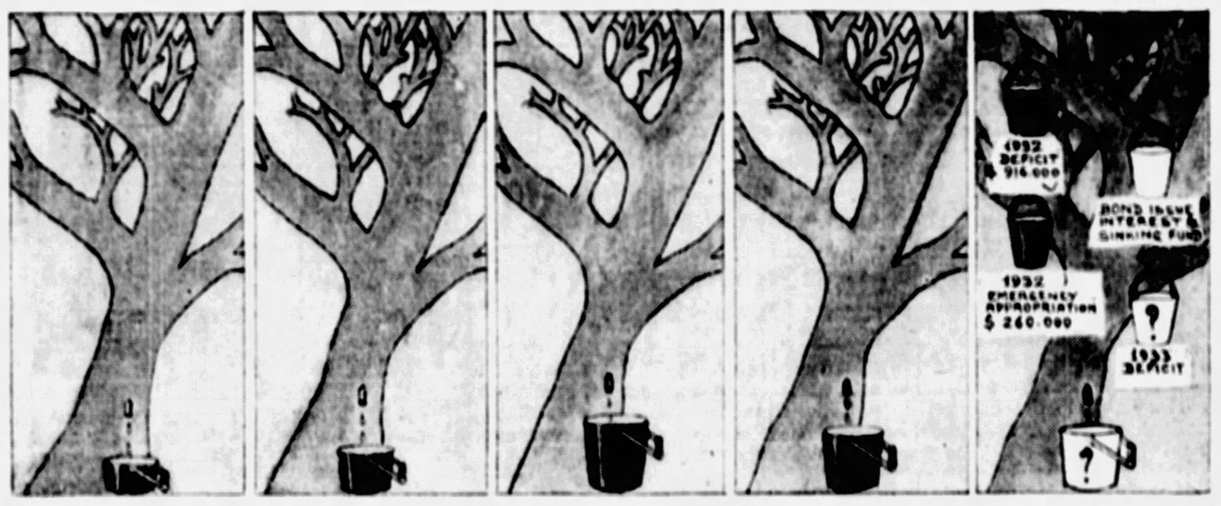
Second, Governor Pinchot has declared he will call an extra session of the Legislature.

Third, the Harris Family-Help-Family Plan is progressing in its work.

Fourth, there is a growing tendency throughout the country that Federal legislation should be enacted to provide public work in the emergency situation.

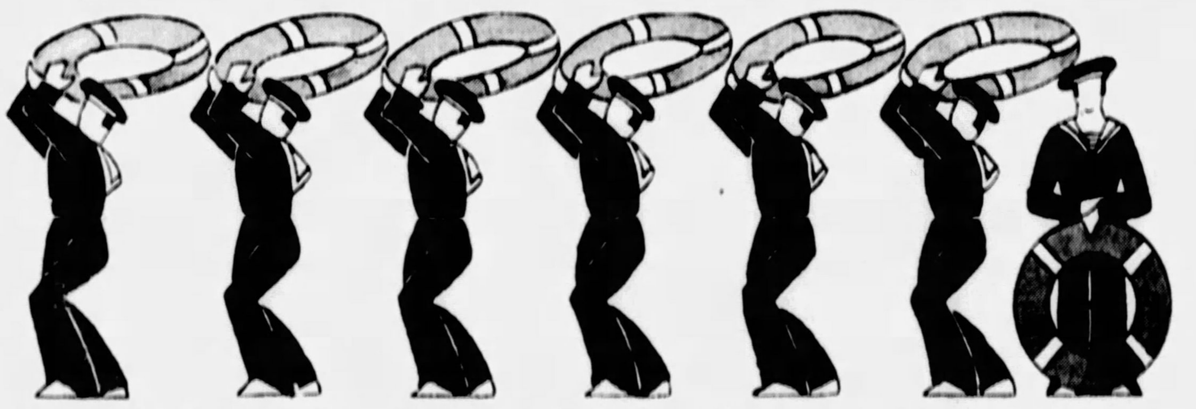
Each Money Bag Represents $5,000,000.00 of the total remaining borrowing power of the city.

One bag will be taken away by the proposed bond issue. How long will the other bags last?



1912	1920	1930	1932	1933
$11,120,950.00	$17,783,458.00	$27,765,000.00	$25,000,000.00	$.....

The tree represents the sturdy taxpayer—the buckets the cost of city government. What will be the size of the 1933 bucket? How long will the sap last without destroying the tree?



1. Private Contribution
2. Corporate Contribution
3. Family-help-family Plan
4. Talbot Bill
5. Proposed State Fund
6. Probable Federal Funds
7. City Bond Issues

The life savers represent the sound order in which the fund for emergency should be provided.

Everyone wants to give food and relief to our people who are hungry and in distress but we insist all other means of raising money be exhausted before we pass city bond issues which can only be paid for by added taxes on real estate already overburdened by carrying more than 80% of the cost of local government. Added real estate taxes mean added delinquency and increased foreclosures, and the very solvency of our local government is in jeopardy. We are opposed to these bond issues and urge you to VOTE NO!

COUNCIL DELAY ON SUBWAY SCORED

Transit Board Cites Report Urging Construction of Downtown Loop in 1931

That the City Transit Commission urged a start on the Smithfield street subway project on December 1, 1931, in a written report to City Council and that this recommendation was received and filed and apparently forgotten, is the position taken by members of the commission in answering demands for haste in subway planning.

The commission's report refers to a constantly growing necessity for a subway under Smithfield street and recommends its construction.

The December report states:

"At no time since the authorization of a bond issue for this project in the amount of $6,000,000 12 years ago could this work be done at such low cost. At no time have conditions been more opportune for the undertaking of important public works than in the present period of business depression and unemployment."

Speaking of increasing traffic congestion, the report declared that it has increased in spite of the fact that the depression has resulted in temporarily holding back the normal increase in traffic of all kinds. With the return of normal economic conditions a more rapid increase in traffic is expected.

The street railways system will continue to be the most important element in the transportation system, the report says. Buses cannot fully meet the demands of mass transportation, the report states, and cars for each individual could not be crowded into the downtown area.

THRONG HONORS MARKHAM, 80, IN NEW YORK

Poet Reads Latest Works At Birthday Observance; Honored at Church Service

Universal Service

NEW YORK, April 25—Edwin Markham, noted poet, was greeted by hundreds of friends assembled in Carnegie Hall last night to pay tribute to him in the celebration of his 80th birthday.

The genial author of The Man With the Hoe active in spite of his age after a rousing welcome read selections from his newest book of poems including At Eighty Years which was published Sunday in the Sun-Telegraph.

He followed this with a brief address prefaced with the remark that he would much prefer being honored on my 90th birthday.

Then in his deep resonant voice which survives after years of the lecture platform he said:

"There are some who would link poetry with science, but this cannot be done.

"Poetry is different because science is confined to cold intellect while poetry comes from the heart. A poet doesn't think of a poem—he feels it."

The remainder of the program was devoted to musical interpretations of some of Markham's best known works.

Markham was honored also at services in All Souls' Universalist Church Brooklyn. In a brief address to the congregation he said he could look back over the years of his long life without regret and look forward with confidence and hope to the future.

He said he had found three things necessary for proper enjoyment of life: Bread, beauty and brotherhood.

K. OF C. HOLDING OFFICERS OPEN DE VALERA FETE NATIONAL MEET

A welcome to Pittsburgh today for an address observing the De Valera party victory in Ireland was contrasted in the recollections of Charles Edward Russell, international writer and lecturer, with 43 years ago when refused admission to one of the city's best hotels.

Russell as a reporter from New York covered the Johnstown flood. Arriving mud-coated after 13 days in the ruins the Duquesne Hotel, one of the big ones of that day, at first wouldn't admit him and his umbrella, the lone piece of baggage he carried. Prevailing of friends, however, finally won.

Mr. Russell speaks tonight at a dinner in the auditorium of Duquesne Council, Knights of Columbus.

Reports on "red" activities, pacifism, industrial mobilization of armed and industrial forces, Citizens Military training activities, air service reserve and many other subjects pertaining to the mobilization of an army in a national emergency were to be made today at the opening session of the national convention of the Reserve Officers Association, meeting in the William Penn Hotel for a three-day executive session.

High ranking regular army officers, reserve officers and war department officials are attending the sessions. Outstanding among the noted guests are F. Trubee Davison, assistant Secretary of War, scheduled to arrive here by air; Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commanding the Third Corps Area; Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, chairman of the Associated Military Defense Council and noted writer for the Hearst newspapers on military subjects, and Col. I. Kemper Williams, national president of the Reserve Officers.

Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, candidate for the United States Senate, and Brig. Gen. Andrew Moses, of the War Department General Staff at Washington, also are scheduled to arrive today.

Business sessions were to take up most of the day with a military reception and ball on the program for tonight.

Woman Rearrested In Death of Girl

County detectives today were ordered to rearrest Mrs. Rhoda Breidenbach, 2209 Waverly street, Swissvale, this time on a criminal charge, following the death of Audrey Walker, 18, of 2801 Jane street, this morning in South Side Hospital.

Mrs. Rhoda Breidenbach was arrested last week, charged with practicing medicine without a license and released under $2,500.

Jobless, Liberty Parties Merge, Plan Convention

PASTOR PROPOSES YEARLY TAX ON LIQUOR DRINKERS

JOBLESS PARTY JOINS LIBERTY ORGANIZATION

Staley Seeks to Add Farmer-Labor Group to Merger; Huge Convention Slated

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—(AP.)—With the avowed intention of "preventing revolution, such as the Communists seek, by means of orderly social evolution," W. H. (Coin) Harvey, head of the Liberty party, and Austin L. Staley, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the national committee of the Jobless party, announced here yesterday their organizations had been consolidated as the Liberty-Jobless party.

Plans for a mammoth political convention, with delegates to obtain funds for the trip by means of "card games and raffles," were announced by Staley, who said he hoped to bring 1,000,000 men and women to St. Louis for the convention, set for August 17. The Jobless party was organized after the march of unemployed to Washington last January, led by Father James R. Cox.

COSTUMES PLANNED

Staley said yesterday:

"A large eastern shirt factory has extended us credit for $750,000 for shirts, ties and overseas caps of blue material. The women will wear the caps with blue smocks."

Candidates for President and Vice President will be nominated at the convention, Staley said. He left last night for Omaha, where he intends to try to persuade the Farmer-Labor party, meeting there Tuesday, to merge with the Liberty-Jobless party.

USE OF PARK ASKED

Staley applied to Mayor Victor Miller for permission to use Prospect Park here for the proposed convention, but was requested to make formal written application. Staley, a Pittsburgh lawyer, said:

"I admit it sounds preposterous to talk of a convention of 1,000,000, but it is not at all preposterous. Each unit—we have more than 1,000 unts already organized—raises its own money. County conventions will be held early in July and state conventions the following week.

"We already have 500,000 converts and many of them have good jobs or are professional men."

ROUT STUDENTS AT AVELLA MINE

AVELLA, Pa., April 25.—Twenty-five Pittsburgh college students were put to rout by a lone Washington County deputy sheriff here yesterday, and the outlaw strike of 500 miners in this district went into its third uneventful week today.

The students, three of them girls, and all members of the Student League of Western Pennsylvania, visited Avella for the announced purpose of gaining first-hand knowledge of strike conditions. They paid a short visit to headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America, inquiring the whereabouts of the National Miners' Union headquarters; then hied themselves in a parade of trucks and automobiles to this latter group.

After interviewing members of the National Miners' Union, the students visited several families living in company-owned houses of the Duquesne Gas Coal Company, on the outskirts of Avella. It was here that Deputy Sheriff William Robinson, who is also Constable for the district, ordered them off the company property under threat of tear gas.

Arrested Here

ANGELINE MASTROMAR

Long-missing Miss Mastromar, 18, Swampscott (Mass.) daughter of a wealthy Italian, arrested by city detectives. She, her father's friend, Giacomo Salustri, 37 (held in Akron) and $3,000 were missing.

RUNAWAY GIRL HELD HERE

City detectives today were awaiting the arrival in Pittsburgh of Martin Marstromar, of Swampscott, Mass., father of pretty Angeline Marstromar, 18, apprehended here after a nation-wide search. The girl was arrested Thursday, but the fact was not revealed until yesterday, when Akron, O., police trapped her alleged sweetheart, Giacomo Salustri, 37, also of Swampscott, and recovered $1,000 of the $3,000 the girl is said to have taken from her father before she fled from home last February.

Salustri is being brought to Pittsburgh by Akron authorities and will be turned over to Massachusetts police on their arrival here. Salustri, a friend of her father, is said to have deserted his wife in Swampscott. He is alleged to have lured Angeline from her home on the promise of marriage. The girl said she joined Salustri here and was upbraided for failing to take $4,000 more.

AUTO CRASHES SEND MANY TO HOSPITALS

Three Children Injured In North Side Collision; Two Machines Overturn

Three youths were in Allegheny General Hospital today with injuries received when the automobile in which they were riding, driven by Paul Taormina, 21, of 3511 Penn avenue, got beyond control and overturned at Sixteenth and Pike streets, according to a police report.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Those in the hospital are Charles Balestrieri, 18, of Twenty-fourth street; Michael Aliota, 19, of 2534 Penn avenue, and Michael Lachi, 16, of 2831 Penn avenue. Taormina was not injured.

Joseph Morz, 21, of 3502 Charlotte street, was in Magee hospital with injuries received, police said, when the auto driven by Peter Retecheck, of 3403 Boquet street, collided with a car driven by Paul Lustic, 18, of Winslow street. Ingram, and overturned, at Parkview and Swinebourne avenues.

5 HURT IN CRASH

Five persons, including three children, were treated at Presbyterian Hospital early today for minor injuries incurred when two automobiles collided in East street, at Thirty-seventh street. They were passengers in an automobile driven by Simon Oberhoffer, 65, of Perrysville; Charles A. Durak, 21, of 220 Creek street, was driver of the other machine.

Those injured were Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Tegethoff, of 605 Middle street, and their twin daughters, Mary Jane and Rose Marie, 4, and Roberty Henry, 11.

Joseph Rapko, 39, of 1356 Ravine street, Munhall, was taken to Homestead Hospital early today suffering from injuries incurred when he was struck by a machine driven, police say, by Ralph McCall, of 1207 Park street, McKeesport.

FOLK-DANCING GROUP AMONG 3,000 CHILDREN REHEARSING FOR STOWE TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS' HEALTH FETE MAY 6

3,000 IN STOWE MAY DAY FETE

More than 3,000 Stowe Township school children are preparing to participate in the nation-wide program for May Day, proclaimed by President Hoover as Child Health Day. On May 6 celebration will take place on the school grounds under the direction of T. C. Marnen, supervisor of health education. Certificates and seals will be given nearly 500 students who have successfully maintained a high average health record.

This is to be only one of many May Day activities being sponsored in 100 districts by the Child Health Council of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County this year.

In a Health Poster Contest in city, county and parochial schools, five first prizes were awarded to Jack Mackenroth, Millvale, for first, second and third grades; to Anton Frankovitch, Port Vue, for fourth, fifth and sixth; to Robert Dunshore, Brentwood, seventh, eighth and ninth, and to Otto Mycka, Stowe Township, for 10, 11 and 12. Prize posters will be displayed in department store windows.

Three radio broadcasts will be given by the Child Health Council May Day week: on Saturday, April 30 at 4 p. m. over KDKA; on Sunday, May 1 at 1:30 over WCAE and on May 5 over KDKA.

The speakers' Bureau of the Child Health Council will provide speakers for May Day meetings through Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, chairman.

Free Distribution Of Trees for County

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 25.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

This fellow Gray has brought investigations back on the front page. Some of that rich bunch will hire him. Wall street will live this down, for the more we find out about anything, the less we ever do about it. But they never will live down Charley Dawes calling 'em a "peanut stand." A bunch of women are after Mellon because he is going to give the Britishers a drink. Most Americans don't care how many he gives 'em, just so he don't take enough himself so he will cancel the debt. U. S. GASOLINE TAX OPPOSED

Any federal gasoline tax levy enacted now by Congress would be highly discriminatory against motorists, and would imperil the recovery of the automobile industry, the board of directors of the Pittsburgh Motor Club declared today in letters to Senators James J. Davis, David A. Reed and Western Pennsylvania members of the House of Representatives. The club requested these legislators to vote against any national gasoline tax submitted as part of the 1932 budget.

The letters, signed by Club Secretary C. H. Roth, said:

"According to a recent survey, one out of every 10 dollars paid to state and federal governments is paid by the automobile industry or users of motor vehicles. Since it is almost certain that an excise tax or a sales tax will be placed on automobiles as part of the new federal budget, we believe that a national gasoline tax would be highly discriminators against a class already excessively taxed, and we think it would prove a serious threat to an industry which can either bring us back to prosperity or plunge us deeper into financial gloom."

DISPENSARIES TO SELL RUM SUGGESTED

Prohibition Wrong, Has Failed, Says Dr. Doege; Seeks Temperance Return

A plan to license all persons $1 a year for the privilege of drinking alcoholic beverages, and also licensing selected men of high character as operators of beverage dispensaries has been suggested by a Pittsburgh pastor to solve the temperance problem.

The Rev. G. W. F. Doege, pastor of the Second St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, declaring that prohibition has made the American people a nation of criminals, and that it has destroyed respect for all law, has drafted such a plan which, he believes, would foster the ideals not of prohibition, but of temperance.

COMPULSORY LICENSE

The purchase of the individual license would be obligatory, according to his plan, and alcoholic beverages could not be bought without one. Licenses for dispensing beverages would be placed at a figure far below that required of the saloon owner in pre-prohibition days. The pastor explained with a smaller tax, it would not be necessary to sell as much in order to clear the overhead. He said:

"I do not wish to see the return of the open, unlimited saloon. But prohibition is not the answer to the problem of temperance which we face in this country. Prohibition is wrong, because it transgresses moral law. The principle of prohibition, or the compulsory total abstinence, forbids the use of alcoholic beverages, even in moderation. It therefore denies the rights, dignity and liberty of the individual and makes the practice of temperance a crime. Prohibition, therefore, even if enforced, cannot be a success."

BILLIONS FOR TREASURY

The Rev. Doege said his plan would be to license both the individual and the merchant. He declared it would add millions of dollars to the Treasury and would employ millions of people. He concluded:

"Prohibition is also an un-Christian proposition. Jesus at the wedding set His divine approval on the beverage used there, which was wine. Prohibition can never become a Christian ideal.

"Since prohibition is wrong in principle and un-Christian in its philosophy and practice, it is doomed to failure. The past 12 years have shown this.

"No other amendment has met with so much antagonism on the part of the American people as has this one. The reason is that prohibition is not based on any part of moral law. The temperate use of anything not forbidden in the moral law can never be a crime."

Dry Raids Some Good--They Help Furniture Sales

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

The prohibition raiders are certainly helping the spring furniture sales.

Here's their record for one week in New York City alone:

Six hundred front doors cracked loose from their moorings.

Same number of mahogany bars reduced to their original hickory splinters.

Three thousand tables knocked bowlegged and 12,000 chairs limping with sprained backs and twisted ankles.

Many valuable Babylonian cuspidors shattered and soap paintings on mirrors destroyed by the sons of the vandals who ravaged Gaul and overran Spain.

The boys have done pretty good with their axes during this economical hiatus when even the Australian woodchoppers are using tack hammers.

But it helps business. All those things must be replaced, for a speakeasy is just another institution which does business during and after alterations.

HELP FOR FUND PLAN URGED BY FATHER COX

Priest Sees Substantial Aid To Relief Work Through Sun-Telegraph Campaign

In his pulpit yesterday morning and over the radio the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of old St. Patrick's and "father of the jobless," praised the plan inaugurated by the Sun-Telegraph to bring him additional funds to carry on his work of relief among the unemployed.

By the purchase of a new home delivery order for the Sun-Telegraph obtained from Father Cox's Sun-Telegraph Home Delivery Drive will be credited to the regular commission paid for such orders. The drive has already attracted wide attention and such favorable comment and it is expected that a well-worthwhile addition to his fund will result.

EXPECTS FRIENDS AID

When the plan was presented to Father Cox he immediately approved it and congratulated the Sun-Telegraph on its decision to make a move to help unemployed in such a liberal manner. He said today:

"I have an idea that many of my personal friends and others who are in sympathy with what I am trying to do and who are not now having an evening newspaper delivered to their homes will gladly take advantage of this offer. They can be assured that their subscriptions will be appreciated because every order that comes in means much needed money for my work.

"And I may add the money is much more needed than ever. Conditions as I survey them are not getting any more hopeful but we are gratified in knowing that we will be aided in carrying on our work among the jobless and the needy by this new Sun-Telegraph plan."

NEED EVIDENT

If everyone could see for themselves the daily headlines, the long files of women and children getting baskets of food from the Father Cox relief station, and could visualize the many other forms of relief he sponsors they would more quickly realize that this Father of the Jobless must have found he has work.

So, if you want to help Father Cox and want to keep a step ahead of the times by having a good newspaper delivered to your home every evening, clip the home delivery order blank on this page and send it to Father Cox in care of the Sun-Telegraph.

SMUGGLES WIFE OUT OF RUSSIA

A thrilling story of how John Pelikan, engineer at the Union Switch and Signal Company, Swissvale, spirited his wife across the Russian frontier was told in press dispatches reaching Pittsburgh from Riga, Latvia. The dash of the Pittsburgher with his Polish wife of two years climaxed months of futile negotiations with the Soviet government for permission to have his wife join him in America.

Pelikan was in Pittsburgh two months ago, but refused then to reveal his plans to "liberate" his wife. Once freedom was promised her if Pelikan would reveal engineering secrets of the Union Switch and Signal Company and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

With the aid of border runners, Mrs. Pelikan was taken to the frontier by train. From there began a 100-mile trek by sleigh, the border being crossed after guards had been bribed. Pelikan, reported en route to the States from Russia, is a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

BELL GUN HUNT BLAST FEARED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 25. (INS.)—As seachers continued to operate a large magnet in the Monongahela river in an attempt to locate the gun alleged to have been used in the killing of John F. Donohue, county detectives today took precautionary measures after the discovery of dynamite sticks near the shore.

Fearing possible blasts, spectators were kept some distance from the scene of operations. Tony Bell, who police say, confessed to participation in the killing, claims the gun was thrown into the river by R. C. Bledsoe.

A rake is now being used to drag the river bed prior to the application of the magnet.

HARVARD BODY SEARCH FAILS

EAST PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 25. (AP.)—East Providence police have discontinued their search of the waters of Watchemoket Cove for the body of Floyd F. Stewart, missing Harvard student.

Police said they were satisfied the body was not in the area in which that of Nathaniel E. Jones, who disappeared with Stewart, was found Friday.

Chief James H. Crosby said Boston and Cambridge (Mass.) police had made no effort to cooperate with him in the search for Stewart's body and that all information obtained here had been given by newspapermen and others.

CITY TO START SURVEY TO END WATER LEAKS

Lawrenceville, South Side, North Side to be Covered By Corps of Inspectors

A survey of all homes in the Lawrenceville, South Side and North Side districts to detect water losses to metered and unmetered consumers was announced yesterday by Managing Engineer James H. Kennon, of the City Bureau of Water.

The drive, Kennon said, is a follow up on an exhaustive pitometer survey conducted recently to detect water losses in city mains. City inspectors will examine faucets and other outlets for leaks. Residents will be required to repair the leaks within 10 days or face prosecution, Kennon pointed out.

The legislation authorizing the inspection reads:

"If any person shall cause wilful waste of water, by allowing it to run unnecessarily on premises—or by using the same except for necessary household purposes especially agreed upon, the person so offending shall forfeit and pay for every such offense the sum of not less than $5 and not exceeding $50."

No attempt is being made to cause hardships to any householder, Kennon explained. He said:

"On unmetered lines, an inspection of leaks saves the city money. On metered lines, the property owner or householder benefits by economies resulting from proper attention to leaks."

Four inspectors have been assigned to the task.

TWO CHILDREN SAVED IN BLAST

Jerry Prince, 5, and his 18-month-old brother, Louis, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Prince, were carried to safety late last night when an explosion of gas caused $250 damage to their home at 3475 Beechwood boulevard. Their nurse, Helen Deres was injured slightly when hurled to the floor by the explosion. Leaking gas in the basement of the building was the cause of the blast, police say.

Fire which followed was extinguished with slight loss. Early today firemen were again called to the damaged home when fire was discovered in the walls. The parents of the children were attending a benefit motion picture show.

PERIL OF HAWAII NEGLECT

Defense Weakness Menaces Security Of America

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.

WASHINGTON, April 23.

"For any man with half an eye,
What stands before him may espy."

* * *

These very marble walls which today echo to shouts of infantile glee, as efforts are made in appropriation bills to break down the national defense, have sermons in patriotism to preach to those who will stop to listen.

* * *

There isn't a bit of marble in Senate or House that does not know that Uncle Sam annexed Hawaii July 7, 1898, because its possession was essential to the peace of America, and the nation's defense against a foreign enemy. Congress today stands as dumb as stones of the Capitol in the face of the peril that confronts our Pacific outpost.

* * *

The resolution of annexation was reported to the House, by Representative Hitt, from the Foreign Affairs Committee, on May 17, 1898, when the country was ringing with Dewey's feat at Manila, that war with Spain aroused the people, and they forced Congress to bring Hawaii under the flag. Tom Reed, then the Speaker, tried to prevent it, but not even the Czar could do that when the national voice had spoken.

* * *

One fears there is much pretense in the assertion of Japan that she does not want Hawaii. It was the Japanese eye cast on the islands that turned the natives toward America for protection. The report on the Hitt resolution by which Hawaii was finally admitted to the union, discloses that the Japanese government not long before, under its treaty of 1871, had demanded for its nationals there privileges of voting and office-holding. Moreover, Japan was pouring between 1,000 and 2,000 Japanese a month into the islands, the report says:

"Threatening speedy change of government into Japanese hands, and ultimately to a Japanese possession."

* * *

It was to prevent that very thing that the United States finally put the flag up at Honolulu to stay. But Hawaii has been lost sight of, and neglected and Congress is indifferent, until a crime against American womanhood shocks the conscience of the people, and brings the country to its senses.

* * *

Japan's pressure upon the Hawaiian government was still pending when the annexation resolution was adopted. Taking cognizance of this, the Hitt report said that if the annexation were rejected Japan "could then, in a few months, throw many thousands of Japanese subjects into the Hawaiian Islands, completely overwhelming all other influences." Has annexation stopped Japanese penetration? Not so one could notice it.

* * *

Hawaii was long known to be the key to the Pacific. A French naval officer seized it in 1829 and another one in 1849. A British naval force took it in 1843. Hawaii was alarmed, and proposed annexation to the United States in 1851, but nothing was done.

* * *

The Spanish War changed the situation. The Hitt report emphasized the "unestimable importance to the United States of possessing the Hawaiian Islands in case of war with any other naval power."

* * *

The report said:

"In the possession of our enemy, they would serve as a secure base for attacking any and all of our Pacific Coast cities. In our possession they would deprive the enemy's fleet of all facilities for coaling, supplies or repairs, and speedily paralyze all his naval operations. The first object of an enemy attacking us on that side of the republic would be to secure these islands, and in their present condition their possession would fall to the stronger naval power."

* * *

That is as true today as when the report was written in 1898. The Hitt report said:

"Had the war in which we are now engaged been with any other powers, they might have worsted our fleet and seized the Hawaiian Islands. The islands would secure both our fleet and our coast."

* * *

Gen. J. M. Schofield testified before the committee on May 10, declaring that America should have the islands to hold Pearl Harbor. Happily for us, he said we had gone to war in 1898 with the only power then in the Pacific that was weaker than ourselves, Spain. Admiral Walker confirmed the views of Gen. Schofield.

* * *

The general said:

"We are liable at any time to get into a war with a nation which has a more powerful fleet than ours, and it is of vital importance, therefore, if we can, to hold the point from which they can conduct operations against the Pacific Coast."

* * *

Floyd Gibbons has directed the attention of America to the peril at Hawaii. It is a great service. American naval strength has been impaired, we have unloaded the Hawaiian gun at the dictation of Europe, and Congress is deaf to the lesson which all the marble walls that surround the majestic dome long to repeat to those willing to learn.

WINS HONORS IN CHEMISTRY

Once winner of highest chemistry honors, David Glick, graduate of the University of Pittsburgh in 1929 with the degree of bachelor of science in chemistry, has been selected for the Hernsheim Fellowship in Chemistry at Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York.

Word of the selection reached Dr. Alexander Silverman, head of the chemistry department at Pitt, today. Glick was winner in 1929 of the Francis C. Phillips medal for highest chemistry honors. He will receive his doctor of philosophy degree from Pitt at the June commencement. His researches are in the field of the "Relation of Chemical Structure to Effect Enzymes." He will begin his researches in the field of biochemistry at Mt. Sinai Hospital in September. He has been graduate assistant in the Pitt chemistry department since 1929.

FAIR WEATHER AIDS RETAIL TURNOVER

Gains Noted in Several Lighter Business Lines; Heavy Industries Slower

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—Business showed some signs of tiring of the monotony of being held down and put up stiffer resistance to the trend in the week just ended.

Irregularity was apparent, but small gains over the previous week appeared in important lines. Gains were registered in fairly wide variety of lighter industries and there was fairly general improvement in some of the heavier lines.

There was a touch of spring in the air which furnished a beneficial tonic to retail stores, paving the way for increased trading in wearing apparel. Improvement in trade was noticeable in some sections of the Pacific Coast and the Middle West.

MERCHANDISE MOVING

The week's movement against the corresponding period last year showed a gain in freight. While the number of carloadings for the week ended April 16 was reported below the same week last year, the previous week there was a gain of [illegible] shipments of merchandise and miscellaneous freight combined were off 6,500 cars.

Better [illegible] were reported in steel [illegible] available figures were too few to gain as yet an accurate picture. Some leaders of the [illegible] industry argued that some [illegible] in general [illegible] of long [illegible] soon come about because of the long stagnation of the industry.

OIL LOOKING UP

The oil trade showed more optimism than it has for some time although a good deal of caution was still [illegible] the forecasts of the [illegible] leaders. Nevertheless [illegible] advances were [illegible] the week and [illegible] showed a [illegible] and in gasoline [illegible].

The steel industry was admittedly disappointed over the slowness of [illegible] orders in materials. [illegible] of passenger cars in the week ended April 16 was given at 35,725 against 42,853 the week before. The industry continued to hold its position on prices with no changes in basic prices reported in the composite wages. Motor manufacturers now have some substantial actual orders on hand calling for delivery of new cars this spring and the steel industry continues to show hopefulness on the likelihood that orders for steel will presently be placed to take care of this demand.

Forecast Indian Wheat Crop Higher

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The second official forecast of the present wheat crop in India is placed at 37,745,000 acres, compared with 37,628,000 acres forecast on the same date last year, the Commerce Department reports. The week ending April 18, 1932

The publication's weekly index of business conditions registers another move upward.

Steel activity, especially in the independent concerns, is being sustained by a slowly rising stream of automotive orders, the report shows. Electric power production appears to be straightening out to a stabilization level, and building contracts likewise are supported by some improvement in public construction work as the season opens. Merchandise freight movement and check payments have picked up a bit, possibly reflecting some spring stimulus in retail trade.

The preliminary weekly index reading of the Business Week for the week ending April 16 is 58.3. The revised reading for the previous period ending April 9 is 57.2. Both compare with 78.6 for the week ending April 18, 1932.

FUTURE HOMES DESCRIBED BY ENGINEER

Residential Construction Will Undergo Radical Changes, Says Dohner

Air in the home of tomorrow will be conditioned and kept at a pressure higher than that out-of-doors, according to Donald R. Dohner, director of the art engineering department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

This difference in pressure is needed to prevent dusty, untreated air from entering buildings, according to Mr. Dohner. In such an atmosphere the human family will be able to maintain the tempo of an ever-increasing pace with greater efficiency and less fatigue.

ALUMINUM ROOFS

Future homes will be of welded steel construction and will probably have aluminum roofs, he predicts. Interior walls, baseboards and doors will be of synthetic material such as micarta, which can be produced in numerous colors and unlimited designs.

Walls and roofs will be insulated better than at present. Central plants will heat the building in winter and cool it in summer, also clean condition and circulate air in the building.

STEISSES USABILITY

Today's dining room, in use only a small part of the time, is particularly wasteful of space. Tomorrow's will have furniture of ingenious design, making the room usable at any time for a variety of purposes. The home of the future will be more compact and efficient.

Dohner speaks of the general public's awakening to color consciousness and the effect this is having on the building industry. He describes a new synthetic building product—micarta—a laminated molded material made by Westinghouse. He said:

COLOR DESIRABLE

"Micarta has very desirable mechanical properties and can have impregnated in it any design or color. Its decorative possibilities are limited only by the creative ability of the designer.

"A recent trend is a more liberal use of color in kitchens and bathrooms. Colored materials, such as micarta, are solving the problem of giving character and cheer to otherwise drab, mediocre rooms."

Proposes to Retire $500,000 Debentures

NEW YORK, April 25.—Standard Investing Corporation proposes to purchase for retirement and cancellation up to $500,000 principal amount of its debentures at the lowest prices obtainable, but not exceeding 60 per cent of par plus accrued interest to May 6, and has invited tenders for this purpose from holders of 5 per cent debentures and 5½ per cent convertible debentures.

Municipal Financing Activities Lower

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP)—New state and municipal financing scheduled for this week by 47 municipalities totals $10,567,313 as compared with $18,455,924 for the past week, according to the Daily Bond Buyer. The weekly average of offerings by states and municipalities for the year to date is $20,874,854.

Proposed Glass Banking Bill Attacked by Chase National of New York

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

A VIGOROUS ATTACK against the Glass Banking Bill, now before the Senate, has been launched by the Chase National Bank of New York in its latest economic bulletin.

Dr. Benjamin M. Anderson, Jr., the bank's economist, takes exception to practically every claim made for the revised bill and predicts that many features of it will seriously cripple financial operations necessary to business.

On Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, this column outlined the principal features of the revised Glass bill and summarized the objects which the framers of the bill were attempting to achieve. The other side of the question, that being taken by most bankers, will now be presented in the form of an outline of Dr. Anderson's attack on the bill.

He declares that the revised Glass bill is a much softened document as compared with the original measure but still retains an essentially wrong point of view. Dr. Anderson says:

"It is aimed at symptoms, rather than causes. Designed to prevent a repetition of the speculative orgy of 1928-29, and the abuse of bank credit and financial machinery which the speculative orgy involved, it actually contains no provisions which, had they been in effect in 1928-29 and in the preceding period when the unsound situation was created, would have prevented the main evils of that period."

* * *

Blames Federal Reserve Cheap Credit Policies

DR. ANDERSON'S analysis of the bill attributes the last security inflation to the long period of excessively plentiful money and states that the Federal Reserve Board could have exercised adequate control of the situation through its open market activities and its control of the discount rate. He intimates that the Reserve System acted too late in putting on the brakes. He says:

"The earlier Glass bill was designed to sweep away a great body of financial practices which have grown up by an evolutionary process in the country, and which have, on the whole, worked well. The new bill is less sweeping in its scope, but is unchanged in spirit. In the years 1928-1929, these normal financial practices obviously and notoriously worked very badly, with results which have been disastrous for the country and for the world. Less obviously, but demonstrably, they were being perverted and poisoned in the years which preceded, the process beginning, in fact, in early 1922, and moving rapidly from the middle of 1924 to the end of 1927.

"The remedy is not to be found in striking at the financial practices and institutions which were thus perverted and poisoned. The remedy is rather to eliminate for the future the poison which perverted them. That poison is a general excess of bank credit at artificially low rates, growing out of excessive bank reserves, the control of which rests with the open market policy and discount policy of the Federal Reserve System. The original Glass bill contained some provisions aimed at preventing over-rapid expansion of bank credit in the future. The present measure contains practically nothing that would work in this direction."

Would Cause Unnecessary Banking Disturbances

BESIDES DECLARING that the existing system is adequate if properly administered, Dr. Anderson regards most of the features of the bill as sources of danger. He declares that the revised Glass Bill contains many important provisions which would make unnecessary disturbances in the banking situation and less sound, rather than sounder, conditions in the securities market and in the general banking situation.

Among these he particularly mentions the provision designed to force branch banking on states which do not want it; those aimed at abolishing the security affiliates of banks; those drastically limiting the ability of banks to engage in buying and selling bonds; the provision restricting bank loans to consolidated businesses; the provision dealing with brokers loans made by non-banking organizations; and the provisions taxing solvent banks for liquidating insolvent banks, which he sees as an opening wedge for the permanent adoption by the federal government of the policy of guaranteeing bank deposits.

* * *

Objects to All Phases Of Revised Glass Bill

THE OBJECTIONS raised by Dr. Anderson, which appear to be quite representative of general banking sentiment, cover practically all phases of the revised Glass Bill. The grounds upon which he bases these objections will be discussed in this column tomorrow.

I. B. M. REPORTS EARNINGS UP

NEW YORK, April 25.—International Business Machines Corporation reported for the three months ended March 31, net earnings after all charges and federal tax of $1,894,000. This compares with similar earnings for the corresponding 1931 period of $1,890,663.

Since about the middle of last year, International Business Machines Corporation has introduced seven new models in its electrical accounting and tabulating machine line, which have considerably extended the uses for this type of equipment, judging by the widening demand that has resulted, Thomas J. Watson, president, reported to members of the executive committee. During the same period, the company has introduced new industrial scale units and new models of time recording equipment, Mr. Watson said.

The consistent development work undertaken by the company during the past 17 years, together with the fact that the sales forces here and abroad have been steadily increased, has enabled the company to maintain its current earnings despite general conditions prevailing during the past two and a half years, Mr. Watson stated.

Mexico Increases Tariff on Films

MEXICO CITY, April 25.—An increase in the Mexican tariff on imported moving picture films and phonograph records, with the exception of imports from Spain, became effective April 21. The new duty is 75 pesos per kilogram, or about $12 a pound, compared with the old rate of 8 pesos; and is designed to encourage the Mexican film industry.

BEHIND THE TRADE MARK

Millions of dollars and forty-six years of time have been spent in never-ending research that the Westinghouse trade-mark may be an unfailing guide to dependability in every electrical device from refrigerators to giant turbines. Be sure this mark is on every piece of electrical apparatus you buy.

Warehouse Cocoa Stocks at Record

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP)—Warehouse stocks of cocoa in New York continued to increase last week and now total 833,000 bags, the highest on record. Despite this statistical influence prices of cocoa futures continued to show firmness on the New York Cocoa Exchange.

RADIO TESTS BY WHITEMAN

Paul Whiteman, noted band leader, through KDKA, will offer every man or woman between 16 and 30, a hearing tomorrow and Wednesday mornings between 9 and 11 o'clock. The auditions, to bring out Pittsburgh's leading young amateur, will be held in the studios of Radio Station KDKA, atop the William Penn Hotel.

Twenty-five of the most promising will be selected in the preliminary auditions and will appear before Whiteman personally Friday. Of these, one will be selected for the coast to coast Pontiac radio program, and be crowned by Whiteman as Pittsburgh's King or Queen of the Air.

Applications may be obtained from any Pontiac dealer, or at the Stanley Theater, where Whiteman will appear beginning Friday. No one with professional experience is permitted in the contest, and all applicants are asked to bring their own music.

MOUND REVEALS GIANTS' BONES

RIPLEY, Tenn., April 25. (AP)—Skeletons of three gigantic men buried by a forgotten race have been unearthed by a fisherman digging in an old Indian mound near here.

Tribal finery in which the bodies were interred was recovered intact. One of the skeletons bore ivory beads and a long ivory ornament. The other was decorated with copper beads and designs of bones and mica.

Two were found near the surface. Farther down the largest of the skeletons was discovered in a sitting position on a carpet of ashes.

Pottery, one piece containing the bones of an infant, was found nearby. It was in a fine state of preservation.

COLD KEEPS PIRATES IDLE

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Buc Hurlers Unsteady. Dodgers Seek Wheeling.
Lary Rivaling Cronin. Hotbed of Wrestling.
Fine Start by Packard. De Bruyn's Confidence.

PITCHING PRESENT PIRATE DRAWBACK

HAPPILY, THERE IS ground for the confidence that the condition is only temporary, and that time and the return of Remy Kremer to action will bring the necessary improvement, but for the present the main Pirate problem with which Manager Gibson has to wrestle is the pitching. The lacing that Glenn Spencer took in the rout at Chicago yesterday was due partly to weather conditions so unfavorable that Gibby refused to expose more than one flinger to the cold and rain, but at the same time it is evident that the Buccaneer slab department is not clicking up to the club's standards in other branches. Only Sactonic has stood out.

Glenn Spencer

A game was lost in St. Louis by Spencer after the Bucs had led 8 to 4. Harris and Brame couldn't hold a 6 to 1 lead last Thursday and the Rovers had to go 10 innings to win. Twice on Friday French forced in a run by walking a batter with the bases full. On Saturday Brame and Swift let a six-run lead get away and the Rovers had to play part of the ninth inning to nose out. The club is playing well otherwise, but much of the good work will be wasted unless the hurling improves.

WHILE NOT TRYING to take anything away from Joe Cronin as the leading shortstop of the American League, Joe McCarthy insists that Lyn Lary ranks very close to him. "Larry, at the tailend of the batting order, knocked in more than a hundred runs for us last year," says the Yankee manager. "Cronin, batting fourth, knocked in only four or five more despite the advantage he had of hitting in the clean-up position.

"In the field, Cronin, despite Lary's bad month, had only a shade over Lyn. Lary figured in 88 double plays, while Cronin, playing steadily alongside a good second baseman, Buddy Myer, was in only half a dozen more. Cronin all season made exactly 16 more hits than Lary, so if Cronin is the best shortstop in the league you can figure out for yourself what that makes Lary."

JIMMY WILSON, Cardinal catcher, isn't the only former soccer player working at baseball in the big leagues. There's another this year in Johnny Redel, of the Red Sox. He was goalie for the New Bedford Whalers.

Redel is a converted player. He went South as a pitcher, but now is listed as a first baseman. The Red Sox recruit also is one of the few major leaguers not born in the United States. He is a native of Poland.

AMONG THE SEVERAL players of this district performing for the Baltimore International League club this year, Frank Packard has been the spring standout. He started as an outfielder, but when ex-Pirate Jim Stroner suffered an injury to one of his knees Packard was sent to third base, and his work has been so brilliant that Baltimore critics say Stroner's chance of getting his job back is becoming more and more remote. Packard not only has played errorless ball in the field, but has been hitting at a .333 clip and is tied with Frank McGowan for the leadership of the club at knocking in runs.

Max Carey

THOUGH IT IS understood that a deal is on wherein the New York Giants will give up whatever interest they hold in the Jersey City franchise, and that the Brooklyn owners will acquire that International League club for a farm, rumor has it that the Dodgers are dickering for an additional spot overflow.

The Wheeling club, of the Middle-Atlantic League, is said to be the club of lower classification now sought. Negotiations are reported pending for the acquisition of the franchise in the West Virginia city, the Dodgers' owners seeing the need for a Class D farm to which they can send young players who are not far enough advanced for Jersey City or Hartford.

CAREY CONSIDERS THE need for a double-A farm even more urgent, and that's why the Brooklyn bosses set out to get hold of Jersey City. When the time comes to cut down the roster some players must be let go who are too good for the Eastern or the Middle-Atlantic League.

There are Dazzy Southern and John Kruder, for instance, and further releases must be distributed to some of the players in a group made up of Frenchy Thompson, Mickey Finn, Val Picinich, Hollis Thurston, Jackie Warner, Bobby Reis, Phil Gallivan and Earl Mattingly.

ALL OTHER CLUBS in the big leagues will find themselves facing problems similar to the one with which Brooklyn has started to wrestle. The fact that after June 15 each outfit will be permitted to carry only 23 players instead of 25, as in former years, necessitates the disposal of athletes who might be classified as good enough to stick ordinarily. The owners do not wish to give up all title to them, and yet they can't be kept because there will be no room for them. It is predicted that there will be some surprising names in the list of postimers waived out of the majors by the middle of June, and the grade of ball played in the various minors is bound to be improved accordingly as those leagues get better summer talent from the majors than in the past.

IN SELECTING A coach for the American wrestling team in the Olympic Games, the officials picked Hugo Otopalik, mat mentor at Iowa State College, because that institution is the hotbed of wrestling among the schools of the country and Otopalik is the most successful tutor of the grappling game.

Though a neglected sport at most colleges, wrestling has such a strong hold at Iowa State that it is to that school what football is to Notre Dame and baseball is to Holy Cross. It was taken up there in 1916, and in 17 seasons Iowa State has won 103 meets and lost only 13.

OTOPALIK, A FORMER Nebraska football player and coaching at Iowa State since 1923, differs from the average college wrestling coach in that he is not a standpatter. He goes in for new stuff, tries to improve the game.

At one meet he told his grapplers that they were simply using the old and established holds and offered trophies to the men who would introduce something different. One of his men won his match with a leg split and another with a key armlock, holds rarely seen in college wrestling.

Paul DeBruyn

PAUL DeBRUYN fails to repeat in the Olympic Marathon, as the representative of Germany, the victory he scored in the annual Boston race last week, it will not be due to any lack of confidence in himself. He is reported to be a second Joie Ray in that respect. The young German admits he is good at any distance from two miles to 26, and further, and just can't see how anybody is going to keep him from winning any time he starts. But at that, his cock-sureness is not offensive. It is simply a sincere belief in himself, and you've got to hand it to him for the reason that he follows it up with the proof. He doesn't merely predict what he is going to do, but goes right out and does it. DeBruyn is being hailed as a refreshing addition to the sports lists, a colorful youth in a day of distance running when the average run of athlete has become just a track machine.

MAY 23 SET FOR CHAMP'S LOCAL DEBUT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion of the world, will open the Meyers Bowl outdoor boxing arena in North Braddock on May 23.

Announcement to this effect was made today by Promoter Apples Meyers after receiving word from his new matchmaker, Lew Raymond, of New York, who will be here tomorrow to take up his residence with a view to making his home permanently in Pittsburgh. Meyers spent most of last week conferring with Raymond in New York. Lew succeeds Jules Beck, who has been matchmaker at the Bowl ever since it was opened several years ago and during the indoor seasons has been serving at Motor Square Garden and the Moose Temple in a similar capacity. Beck likely will promote shows at Greenlee Field this summer.

Tony Canzoneri

BOUT A "NATURAL"

Canzoneri's opponent in a non-title match will be Battling Gizzy of Donora. The weight will be just beyond the lightweight limit of 135 pounds. The bout is a "natural" in that the more or less unorthodox Gizzy has been bowling along in great style, surprising the fans with his victories over better grade opponents and causing them to express a desire to see him pitted against the best in his class. It was a foregone conclusion that he would be matched with Canzoneri, Tony Herrera or some other ranking opponent early in the outdoor campaign.

Before meeting Canzoneri, Gizzy will have to dispose of a prior contract to fight for the Kapphan Arena, where he was scheduled to box Jackie Cohen, of New York, two weeks ago, but canceled on account of illness. Promoter Kapphan announced today that he is trying to sign Charley Baxter as his opponent for May 14. Bill Dummer, by the way, is back as matchmaker at the Arena, succeeding Apples Meyers, who succeeded him.

RAYMOND TOUTED

Raymond comes here highly touted as a matchmaker, with fine connections which should enable him to bring the best boxers in the game to the Bowl. If his landing of Canzoneri, who never has shown here and seldom fights outside of New York and Chicago, is a criterion, he may be depended upon to deliver some choice goods during the season about to get under way.

Two professional and two amateur boxing shows are lined up for the local fans this week.

The pros disport themselves in the Moose Temple on Wednesday and Saturday nights, and the amateurs at the Pittsburgh Lyceum on Thursday and the East Pittsburgh Cafeteria on Friday. The latter show is a program under the auspices of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company Clerks' Association. The Lyceum show will see seven Lyceum stars in action against boxers from other amateur clubs.

BELMONT AT MOOSE

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, boxes Davy Grove, of the North Side, in the windup at the Moose. The Kapphan card consists of a series of six-round bouts at popular prices with a number of the best known local boxers participating.

Tony Dattola and Tiger Walker, of Wheeling, want to break into the Pittsburgh territory against any of our lightweight boxers.

Title Fight Scale For Million 'Gate'

NEW YORK, April 25.—(INS.)—Tickets for the Jack Sharkey-Max Schmeling fight here in June have been priced to net a million dollars, according to Madison Square Garden announcement today.

The 85,000 seats in the new Long Island Stadium will sell at $20 plus $2 tax, $15 plus $2.25 tax, $10 plus $1.50 tax, $5 plus 75 cents tax and $3 plus 45 cents tax.

Tickets will go on sale the first week in May.

Caddies Refuse Pay Cut, Tips Ban, Strike

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—(AP.)—Golfers toted their own bags or went home without playing, while 200 caddies of the exclusive Philmont Country Club struck yesterday in protest against an order forbidding tips.

ATHENS, O., April 25.—(AP.)—Golfers are lugging their own clubs at the Athens Country Club. The caddies, most of them sons of striking coal miners, walked out Saturday rather than accept a reduction in pay.

BUCS' BATTLE WITH CUBS POSTPONED

CHICAGO, April 25.—A continuation of the cold weather which held the attendance down to 6,000 yesterday resulted in the postponement of the Pirates-Cubs game scheduled here today. The Cubs beat the Bucs in yesterday's series opener, 12-3.

Steve Swetonic, of the Corsairs, and Pat Malone, of the Bruins, who were to have opposed each other on the slab this afternoon, probably will carry the mound burden tomorrow.

The Cubs today announced that Ed Baecht, young pitcher, had been released to the Los Angeles club, of the Pacific Coast League, under option.

CUYLER BREAKS FOOT

Yesterday's victory was very expensive for the Cubs. Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, star center fielder, injured his foot while going after a fly from Pie Traynor's bat in the second inning. Dr. John Davis, club physician, today said that a bone had been broken in Kiki's left foot, and that he would be lost to the Bruins for four weeks. Johnny Moore is to sub for the injured star.

The principal victim of the Chicago advance in the opening game of the series was Glenn Spencer, a swift-ball lad, who last season gave the Bears all kinds of trouble. Glenn was wild and ineffective; he was solved for 16 hits and he passed six of the enemy hitters.

Charley Root, another speed-ball flipper, yet a fellow who often finds the Buccos hard to stop, held the Pittsburghers to seven hits. Root and Spencer worked the entire battle.

The home batters moved to put the game on the ice at the very outset. Recruit Hack blasted off the Cub attack with a single. Traynor made a circus stop of the ball, but threw wild to first and the rookie reached second. Hack advanced on Herman's fly and scored on a single by Cuyler. Barton fouled out but Stephenson doubled to score Cuyler. Hartnett followed with a single that tallied Stevie.

PIET'S HIT TIMELY

Moore, who had replaced Cuyler, nicked Spencer for a single in the third. Stephenson's second double gave Moore a passport to the plate.

The Buccos broke into the scoring column in the fourth by registering a brace of runs. Traynor and Suhr singled with one out, the Pirate captain taking second on Gus' hit. Tony Piet came through with a hit that scored Pie and sent Gus all the way to third. Root took Thevenow's bounder and tried to nail Suhr at the plate, but Gus beat the play.

Spencer lost his control in the fifth as he passed Moore, Barton and Stephenson in succession. Glenn whiffed Hartnett with the bases jammed, but Grimm reached him for a single to score two Cubs. Jurges came through with a double to score the third run of the round.

WANER ACT REGISTERS

The Waner boys hooked up a pair of pretty doubles to give the Pirates a run in the seventh after two were out. Stephenson got the run back for his team after leading off with his third double. With the next two batters removed, Jurges singled to score Riggs.

The Cubs batted around in the eighth as they made four runs. Herman singled with one out and Moore belted a four-sacker to right. Baron walked and advanced on a wild pitch. Stephenson was out, but Hartnett drew a pass. Grimm singled to score Barton and Jurges rang up another double to register Hartnett.

Cards May Lose Martin for Fortnight

CINCINNATI, April 25.—(AP.)—It appeared likely today that the St. Louis Cardinals might be without the services of Pepper Martin for about two weeks due to an injury received in the game with the Cincinnati Reds here yesterday.

The Cards' center fielder collided with Heath, Reds' first baseman on a run to first. His injury at first was believed not to be serious, but a physician was summoned and it was discovered he had a wrenched shoulder.

A physician said it might be two weeks before he could play again.

JUNIOR SOCCER TEAMS TIE

By TOM BIRKS

The two finalists in the Western Pennsylvania Junior Cup competition lived to fight another day. After 90 minutes of hard battling for the title, Heidelberg and Shannon Juniors retired with a screless tie at South Park yesterday afternoon.

It was the old story of two powerful defenses outmarting hard plugging lines. The forwards were unable to get within scoring distance of the goals. Nothing in the line of sensational soccer marked the course of the game, but the large crowd watched two classy junior outfits shooting the works trying for goals.

The replay will be staged next Saturday afternoon on a field to be agreed upon.

The Referees' Association will hold its annual banquet Saturday night at the Hotel Henry. One week from next Sunday the final round of the National Amateur Cup will be played at Cleveland, featuring the Cleveland Shamrocks and the Santa Christi team of New Bedford, Mass. Shamrocks and the Santa Christi eleven of New Bedford, Mass. Yesterday's lineup:

MISSIONS GET KOENIG

DETROIT, April 25.—(AP.)—Mark Koenig, veteran shortstop, who batted and fielding sensation whose release by Toronto of the International League was announced last week, will go to the Missions of the Pacific Coast League, it was announced today by the Tigers' management. Koenig signed a contract with Detroit in 1930 and was released outright to the Toronto club in 1931. He batted .311 for Toronto last season.

INDIANS GET BILL CISSELL

CLEVELAND, April 25.—(AP.)—Announcement has been made by the management of the Cleveland Indians of a trade with the Chicago White Sox that brings Chalmer (Bill) Cissell, the $123,000 shortstop, and Jim Moore, right-handed pitcher, to the Indians.

In return, the White Sox get Johnny Hodapp, veteran second baseman, and Bob Seeds, a young outfielder with plenty of promise.

Cleveland now owns two of the highest priced minor league stars in baseball—Cissell and Kamm, both originally with the Sox. Kamm cost Chicago $75,000 in 1923, while Cissell brought an even higher figure five years later.

Moore is expected to be turned over to Toledo of the American Association, Cleveland farm, but Cissell with report in St. Louis tomorrow to don an Indian uniform.

Jockey, in Hospital, To Ride in Derby

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(U.R.)—Raymond (Sonny) Workman, crack contract rider for C. V. Whitney, who is confined in emergency hospital here, will be able to ride in the Kentucky Derby.

Workman was operated on for hernia last Friday. Dr. M. J. Herschman, who performed the operation, declared Workman would be out and ready to ride shortly.

World Shot Put Record Is Broken

PRAGUE, April 25.—(AP.)—Franz Dolda, of the Sport Club Slavia, established what was announced as a new world record for the shot put today—a distance of 16.05 meters (about 54.44 feet).

This qualifies Dolda to participate in the Olympic Games at Los Angeles. The former world record was established by Emil Hirschfeld in 1928. It was 15.87 meters.

NATS FLASH NEW SLAB STAR IN WEAVER

BRAVES ANNEX SIXTH VICTORY IN A ROW

Associated Press.

Walter Johnson can discover no sound reason for embarrassment over his prediction early this spring that Monte Weaver would win plenty of ball games for the Washington Senators. He already owns three consecutive victories, two over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Starting with a four-hit shutout over the Boston Red Sox and Horace Lisenbee, Weaver beat the A's and Rube Walberg, 7-4, last week, although he failed to finish that game.

Yesterday, Johnson sent him against the A's again. This time the young right hander went the route, held the A's to seven scattered hits while Washington hit George Earnshaw and Joe Bowman for 14 safeties, and won, 8-2. Carl Reynolds drove in four Senator runs.

TIGERS HOLD LEAD

Detroit's amazing Tigers managed to keep a half game ahead of the Senators for the American League lead by scoring eight runs in the last two innings to conquer the Chicago White Sox, 10-9.

George Pipgras pitched the New York Yankees to an easy 9-2 verdict over the Boston Red Sox. Pipgras struck out an even dozen.

Earl Averill, Cleveland outfielder, came out of a batting slump to drive in seven runs with two home runs and a double as the Indians walloped the St. Louis Browns, 14-3.

In the National League, the pace-setting Boston Braves won their sixth consecutive game, nosing out the Phillies, 2-1, in a tight pitchers' duel between Ed Brandt and Ray Benge. The Braves won out in the sixth on Spohrer's single, a walk, a sacrifice and another single by Red Worthington, accounting for both runs.

The Cubs, close behind the Braves in the standings, unleashed a 16-hit barrage that buried the Pittsburgh Pirates, 12-3.

HUBBELL TAMES ROBINS

Behind Carl Hubbell's five-hit pitching, the New York Giants easily trounced Brooklyn, 7-2.

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals turned back Cincinnati, 8-3. Flint Rhem held the Reds to three hits until the eighth when they bunched four singles and an error for all their runs. Chick Hafey, making his first start in the Cincinnati outfield, collected three singles against his former teammates.

Peden, Audy Team Wins Montreal Grind

MONTREAL, Quebec, April 25.—(AP.)—William (Torchy) Peden, of Victoria, B. C., and Jules Audy, of Montreal, won Montreal's six-day bicycle race Saturday night.

Alfred Letourner, of France, and Henri Lepage, of Montreal, finished second, a lap behind the winners. Reggie Fielding, of Toronto, and Saveer van Slambrouch, of Belgium, were third, and Reggie McNamara and Harry Horan, of Newark, fourth. The final standing:

Grays Hit Timely To Beat Generals

CLARKSBURG, April 25.—The Homestead Grays hit at opportune moments here yesterday to defeat the Clarksburg Generals of the Middle Atlantic League, in an exhibition game, 7 to 3.

The Grays were outhit, 13 to 9.

Fishing Notes

The proposal by Congress to make more than a 10 per cent reduction for the Bureau of Fisheries will seriously cripple fish propagation and conservation in this country for many years, according to sportsmen, who credit the bureau with the fact that game fish today are so plentiful in streams throughout the country.

Twenty-one states still are without legislation affording adequate protection to black bass.

At St. Marys, Pa., the Izaak Walton chapter has constructed four rearing ponds which are producing 500,000 cutthroat and rainbow trout annually.

George Washington had an old slave called Father Jack, whose task it was to exercise the horse with fish which he would catch in the Potomac from a canoe.

Jack Lamb, writer of Fort Worth, had fished in all sections of the United States and is said by actual count to have landed more than 12,000 black bass. He is a wizard at casting.

Incomplete returns on a survey now being made, with only half the state fish commissioners reporting to date, indicate that 1,616,835,000 fish were stocked by state authorities last year.

The state game commissioner of Oregon has inaugurated a scientific study of all the streams and lakes in the state, with a view to a more comprehensive trout propagation and distribution program.

Grads of Syracuse University have gone in for fishing. Miss Ethel Vollering, of Buffalo, and Miss Helen Crane, of Hamilton, N. Y., were among those who braved the rain on the opening of the trout season.

President Hoover was the recipient of a salmon weighing 16½ pounds, caught near Bangor, Me., by Robert B. Blair, of Orrington, Me. Being the first caught this season, it was sent to the President, in accordance with established custom.

Fishing is a year-round sport, whether you fish much or not. You can cram into a week enough memories to last for months, memories of the fish you landed and the fish you didn't, memories of the lures you tied and the lures you lost. Then there's always the fish you're going to catch. those are fish for Dr. Walter A. Jessup, President, University of Iowa.

Pittsburgh will be host to the scientific angling who will meet in August to determine the champions of the various casting events. These meetings usually are attended by hundreds of expert casters. Last year's meeting was in Chicago. Washington, D. C., is being considered for the 1932 meet.

Washington's casting club, sponsored by the local chapter of the Izaak Walton League, has issued a challenge to the Baltimore casters to meet in 15 different casting events.

It's all right, Dad, but not that angling is an art.—Izaak Walton.

Using a rod to weighing two ounces and a small fly equipped with six-pound test line, Wood, 12, of Fairmont, W. Va., caught and landed a 41-pound sailfish after a battle lasting 41 minutes at Miami.

VIOLET BODER, 18 . . . TRAINING DAILY FOR THE OLYMPICS

Athlete Captures 9 Medals, 12 Ribbons

With a track record of 50 yards in 6 seconds, Violet Boder, 18, senior at Turtle Creek High School, is earnestly training every day to win a tryout for the Olympic games in Los Angeles this summer.

She weighs 95 pounds and has won nine medals and 12 ribbons in competition.

Violet has been establishing records ever since she was in grade school. Five years ago she se the 40-yard record for Allegheny County, when she was in the eighth grade. Besides holding the 50-yard high school record for the last three years, she has been running in the anchor position on the Turtle Creek girls' championship relay team.

WESTERN HORSE DERBY HOPE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 25.—(AP.)—Gallant Sir is now the standout "dark horse" in the prospective 1932 Kentucky Derby field. Norman W. Church's eligible has attracted considerable following since he arrived from the Far West, after a successful campaign at the Tanforan track.

The long trip to Louisville had slight effect on this sturdy son of Sir Gallahad III, which sired Gallant Fox, victor in the 1930 derby. Gallant Sir has not been breezed as yet, but has been put through long gallops at Churchill Downs to shake the kinks out of his muscles.

The railbirds have been most impressed by Gallant Sir's size. "Almost as big as Phar Lap is the way they put it, referring to the giant Australian thoroughbred which died recently after winning the Agua Caliente handicap.

Gallant Sir has replaced as "chief dark horse" another Sir Gallahan III colt, Liberty Limited. "The Limited" has moved up among the favorites by virtue of brilliatnt workouts at the Downs, and his winter book odds have dropped from 100 to 1 to 8 to 1. Gallant Sir is held at 20 to 1 in the future books at present.

Lloyd Waner Passes 1,000 Mark in Hits

Lloyd Waner today boasts a total of 1,003 for his short career in the major leagues as a member of the Pittsburgh Pirates. The younger Waner passed the 1,000 mark in Saturday's game with the Cards when he singled. Later in the game he added a triple and in yesterday's contest with the Cubs in Chicago he pounded out two more safeties.

The Pirate centerfielder is now in his sixth season with the club, although the total of basehits represents only four and one-half seasons of actual play.

DISTRICT NET MATCHES OFF

By PAUL SULLIVAN

Rain interfered with the scholastic and collegiate tennis program for today. Matches carded for this afternoon in the Interscholastic Tennis Conference, involving many Pittsburgh district high and prep schools, were postponed as a result of the downpour, as was the battle between Geneva and Bethany at Beaver Falls.

Despite today's postponements, the week will provide a great deal of tennis activity. The Carnegie Tech netmen will make their debut Wednesday when they meet the Duquesne racqueters on the Bluff. Duquesne will be host to Geneva's tennis array on Friday.

Coach B. P. Hoover, of the Skibos, aims to lead a uniformly capable contingent to skirmish with the Red and Blue. Capt. Mel Morris, Stuart Dueger, Groves Berghane, Gealing and Fergus remain of the 1931 array, while the erstwhile West Penn junior luminaries, Rufus Hartig and Bill Corshenhausen, appear to be promising timber shipped up from last year's Plebe delegation. The Dukes suffered a whitewashing at the hands of Pitt last Saturday.

Interscholastic Conference aspirants will see city and county sectional races take form before May cases in next Sunday. Mount Lebanon, Taylor Allderdice and Arnold School scintillated most impressively in the lid-lift bracket last Thursday. The Conference card for Thursday:

City Section I.—Peabody at Allderdice; Schenley at Westinghouse.
City Section II.—Perry at Oliver; Carrick at Langley.
County Section I.—Shady Side Academy at University School; Arnold School at Mt. Lebanon.
County Section II.—Wilkinsburg at Aspinwall; Turtle Creek at Munhall.
County Section III.—Crafton at Ben Avon; Bellevue at Sewickley.

DARK AGNES WINS

PARIS, April 25.—(AP.)—Dark Agnes, owned by Andrew Schmidt, took the feature Societe Quatrieme Prix, test for 3-year-olds at a mile and three quarters at Longchamps yesterday. Baron D. Uxle was second and Shikari third.

VOTEL TENPIN CASH WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Harry Votel, sponsor of the ninth annual Votel tenpin tournament, which came to a close in East Pittsburgh Saturday, today announced prize winners. Most of the honors went to out-of-town bowlers.

Palmer and Shannenberger, of Akron, and Nolte and Kindelberger, of Wheeling, tied for the doubles prize with 1303 and they divided first and second money.

B. Cole, of Akron, carried off the high singles score with 711, and the all-events with 1373. The winners follow:

Doubles—Palmer and Shannenberger, Akron, O., 1303, $39; Nolte and Kindelberger, Wheeling, W. Va., 1303, $39; B. Cole and Summa, Canton, O., 1269, $25; Hickman and Cramer, Akron, 1248, $20; Clark and Forsythe, Akron, 1221, $15; Chappin and Shirley, Canton, 1218, $13; Arner and Schumacher, East Pittsburgh, 1207, $10; Rausch and Lachner, South Side, 1191, $8; Frank and Meyers, East Pittsburgh, 1188, $6; Marko and Swartz, Greensburg, 1181, $5.

Singles—B. Cole, Akron, 711, $30; L. A. Muck, Braddock, 682, $23; Matlado, Jamora, 680, $18; Antle, Jr., Woods Run, 667, $15; Schoenland, Wheeling, 657, $12; Bennett, East Pittsburgh, 652, $10; Graveile, East Pittsburgh, 646, $8; A. Groll, South Side, 641, $6; Guest, East Pittsburgh, 641, $6; Marrone, P. A., 638, $5.

All events—B. Cole, Akron, 1373, $5.

High single game out of money—R. Gallagher, East Pittsburgh, 267, $5.

Yale Crews Show Signs of Comeback

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—After one disastrous season, Yale's oarsmen apparently are ready to resume their customary position at, or close to, the top of college rowing.

Ed Leader unveiled Yale's 1932 fleet at Derby, Conn., Saturday and the Bulldogs responded by making a clean sweep of three races with Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The varsity, which failed to achieve a single victory last year, won easily by nearly inree lengths; the junior varsity by two and a half, and the varsity lightweights by four and a half.

Germans Announce Davis Cup Lineup

BERLIN, April 25.—(AP.)—The German Tennis Association has selected Daniel Prenn, Gottfried Von Cramm, Walter Dessart and E. Nourney for the Davis Cup matches against India, beginning May 7 at Berlin.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

Nick Altrock

NEW YORK, April 25.—Folks, you got to give our Washington club credit. They are playing like they were afraid the U. S. Senate would investigate them if they went below .500 in the league standing.

It is true the experts went into a trance and couldn't see us finishing higher than third place. But back in 1914 the experts predicted France, Italy, England and the Boston Braves would land in the second division, too. I have got so I don't pay any attention to what figure-jugglers tell me, including meter readers and clerks in the overdraft department.

HANDBALL ACES RECORD WINS

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.)—Led by George Nelson, of Baltimore; Sam Acheson, of Memphis, Tenn., and Herman Dworman, of Detroit, favorites, easily advanced through the first round of play in the national senior singles handball championship tourney at the New York A. C. yesterday. First round play will continue today.

Nelson, one of the strongest favorites for the title Al Banuet, of San Francisco, is letting go by default, defeated Oscar Prescott, of New York, 21-7, 21-6.

Atcheson defeated R. Fraser, of New York, 21-5, 21-9 and Dworman eliminated George Riley, of New York, 21-3, 21-9. Other results follow:

YALE MENTOR RETIRED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 25.—(AP.)—Retirement of Dr. William G. Anderson as director of the gymnasium, a post he had held since 1905, has been announced by Yale University, in connection with plans for the operation of the new $4,000,000 Payne Whitney gymnasium.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Howard Mayberry, of the East End, is gradually becoming a wrestling bug in spite of himself . . . He won't admit it, and says he gave up his customary front row seat at the Jim Londos show at Motor Square Garden to hide in the crowd and had to be awakened when it was all over . . . But he remembers every move the grapplers made, and he's reading out-of-town papers for stories of wrestling matches there . . . Tush, tush, Howard, old thing, you're softening up . . . And you the uncle of Howard Mayberry, the former boxer, who is now raising prize fowl up Donora way! . . . The East End Mayberry's customary farewell crack, by the way, is: "So long, I'll be sueing you soon!" . . . And he's one of the best "ribbers" in this man's town.

Luke Carney, veteran manager of boxers, is plenty ailing these days, having just undergone two operations and lost a lot of flesh . . . You may not know it, but the national amateur boxing championships, which will be fought again in New York's Madison Square Garden, May 4, 5 and 6, date all of the way back to 1888 . . . The late Billy Rocap, afterward famous as a boxing writer and referee, was one of the original champions, winning the bantamweight title the first year . . . Pittsburgh champions include J. Salmon, Eddie Horen and M. Lewis, 1895; G. W. Owens, 1897; J. Brown, 1891; Jack Burke, 1920; Johnny Hamm, 1921; Terry McManus and Boo Ryan, 1922; Homer Robertson and Harry Fay, 1923; Ed Greathouse, 1924, and Lawrence Lyons and Joey Katkish, 1926.

The Masked Marvel who has been wrestling around Boston, has been revealed as none other than Milo Steinborn, the German strongman . . . The heavyweight champion signs his full name as Maximilian Adolphe Otto Seigfried Schmeling . . . Gino Garibaldi, the wrestler, started out as a boxer, but switched to the mat while waiting for a broken hand to mend and liked the new sport and stuck to it . . . Now he's one of the topnotchers . . . Guy Salerno, Jack Perry's middleweight boxer, who has returned to California for a visit, says he took more punishment playing high school football than he ever has in the ring, and that he never met a weaving, bobbing boxer until he came East . . . Out on the Coast, he says, they stand straight up and jab.

No Winter Book favorite in the Kentucky Derby has finished outside the money in the last seven years . . . Four of them, Twenty Grand, last year; Gallant Fox, in 1930; Reigh Count, in 1928, and Bubbling Over, in 1926, have won; two, Osmond, in 1927, and Capt. Hal, in 1925, have run second, and Blue Larkspur, in 1929, finished third . . . Top Flight, Tick On and Burning Blaze, are one-two-three choices in this year's renewal, Saturday of next week . . . This will be the fifty-eighth running of the classic, and it has been won only once by a filly. That was in 1915, when Regret was the winner . . . Top Flight is a filly, which fact is steering a flock of hunch players off her, although this star was the 2-year-old champion of last year—HARRY KECK.

GOLF TOURNEY BRINGS $800 FOR CHARITY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Golfers of this district whacked out some creditable scores and posted approximately $800 for the Family-Help-Family fund in the benefit tournament staged at and by the Edgewood Country Club Saturday and yesterday.

Paul (Toots) Erath, Edgewood pro, announced that 235 golfers played on Saturday, with 350 competing yesterday. The golfers paid in $600, with the women's bridge party of Saturday adding $200 more. Many players made other contributions beside the $1 playing fee, which raised the total.

THUNHURST VICTOR

W. L. Thunhurst, an Edgewood member, topped the field in the sweepstake competition, scoring 77-5—72, and T. W. Martin, of Kiski, led the second division with 81-14—67. In the thrid flight, F. M. Schrack, of South Hills, posted a 102-28—74 to take the lead.

J. A. Briggs, a druggist, one of the army of linksmen who played in the Edgewood tourney, scored a hole in 1 when he sank his tee shot on the 138-yard No. 14.

The club sweepstake event, held in conjunction with the benefit tourney, was won by F. B. Boyd, who scored a 78-7—71 to lead the top flight. G. H. Dieke led the second division with 99-29—70.

Prizes for birdies and pars contributed by Edgewood members were won by the following:

E. W. Patterson, birdie on No. 1; A. T. Alexander, birdie on Nos. 6 and 16; J. M. Schrack, birdie on No. 15; Robert Johnston, par on No. 2; V. J. Martin, par on No. 18; W. H. Boechert, pars on Nos. 7 and 14; W. F. Phillips, par on No. 2 and birdie on No. 16; Joe Pugh, par on Nos. 2 and 18; J. Z. Mase, par on No. 6; S. J. Radcliffe, par on No. 2; H. F. Miller, Jr., birdies on Nos. 1, 5, 13 (twice), 16, and par on No. 18; F. W. Schrimer, birdies on Nos. 13 and 15; L. D. Craft, birdie on No. 15 and par on No. 14; E. Hartsell, birdie on No. 15; S. Irwin, birdie on No. 15 and par on No. 2; L. D. Craft, par on No. 18; H. W. Hochberg, birdie on No. 16; I. S. Hammel, par on No. 14; Alex Shatchuk, birdie on No. 15 and pars on Nos. 2 and 6; W. F. Lutz, par on No. 2; Stephen Barovich, par on No. 18; C. W. Harding, par on No. 6; E. A. Eisenbeis, birdie on No. 13; W. L. Thunhurst, birdies on Nos. 15, 16 (twice), and par on No. 2; F. M. Irwin, birdie on No. 16; C. C. Gardner, birdie on No. 16 and par on No. 2; F. L. Walton, birdie on No. 1 and par on No. 2; J. W. Damaree, birdie on No. 15.

Kiski Prep plays McKeesport at the Youngiogheny Country Club in a Section II Interscholastic Golf Conference match today.

FULL CARD TOMORROW

Tomorrow, in the same school group, Arnold plays Wilkinsburg at the Edgewood Country Club, and Sewickley visits Allderdice, at Schenley Park, in Section I, while in the Section II, Oliver opposes Carrick, at the South Hills Country Club, and Peabody encounters Bellevue, at Shannopin.

The Hotel, Club and Restaurant Men's Golf Association inaugurates what it intends to be a big season tomorrow at 3 o'clock at the Stanton Heights Golf Club.

Duquesne University plays Kiski on the latter's course tomorrow. Women of the Highland Country Club hold their opening luncheon and tourney as well. The annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Country Club is to be held tomorrow night.

State Men Qualify In Rifle Team Match

ELIZABETHTOWN, Pa., April 25.—(AP.)—Eight Pennsylvanians qualified in semi-finals for the elimination matches which will determine United States representatives to the Bisley rifle shoot at Buley, England, in July.

Approximately 150 riflemen from the eastern section of the United States fired yesterday and Saturday in competition for places on the team. Scores of at least 770 out of a possible 800 points on the 50 and 100-yard ranges at the Elizabethtown Rifle Club, authorized for the sectional semi-finals, to be held shortly at a place to be determined later, were necessary.

The eight qualifiers and their scores are:

Miles O. Noll, Lewisburg, 775; V. B. Hall, W. M. Hall and Charles Ferguson, all of Lewisburg, tied with 774 each.
Oscar Cooper, Elizabethtown, 773; P. Berkebiler, Lebanon, 772; P. Norman Beers, Carlisle, and Jacob Carpenter, Ephrata, tied with 771 each.

INGOMAR IN LEAGUE

Bears Chary About Selling More Stocks

—By B. C. FORBES—

Mr. Forbes

PAINLESS PARKER in the days when he was making a big splash as a dentist used to picture prominently in his advertisements a boy minus a front tooth, declaring: "It didn't hurt a bit."

Wall street gentlemen last week proved so much more nimble and adroit than their Washington probers that they could well say: "It didn't hurt a bit."

So far the probe has proved no probe whatsoever. It has been ridiculously superficial. The short-sellers have been permitted to paint themselves almost heroes. Percy Rockefeller's statements concerning the extent of his short selling and the insignificant amount of his short selling profit are amazingly different from what Wall street has understood right along.

Instead of digging into short selling data as of April 8, the committee should call for the figures when short selling reached its maximum. More names of more public interest doubtless would be thus uncovered.

If the Senate is in earnest it should employ as quizzer some lawyer thoroughly versed in all the quirks and wrinkles wrought by stock market manipulators.

IF ANYTHING CONSTRUCTIVE can be said to have come out of the farcical revelation it is the revelation that the big bears are no longer unanimously of the opinion that the market is not a "short sale."

The indications are that powerful bears have greatly reduced their commitments and that much of the recent short selling has come from lightweight amateur dabblers in the market.

Is it not possible that Matt Brush, having been wrong in 1929, may prove to be wrong now that he is heavily committed to the bear side?

ALTHOUGH STOCK AVERAGES again declined last week, bonds advanced. Everyone agrees that an upward movement in bonds should logically precede a sustained rise in stocks. Therefore the improvement in bonds may be significant. The market has made so many false starts, however, that dogmatic deductions are hardly drawable.

STRICTLY MONETARY developments continue to supply most encouragement.

With the Federal Reserve and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation pumping scores of millions of fresh money into banking and business channels each week, banks are beginning to find themselves overstocked with idle funds.

Although the official day-to-day rate is held at 2½ per cent, funds are obtainable substantially lower. When a return of less than 1 per cent is available on bankers acceptances up to 90 days, the prospect is that lending institutions will feel obliged to find more profitable uses for their excessive overflow. And, since desirable commercial paper is scarce, it will be natural for institutional funds to seek investment in bonds in reasonably safe trade channels. Moreover, pressure to liquidate existing loans should relax, especially as hoarding has ceased. Last month bank openings practically balanced the closings in volume of deposits affected.

President Dawes of the RFC feels justified in declaring emphatically that mass psychology concerning the nation's banks had undergone gratifying change.

IT IS REASONABLE that the fundamental transformation in our banking and monetary conditions should take some little time to bring marked betterment in business and prices, the more so in view of the continued uncertainty over tax legislation. The leaven in the financial lump cannot well fail, however, to spread in our whole economic lump, embracing trade, industry, securities, employment.

The Guaranty Trust Company of New York aptly observes:

"There is little basis for the belief that the long sustained upward trend in production and trade in this country has permanently reversed its direction or that the present levels of activities constitute a normal condition."

Just as the pendulum swung absurdly as in 1929, so has it now swung absurdly far in the other direction.

WHAT WE TODAY need most is more credit and more confidence.

STOCK MARKET TAKES TURN UPWARD

List Alternately Recedes And Advances in Dull Session; Steel Moves Up

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP.) — Although week-end business reports indicated some belated seasonable expansion, the stock market was a frail and listless affair at the start of the new week.

While selling was again of meager proportions, traders were cautious in view of the approach of tomorrow's meeting of the United States Steel directors. The list eased off a little at the start, stiffened for a time in the first hour, then sagged again until early afternoon, when the list again hardened. Losses of a point or so were generally regained, and several issues sold fractionally higher.

Appearance of support for Standard of N. J., a weak feature last week, evidently was a factor in the afternoon upturn. This issue converted a fractional loss into a gain of nearly a point. American Tobacco "B" converted a loss of a point into a gain of like extent. Losses of a point or so in American Telephone, U. S. Steel, American Can and Allied Chemical were converted into small gains. Santa Fe and Union Pacific also recovered, after sagging a point. Some of the food shares lost a point or so, including Borden and General Foods, but National Biscuit was firm, rising about a point.

While Wall street was well prepared for adverse news from the U. S. Steel meeting tomorrow, recognizing that the first quarter was unprofitable and that the 50-cent quarterly dividend may not be continued, traders were apparently anxious to have the news out of the way before extending their commitments. The week-end reports from the steel industry were a shade more cheerful. Steel estimated ingot output at 23 per cent of capacity, up 1 point, indicating that Ford Motor Company was now buying materials in greater volume. Reports from the automotive trade indicated that the recent improvement in sales was being maintained.

The new week found brokerage quarters slightly more cheerful, apparently reflecting in the main the gradual abatement of liquidation during the past week. While some quarters felt that dragging out of the Senate's investigation of the market might have an oppressive influence, some observers said a thorough airing of the business of market manipulation might go far toward eliminating harmful practices and eventually restoring investors' confidence.

WHEAT CLOSES FIRM, HIGHER

CHICAGO, April 25.—Dust storms in Kansas and word that 37 per cent of Nebraska wheat acreage was abandoned rallied the wheat market late today from transient declines.

Helping the rally was 3,672,000 bushels decrease in the United States wheat visible supply total.

Wheat closed firm, ¾-1¼c above Saturday's finish; corn, ⅛-¼c off to a shade advance; oats, unchanged to ¼c down, and provisions, unchanged to a rise of 2c.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

PESSIMISM FOG LESSENED BY STOCK QUIZ

Federal Reserve Purchases Of Bonds and Seasonal Trends Help Sentiment

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 25 — Spring seasonal influences and the beneficent gestures at Washington from governmental and central banking sources tended to lift the fog of pessimism somewhat last week.

On the whole governmental moves since the turn of the year, whether sound or not, have been more bullish than otherwise. The chief exception was in connection with the soak the rich tax revolt which for a time offset the sentimental value of the whole reconstruction program.

Mr. Rukeyser

But a fortnight ago the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, aided by Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, of Iowa, gave the stock market a rallying push in the surprise subpena to Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, in connection with the investigation of stock markets with special reference to short selling.

TESTIMONY HAS EFFECT

Toward the close of last week after Friday's sinking, Washington supplied new stimulus to the market in the form of the testimony by Percy A. Rockefeller to the effect that he has not been short of stock for the last five or six weeks. Now ordinarily these large operators do not make a practice of disclosing their position to the public. Following Friday's sharp break of the averages to new low levels, the market rallied slightly in Saturday's irregular session.

Perhaps some of the smaller fry bears decided to follow Rockefeller bears decided to follow Rockefeller, perhaps the public tip from this branch of the Rockefeller family would be even more profitable than the revelation in November, 1929, that his illustrious uncle and cousin were taking advantage of prices then prevailing to buy stock.

Stocks rallied very sharply from that Rockefeller buying level, but the upturn was temporary, and present prices are now far below the 1929 scare levels.

BOND BUYING HELPS

The other bolstering of sentiment came from the continued aggressive efforts of the Federal Reserve authorities to re-establish confidence and business equilibrium through open market purchases of government bonds which in effect tend to enlarge the supply of credit.

Following purchases of $100,000,000 of bonds the previous week, the system acquired $93,000,000 additional last week. Two-thirds of last week's increase was again used by member banks to get out of debt at the Federal Reserve, thus defeating the beneficial effect of the new policy on business and the bond market.

However, since it is figured that $200,000,000 is the irreducible minimum of member bank rediscounts on account of seasonal requirements in some districts the Federal Reserve by continuing its present policy for another month could get member banks virtually out of debt.

Thereafter additional credit pumped into the market would either result in excess reserves which would be non-income producing, or in member bank loans and investments, which incidentally have been dropping at a precipitous rate in the last half year, being the measure of the violence of unreasoning and uncontrolled deflation.

HALT IN DECLINE SEEN

Recent business statistics indicate a halt in the discouraging decline. A moderate pickup in automobile sales was reflected in a slight increase in orders placed with steel concerns.

Seasonal improvement in public works bettered the situation in the highly-depressed construction industry. Spring consumer buying was seemingly reflected in slight gains in merchandise freight car movements and in check payments. Business in general continued dull. Lack of a turnabout in the commodity price level tends to restrain business enthusiasm.

WALL STREET HEARS

That this week's car loadings report will show a larger than seasonal gain.

That automobile production rose about 2,000 units last week.

That Consolidated Gas of New York will declare the regular quarterly dividend at Thursday's meeting.

Greece Suspends Gold Standard

ATHENS, April 25—The Greek cabinet has decided that Greece will suspend the gold standard immediately.

Steel Expected To Retain Rate On Preferred

NEW YORK, April 25.—Although Wall Street experts that United States Steel's directors may omit the dividend on the common stock at tomorrow's meeting authoritative quarters assert that there will be no change in the $7 rate on the cumulative preferred issue. The preference shares assumed a more prominent position in the capital structure when the corporation late in 1929 retired its bonds.

METAL MARKET TONE WEAK

NEW YORK, April 25.—An advance in copper quotations of ¼-cent at the opening of last week as a result of recently improved export demand was followed by an immediate contraction of this buying and subsequently the price was lowered to the previous basis of 5¾ cents for Electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley. Domestic consumers remained out of the market awaiting tangible evidence of improvement in general business.

Tin advanced moderately during the week in anticipation of further reduction in world output. Steady buying of lead for May and June shipment continued at unchanged prices.

Zinc eased under moderate selling pressure owing to indifferent demand. A few sales were reported at the lower levels but large consumer inquiry failed to develop.

Antimony weakened, reflecting cheaper offerings from China and continued absence of buying interest which was confined to inquiry for a few carload lots under the market.

PENNA. COAL OUTPUT UP

WASHINGTON, April 25.—AP.—Pennsylvania's bituminous coal production increased while the nation's fell off during the week ended April 9, as compared to the previous week.

The Pennsylvania output for the week was 1,595,000 tons. It had accounted for 1,467,000 tons the previous week. The national production fell from 5,862,000 to 4,645,000 tons.

Suspensions in Midwestern states the Bureau of Mines finds caused at least part of the drop. The output for the week was slightly less than that of the corresponding week last year, when Pennsylvania mined 1,871,000 tons.

GARVIN NAMED NEW MANAGER

The Superior Auto Accessories Company announces the appointment of E. W. Garvin as manager of its Gibson electric refrigeration field in this district.

Mr. Garvin

Much public interest is being displayed in the new model Gibsons on view at Superior Autos show rooms. The Gibson firm was one of the first company's to enter the electric refrigeration field.

MURDER OF THE NIGHT CLUB LADY :-: :-: By ANTHONY ABBOT

CHAPTER XVI

It was here that at Thatcher Colt's request I turned over to Inspector Flynn the note of warning which Lola had shown us at Mayfair.

Flynn studied the message dubiously.

"Trace the manufacturers of the paper and ink—after that the retailers," instructed Colt, and Flynn nodded gravely.

"They sell this sort of cheap stuff all over town," he said, "but of course if we find a shop in this neighborhood—I'll get right to it."

Colt now called for Dr. Baldwin.

"Doctor," he began, "some remarks have led me to believe that you had some personal differences with Lola. Is that correct?"

The gray-haired and athletic physician looked only slightly taken aback.

"It is true," he admitted, "that we disagreed. But it was only because she did not like the treatments I recommended. For the last few weeks I have seen little of her."

Colt seemed hardly to hear. Dr. Baldwin's reply for the door of the front room had opened. Dr. Mulhooley, in his shirt-sleeves, stood in the doorway, waiting to give his report to the Commissioner.

EXAMINER REPORTS

With a glance that bade the Assistant Medical Examiner to wait, Colt turned abruptly back to Dr. Baldwin.

"Good-night," he said in a brittle voice. "I shall let you know when we shall be needing you. Please hold yourself in readiness."

"Willingly," returned Dr. Baldwin with a wraith glance at the Commissioner. In silence he took his leave. Still Colt did not turn to the Medical Examiner. Instead he spoke to Flynn.

"Shadow Baldwin, too," Colt advised. "No one else is to leave the house until the results of the autopsy are known. That goes for Lola's mother, the maid and the Chinaman. Keep them all here until you get word from me. Check up with the elevator

Lola's mother tumbled out of the room when the door opened

Colt, his voice deep with horror. "This body is soaking wet—through the clothes to the skin. Where in God's name has it been kept?"

* * *

It was Dorothy Lox who told us what had happened. Following the hypo given her by Dr. Baldwin, a daze had come mercifully over Mrs. Carewe. For about half an hour she slept peacefully in her own room. Then she woke up fretfully and insisted on going into her daughter's room. Miss Lox had agreed to this whim. The old woman had gone to the door, accompanied by Miss Lox. Together they had entered the room—and together made their frightful discovery of the body on the floor.

The next 10 minutes in that haunted pent-house were as full of action as a machine gun. Colt acted with the swift precision of an army man faced with a desperate emergency. The body of Christine Quires—after its position was chalked—was carried to the bed of Lola Carewe. The unconscious Mrs. Carewe was carried back to her own bed. From his office downstairs—where he had gone on being dismissed — Dr. Baldwin was at once recalled. Though shivering with horror himself he promptly pronounced Christine Quires dead.

"Of what?" demanded Colt.

Dr. Baldwin looked away as he replied.

"It seems to be heart trouble — but I again advise an autopsy."

It was like a nightmare in which the same horrible things were being done over and over again. But, thank God, there was not time for any of us to give way to the luxurious anguish of the emotions of horror. There was too much to be done. And even though our work consisted necessarily of repeated actions, they kept body and brain busy. Once again Dr. Baldwin was sent out of the drawing room, this time to minister to the still unconscious Mrs. Carewe. The whole police ritual of homicide had now to be repeated — from fingerprinting and photographing down to the grim work of the medical examiner. It was all undertaken and done in a spirit of grim, energetic dispatch.

Synopsis

Despite the police guard placed in her home by Commissioner Colt, Lola Carewe, suspected "higher-up" of a jewel thief ring, is mysteriously murdered. Dr. Hugh Baldwin gives heart failure as the cause of death. Those present at the time, besides Colt and his aides, were Lola's mother, Mrs. Carewe, the butler, maid, and Vincent Rowland, an attorney. Colt feels the young man whose photograph adorns Lola's dresser—and whose identity she refused to reveal beyond his first name, "Basil"—is connected with the mystery. At the mention of his name, Mrs. Carewe becomes hysterical, saying Basil was a cruel beast and Lola never loved him. Christine Quires, Lola's guest, cannot be located, though the elevator boy claims she returned around midnight with her escort, Guy Everett, and Colt found the bag she carried. Colt 'phones Everett's apartment after 3 a. m. and learn Everett has not arrived. A clue in the form of a small wooden box is picked up under Lola's window. Chung, the butler, reveals that Everett had threatened Lola and that Rowland, the lawyer, warned her she was playing a dangerous game and would be caught. Assistant Chief Inspector Flynn, in charge of the detective force, arrives. A thorough investigation is started. The maid states that both Lola and Christine were afraid of Guy Everett. Lola had induced him to make poor investments. And Eunice also adds that Dr. Baldwin told Lola his life would be ruined if Lola told what she knew. Guy Everett arrives. He claims he left Christine at the elevator at 12:15 and then went for a ride on the Motor Parkway, alone, returning home after 3. A card with Everett's phone number is found among the maid's effects. She confesses that he paid her to report the happenings in the apartment.

Now Go On

operator on everyone who came in and went out in the last four hours. Also check up in the morning with the day force downstairs in the lobby about the receipt of that death-threat letter."

When Flynn went out, Colt turned quickly to Mulhooley.

"Now, what is the verdict, Doc?" he queried eagerly.

"Mr. Commissioner," said the assistant medical examiner, "I feel positive this girl did not die from poison. Of course this is only a preliminary guess. But everything looks natural. If she took poison, she must have swallowed it, for there is not an open wound on her body—except the hypo puncture. But one thing I can tell you positively—there are no obvious indications of poison. You said something about a livid glow on her face—well, it's not there now."

SECOND DEATH

Colt's face was a profound study. He felt for the pipe that was not there, he was still in evening clothes.

"So the mystery deepens," he meditated aloud, and with a melancholy tone. "It is too bizzare a coincidence to be believed! No! She was certainly murdered. But how?"

As if in answer to that question, a scream rose suddenly from a distant part of the apartment—a woman's scream, shrill with fright. Again and again we heard it, as we followed Colt's rush across the floor. Unerringly he had located the dreadful sound—it came from Lola's boudoir.

But before Colt reached the door, it opened and the mother tumbled out. Her eyes were rolling. Her mouth was opened, but she could not utter a sound. She tottered toward us, then pitched and tumbled in an unconscious heap on the floor. After her rushed the faithful Dorothy Lox, who had been in the room with the old woman.

Colt was at the door, he looked in and his tanned face seemed drained of all blood and life. A look of incredulity and horror seemed to magnify the commissioner's somber eyes. We clustered behind the chief, seeing now for ourselves what had shocked him so.

On the floor lay the body of a woman. We did not need to be told that she was dead. We had seen these symptoms before—the rigid and twisted body, the tortured face, the fleck of foam and blood between the lips.

LOLA'S FRIEND

"Who is that woman?" muttered Dougherty.

"Her name is Christine Quires!"

That unexpected, answering voice came from behind us. We turned to see a yellow man in a green robe looking at us with a strange expression.

Chung had identified the victim!

"But look!" cried Thatcher

Dicky Awaits Madge's Verdict on Hugh Grantland

I was not prepared for the sudden pallor which I saw upon Dicky's face and the look resembling actual panic in his eyes as I asked him if he wanted me to tell him the truth about Hugh Grantland. But his voice was even calm as he said slowly:

"Yes, I do. I want it above everything else."

"It won't take very long," I said, smiling at him. "If I never had met you, I might remember. I say only might have met and cared for Hugh. I value his friendship above that of any other man, even Harry or Jack who should be nearer to me. But as for loving him, as for even being romantically attracted by him, no, no, my boy, you mustn't think that of me, for it isn't true. You are the only man in the world for me. There has never been any other. There never will be."

Dicky took the distance between us in one stride.

"My own blessed girl!" he whispered, "that's what I wanted to hear."

"Have you doubted it, Dicky?" and he laughed as he snuggled me closer.

"No, I really haven't," he answered. "I'm just that conceited. I know you love me, sweetheart. You must, to put up with all the crazy stunts I pull. But honestly, I'm not going to pull any more for a while. I'm a reformed chat-ac-ter. I am and even if Hugh and his Chinese crony do arrive in the offing, you'll see that the nightingale and the sucking dove will have nothing on me. They can't come any too quick for me either. If, as Harry thinks, Lee Chow can throw any light on this bally business, I'll fall on his yellow neck."

RESTLESS SLEEP

"I must beat it now," he said. "You ought to get directly to bed and I have to relieve old Harry early in the morning, so good-night and don't you dare dream of anybody but me!"

"As if I could," I said with a smile as he went out of the door.

But I was to prove the futility of prophecy for instead of my usual dreamless sleep, I tossed and turned for hours in what were virtual nightmares in which Dicky, Hugh, Lee Chow and the Chinese messenger trailed each other in grotesque and terrifying fashion across my consciousness. They were so vividly etched upon my brain that when Lillian came to my room at 5:30 as she had promised and touched me, I sprang up in bed and clutching her by the arm, said wildly:

"Did Hugh get it away from them?"

I ignored her raillery, so convinced was I that I had not been dreaming.

"I tell you Hugh went after the box. I saw him. The Chinese took it and Hugh said——"

REALISTIC DREAM

Her steady eyes, with a quizzical look in them, suddenly registered their meaning, and I laughed tremulously.

"Of course, I've been dreaming," I said, "but it was a most realistic dream, I can assure you."

"It must have been," Lillian commented with a grin. "How about it. Do you want to get up now? I could call you again at any hour you name, if you want a little more sleep."

"No, don't call me," I said hastily, for I knew that would mean her remaining awake when she might have another nap. "I'm going to have a cold shower and dress immediately. Then I'll get my breakfast."

"You mean I'll get it," she said firmly. "It isn't time for Katie to get up yet, and I'm wide awake. Not being one of the seven foolish virgins I filled my lamp with oil, literally my teakettle with water, and set it on the gas flame before I came up. I could recite your breakfast menu backwards if I had to. Frontwards, it's a cinch. Grapefruit juice, soft-boiled eggs, toast, coffee and a slice of melon at the end. Fortunately, that's an almost fool-proof menu. It would have to be if I had anything to do with it."

"Service in the buffet car as soon as you're ready," she said over her shoulder, and shut the door upon my protest, the first words I had had a chance to voice. With a rueful little smile I realized that she purposely had rattled on so that I would have no chance to object to her acting as cook and waitress for me.

I hurried through my shower and dressing was at the kitchen door in really record time.

"Aha! the visiting fireman!" Lillian gibed as she saw me.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Betty Niedhammer, 13 years old, living at 145 Mayflower street, and a student of the Westinghouse High School, is Grand Jester of the Camera-phone chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club.

Betty Niedhammer

Betty is one of the many children belonging to the Camera-phone chapter who have a perfect attendance record and is such a favorite with the youngsters of this chapter that they have elected her Grand Jester three times.

At Saturday's meeting your secretary had a long talk with Miss Niedhammer and here is some good advice that she wanted him to tell all the other members.

"Every week at the meeting I try to have something to tell the other children that will help them in their everyday life, and I always try to make them understand that the things they hear and the pictures that they see here, will not only give them a lot of pleasure and enjoyment but will be of great value to them when they grow older.

"One of the most important things that I tell them every week is that each one of them should bring along one new member every time he or she attends the meeting, and that they should always try and be there on time."

Betty is now taking dancing lessons so that she will be better able to entertain the youngsters of her club at the regular Saturday morning meetings. Betty's mother, who was at the meeting, said that since Betty has joined the Junior Komic Club that she can't get her to go downtown with her any more on Saturday mornings because she will not miss the meetings.

At the Harris downtown chapter Saturday the children were shown a special talking picture through the courtesy of the Pennsylvania Railroad. This picture, which is titled "The Broadway Limited," shows this train from the time it is made ready in the yards to receive the passengers until it reaches its final destination. The youngsters received many thrills from this picture.

At this theater also the boys and girls held their regular monthly election of officers. Those that were elected Saturday are: Joe Mowood, grand jester. He is very popular with the members of this club because this is the fifth time that he has been elected to this high office. Mary De Pietro, Henry Hannah, Davis Demestro, Theodore Michenza and Orlando Raimonda were all elected to the board of governors.

The Election Tomorrow

Public Utilities Regulation Is an Important Issue—
Judge Stadtfeld Deserves a Full Term

Policies which will profoundly affect life in Pennsylvania hinge on the outcome of the primary election tomorrow.

The people will nominate for the Legislature candidates who will be called upon to decide whether or not the public utilities are to be allowed to charge excessive rates or are to be more effectively regulated in the public interest, whether or not the Blue Law with its ban on innocent amusements on Sunday is to stay on the statute books or be abolished, and whether or not we are to continue to have a state prohibition law.

These are among the major issues, and alert citizens will know how candidates stand on these matters before voting for them. The Sun-Telegraph has stated the position of all the candidates who would disclose it. Those who chose to remain silent are not entitled to the voters' consideration.

Party candidates for the United States Senate, the House of Representatives, State Treasurer, Auditor General, Supreme and Superior Court judgeships are to be named.

None of these contests is of greater importance than that for the three places that are to be filled on the Superior Court bench. One of the candidates is Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of Allegheny County, who was appointed to the Superior Court by Gov. Pinchot last year to fill the vacancy created by Judge James B. Drew's elevation to the Supreme Court, and who now seeks to be elected for a full term.

Judge Stadtfeld deserves a full term, for he is one of the ablest men on the bench, as is attested by the thousands of attorneys who advocate his election.

Pennsylvanians will be doing themselves a good turn if they elect Judge Stadtfeld, and at the same time they will rebuke the Vare machine of Philadelphia, which, for selfish political reasons, seeks to supplant him. This notorious gang must be warned to keep hands off the judiciary.

Another of the candidates for the Superior Court is Judge William M. Parker, of Venango County. His fitness has been questioned.

Ralph E. Flinn, of Pittsburgh, seeks the Republican nomination for Auditor General. No doubt he will make a good showing.

The Sun-Telegraph is friendly to the progressive and liberal candidates, but is of the opinion that the welfare of the people will best be advanced by ignoring factional slates and voting for the candidates according to their individual merits and without regard to their having or not having running mates.

Gang rule is a misfortune, and the way to destroy it is to pay no attention to the bosses' orders, but vote independently.

Clean Up, Fix Up

Everyone Can Help in the Annual Campaign to Make Pittsburgh a More Attractive City.

The annual "Clean-Up, Paint-Up" campaign of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County started today. For two weeks an earnest concerted effort will be made to make this a more attractive community.

The public and parochial schools, the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations are co-operating, and you can co-operate, too. Of course it is desirable that you co-operate in a big way, but if that is out of the question do something, no matter how little, to help the good work along.

For the last three years Pittsburgh has won a loving cup as the Pennsylvania city that did most in the "Clean-Up, Paint-Up" campaign, and for two years it has taken second place in the nation, Chicago being first.

This distinction was attained, not through big cleaning and painting jobs, but through a multitude of little jobs. Last year 128,960 school children, co-operating in the campaign, did 430,420 cleaning-up jobs, 344,813 painting jobs and 495,543 jobs of planting trees, shrubs, hedges, vines and flowers.

This year 175,000 school children have enrolled for the campaign, and their efforts should be supplemented by yours and those of a million other residents of Allegheny County.

Besides cleaning, painting, planting and tidying up your premises generally, have repairs made wherever they are needed.

You will benefit, and the whole community will benefit, in many ways.

The War on Shysters

The Bar Association Gains Increased Respect by Its Campaign Against Ambulance Chasers.

As the culmination of a long investigation by the Allegheny County Bar Association of charges of unethical practices by attorneys, the Common Pleas Court has directed that disbarment proceedings be instituted against the accused.

This drastic procedure is to the credit of the court and of the Bar Association, since it demonstrates, as nothing else could, a firm determination to drive shysters and ambulance chasers from the profession.

The accused, if innocent, will, of course, be given every opportunity to prove their innocence. If they are guilty, disbarment is not too severe a punishment.

The Bar Association gains increased respect by this procedure.

'Shooting the Yellow'

To Proceed When the Traffic Light Shows Amber Is Against the Law as Well as Dangerous.

"Shooting the yellow," as slangy autoists call driving through an intersection when the traffic light shows amber, has become such a common practice that the state highway patrol has deemed it necessary to call attention to the law.

The vehicle code provides that when yellow is shown alone traffic facing the signal must stop before entering the intersection.

In Pittsburgh not only many impatient autoists but also some of the street car motormen are frequently guilty of "shooting the yellow." Since the practice is dangerous as well as unlawful the police should make an effort to stamp it out. A stern warning whenever a case of this sort is observed may be all that is necessary.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid Transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall seating at least 15,000.
6—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
7—Development of river transportation.
8—Development of air transportation.
9—Electrification of railroads.
10—Fair public utility rates.

The Only Peace Dove for the Key to the Pacific

Said Floyd Gibbons, war correspondent, in this and other Hearst newspapers on April 17:

"The Hawaiian Islands are America's first line of defense in the Pacific. They are more important to the United States than Gibraltar or Suez are to Great Britain, or Heligoland any use to Germany.

"In the event of our being involved in war in the Pacific the Hawaiian Islands are the very keystone of our defense and possibly our national existence.

"The islands are a fort, our most vital, most important fortification, and upon our retention and control of them depend the defense of our country and the peace of the Pacific and of the world.

"I believe that the only way to run that fort is for Congress to make it a military zone and put it under the administration of a naval or military commission, preferably the former."

What Eve Knew

A man's weakest moments are his gay moments, when he is feeling pleased with himself; a woman's weakest moments are her desperate moments, when she is feeling sorry for herself.

* * *

No matter how deeply a woman may miss her departed husband, she always retains enough interest in life to want her widow's weeds to be chic and becoming.

Love is an anaesthetic, which enables a bachelor to have his freedom removed without being conscious of it.

* * *

If Eve had been a modern girl, the Serpent would probably have begged her to give him a bite of the apple, so that he could know as much as SHE did.

* * *

Music may have charms to soothe the savage beast, but when a woman asks her husband to keep QUIET, so that she can hear the crooner on the radio, it only makes the beast more savage.

* * *

Never try to reason with a woman who's in love. Because a woman can be logical only when her head has stopped going round, and the star-dust no longer blinds her eyes to the truth.

In matters of love, most modern men have reduced their ignorance to a science and have made a positive art of getting tangled up with the wrong woman.

* * *

It takes all the love that you can feel or hold in order to weather marriage successfully; and it is not fair to short-change yourself or the other party, by marrying some innocent bystander just as an experiment.

* * *

A woman's hardest problem is to decide when to stop being 35—and begin her fortieth year.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 25.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Out to breakfast with Zoe Beckley, as engaging as she was in her sob sister days on Park Row, and to Vash Young's to settle another annuity for the twilight years. So to the circus to talk to John Ringling, Clyde Beatty, young Ohio lion tamer, and Alfreda Codona, of the flying trapeze. Home, where Bob Davis told of the time Irvin Cobb was offered $1,000 a week to play "Judge Priest" on Broadway. Working and later to Ward Morehouse's pied-a-terre and found him married to the lovely Jean Dalrymple. All mighty merry and I kissed the bride.

Dinner at Helen Menken's and Sidney Franklin, cinema director, there and Dr. Smith. Later to Clara Walsh's farewell party to John McCormack, the tenor. Mrs. Cobina Wright among those present. Also Dennis McSweeney and Tullio Carminati, who told how my dog and his used to play in Los Angeles' Lafayette Park.

No writer got so much enjoyment out of his own stuff as the late Harry C. Witwer. At a political convention several years ago, cyclonic roars came from Witwer's bedroom. Fellow scribes in an adjoining room decided they were missing a good yarn and burst in. They found Witwer alone—rocking with laughter. With a furious blush he confessed he had been reading over a comicality he had just prepared for the telegraph wires.

Recently I chronicled here the pathetic paralysis afflicting a beautiful setter owned by Rian James, Brooklyn columnist. He was told by expert diagnosticians nothing could be done and it would be mercy to end the dog's sufferings. But James could not bring himself to this conclusion. Instead, he made the dog comfortable, bestowed the affection so necessary to an animal in convalescense, and today the setter is perfectly well.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

As an employer how do you treat the men who apply for jobs?

You are harassed by scores of requests, that is true, and by their hard luck stories when you are worrying on account of your own financial affairs.

But even so, you are not yet suffering, while those who apply to you may be facing something of the sort.

It is hard enough to be turned down when seeking for a job, but it is doubly so when the refusal is gruff and unsympathetic.

It is at least your duty to be civil—even courteous in refusal.

The man who seeks work is doing what an honorable and self-respecting man must do before he will see his family suffer.

He wants to sell you his services, all that he has to sell, and the only means by which he can feed himself and his family.

He may be in no way blamable for his condition.

It is well enough for you to say that he should have provided against such a time.

But if you had his family you might have done worse than he.

It's likely he has not your ability to earn money—and for this you should not blame him.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Dusk falling in a violet veil through the tall cathedral windows.

Music stealing in a trembling tide through the cathedral aisles.

Tearfully they lift the little 5-year-old lad to light the lamp which is to burn forevermore in memory of his dead father.

Will James C. Rowe, traveling somewhere, far ahead, look back and see that light still burning in the land that he has left?

And if he does, will he not be seeing another light burning stronger and clearer—the light of his little son's life, carrying on his father's flame?

For that is the sacred mystery of human life. Each dead hand relinquishes a light. Each living hand carries it on.

What is that light?

It is the dream which burns in every human heart; which has put man apart from the beasts and brought him up out of the jungle.

The dream of honor, courage, constancy and love.

No man has ever lived up to the full measure of that dream, but each man cherishes it, deep in his blundering heart.

No matter how selfish, hard, silly or weak he may be, every man cherishes that dream. It is the holiest and proudest thing in his life. It is the thing which gives life its greatest dignity and purpose, and makes a man still have faith in himself even when all others despise him.

Every man lives with that dream in his heart—

Every man, dying, passes it on.

It is the one treasure which is really worth while, out of all our human struggling.

Money is not worth while. Land is not worth while. Power and place are not worth while. Even a fine old name is not worth while. All these things are desirable, but they will fail any man who puts his faith on them. All of them come to nothing, in the end.

The only thing that is lastingly worth while is that "perpetual flame" which the generations pass on, one to the other.

That flame is the important thing in each individual's life, and it is the hope of civilization. If that flame fails—and it sometimes does fail—the men who should have guarded it are doomed.

Each man at birth acquires the chance to live, but he also assumes an obligation. All that is noble and beautiful in the life which he is entering has been achieved for him by men now gone. They have left him that heritage and, with it, a trust—

The trust to preserve and perpetuate that nobility and beauty.

YOU, ENTERING LIFE, ASSUMED THAT OBLIGATION. HOW ARE YOU MEETING IT?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Strength

I would be strong, not with the crashing force
Of angry wind that beats a city down,
For gale or hurricane upon its course
Must swiftly leave each harried field and town,
And in its wake bleak desolation reigns,
The gaping wounds of harvests and of homes
Where storm has trod no lovely thing remains,
And only anguish like a pale ghost roams.

But I would have a slow and patient strength,
And as the sea takes up the shining sand,
Grain after grain, to build therewith at length
New silver isles as gifts from ocean's hand,
So I would build with constant grain on grain
My life in fitness for a soul's domain.

Text for Today

Borah Tells Them

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Iragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

It is fortunate that on the day Neville Chamberlain, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, was submitting his budget, providing for the payment of not a penny on the American debt, Senator Borah, speaking for the great majority in Congress and the greater part of the American people outside, should make it clear that if the Chancellor is counting on cancellation, or rather the transfer, of the debts, and another moratorium, he is leaning on a reed.

After Congress pointedly took its position, it is unfortunate that it is necessary to continue the discussion. But high-powered propaganda from Europe and certain financial interests here are in full progress. Day by day, the American advocates of the transfer of the debts of other nations to the American taxpayers are pounding away; pages are given to the publication of their speeches and statements. The purport of it all is that we cannot recover as long as Europe is "prostrate", and Europe cannot recover until the taxpayers of America agree to pay the debts of Europe.

The mere groundlings here rub their eyes in utter confusion. They note the conditions here—seven to ten million bread-winners out of work; business prostrate; the hugest deficit of any nation; the laying on of taxes to save the nation's credit that are bending the backs of our people to the breaking point. How can we play the good samaritan? they ask.

* * *

The Groundlings Rub Their Eyes in Amazement

They know that France is, in comparison, highly prosperous.

They find nothing alarming in the conditions in Italy.

They read that England has balanced her budget, and from the Chancellor these words:

"We have put our house in order; we have balanced our budget and ceased to borrow. The British financial year ended March 31, and the accounts show a surplus of revenue over expenditures of 365,000 pounds instead of the deficit of 70,000,000 threatened last September."

And they note the deficit here of more than $2,000,000,000; and hear from our statesmen the question, "Where can we find something more to tax?"

Then they read again the propaganda that we must pay not only the debt of England, France and Italy, but of eight other nations; that it is very selfish and vicious of us not to do it; and the groundlings rub their eyes in amazement.

* * *

And the Response From the Debtors!

We are now indebted to Borah for some facts and figures that are conspicuously absent from the propaganda articles, books and speeches of the advocates of the transfer of the European debts to American taxpayers.

Long ago, the administration entered upon a debt settlement which was generous on our part beyond anything ever known before. We took over more than 50 per cent of the debts of nations that borrowed money from us and used it for their own advantage.

Thus we cancelled more than 50 per cent of the Belgian debt; more than 50 per cent of the French debt; more than 75 per cent of the Italian debt; more than 69 per cent of the Jugoslavian debt; and to a less degree we slashed the debts of other nations.

And the response from the debtors? A denunciation of the American people as "Shylocks"! And the effect on economic conditions? None at all.

* * *

Borah Furnishes Some Startling Figures

We can subscribe to practically everything in Gov. Smith's speech at Washington except the 20-year moratorium and the crediting during those years to each nation on its debt of a certain proportion of its purchases from us. This is cancellation. It would not result in any increase in the purchases; for at the present figure in trade it would mean the wiping out of the debt. Borah gives us the figures based on the statistics of the last few years.

And, since we are given the impression by the propagandists that the making of the annual payments due us is wrecking the economic structure of Europe, Borah furnishes some startling figures that will make the groundlings rub their eyes again.

For the amount due us takes but 2.45 per cent of the Belgian budget.

And 3.75 per cent of the British budget.

And 1.41 per cent of the Italian budget.

And 2.65 per cent of the French budget.

It does seem strange to the groundling that such a meager part of the cost of government in these countries is "wrecking the economic structure of Europe."

And all the stranger, since none of the money we have collected from the debtors has been raised by the taxation of the people of their countries. It has all come from Germany.

* * *

Vast Armies Are Being Maintained

Since we are assured that payments of the debts due us, ranging from 3.75 per cent to 1.41 per cent of the budgets, is wrecking the economic structure of Europe, Borah's figures on the amounts spent last year on war preparations are illuminating.

Thus England has for this purpose $678,951,247 in her budget.

And France $517,910,816 in her budget.

And Italy $269,057,884 in her budget.

At the present time vast armies, greater than at the beginning of the World War, are being maintained. Thus:

France supports armed forces of 6,942,559.
Italy, 5,985,597.
Poland, 1,977,095.
Jugoslavia, 1,341,568, etc.

And the groundling wonders if all this has as much to do with "wrecking the economic structure of Europe" as from 3.75 per cent to 1.41 per cent of the budgets of the debtor nations, necessitated by the payments on the debts.

* * *

We Built a Chinese Wall

Nothing is doing as much to wreck the economic structure of the world today as the artificial tariff barriers against international trade; and no one is so much responsible for that as the United States. Here is where our "selfishness" comes in; and it is not the selfishness of the American people, but of a highly organized and subsidized meager minority that had more influence with the administration when the Grundy act was pending than the great majority of the people.

We built a Chinese wall—on the theory that we could continue to sell while refusing to buy; and enter the markets of other nations while refusing them admission to ours; that we could eat our cake and have it, too. We know better now. We invited the retaliation that has come—and is ruining American trade, and turning New York harbor into a lonesome place. We set a fashion that is wrecking the economic structure of the world.

The other day the automobile manufacturers appeared in Washington to protest against the proposed tax on their industry; when the Grundy bill was pending the head of practically every automobile manufacturing company in America protested against it on the ground that it would deprive them of the foreign market they required.

Why not concentrate a little more on that phase of the world-wide economic tragedy?

* * *

The American People's Minds Are Made Up

But on the transfer of the debts, the American people's minds are made up. If we are to hear much more of the propaganda, the American people will expect each political party to make its position absolutely clear in its platform. They have been more than generous; they do not intend to be what Mr. Colby calls "suckers."
